REMEDY OR REVENUE?

Rarely does a sitting of magistrate court pass at Lindsay but we hear of at least one and possibly several people appearing before the bench and being convicted of impaired driving or some offense involving the illegal use of liquor. In most cases judgment is in the form of a fine, occasionally a very substantial fine, as was the case with a headlighting conviction this week which carried a fine of $700 plus costs.

It is probably safe to conclude that fines collected for various convictions directly or indirectly attributable to liquor consumption provide the courts of Ontario with their greatest single source of revenue. This is a concerning situation — concerning because there is always the danger that our courts will become more pre-occupied with revenue than with finding a remedy for the problem. In the case of offenses involving liquor, only in a few instances is either a heavy fine, temporary loss of driving privileges or even a jail term, likely to have any lasting effect. The problem is usually much deeper seated than is generally realized and the remedy lies in getting at the root of the problem rather than dealing with the surface evidence of its existence.

It is ironic that in Ontario, where the sale of liquor is a source of substantial revenue, the province, its misuse or abuse is the source of another staggering income, fines imposed upon those who run afoul of the law as a result of indulgence. This combination of factors, considered in the light of the fact that liquor consumption is an unprecedented rate in Ontario, suggests there is a need for reviewing the existing method of marketing alcoholic beverages in this province. There is evidence on every hand to indicate that rather than "control", as was originally intended and as most people interpret the word to mean, we are confronted with the "promotion" of liquor sales on an ever-expanding basis. The price which is being paid for this situation is staggering when considered in terms of human distress and is attendant consequences, economic and otherwise.

Remedy or revenue? This seems to be the choice authorities are called upon to make if the liquor problem in Ontario is to be dealt with effectively.

MASS WEDDING

Only once in their lifetime do ants take to the air — for their brief marriage flight. Commenting in a recent BBC broadcast on this mystery of nature, naturalist and broadcaster Eric Roberts explained that after his first marriage the males died, and the queens returned to earth, stripped their bridal wings, and disappeared below ground for the rest of their lives. They could live for as long as fifteen years, and lay eggs during the whole of their life.

"One of the mysteries about these marriage flights, is how cleverly they are timed to take place at exactly the same hour on the same day. In order to ensure mixing up the families, the brides and grooms from a number of different colonies must contrive to be in the air at the same time and it is the workers who hold the eager ants back and decide precisely the right moment for the 'off'. These workers are the ants that do everything from looking after the young to constructing the whole of the nest, and in some uncanny way they know exactly when these flights should be launched. Whether the workers actually put the young couple on the back and wish them good luck, I would not like to say — but that would not surprise me either."

Fall annual paves the way for curlers November start

Membership up, new skips named, many improvements carried out

Lindsay curlers will open the 4th ANNUAL FALL 1963-64 season November 24th on guaranteed ice pads and with an increased membership. President John Bell chaired the annual fall meeting which was held in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall on Monday night and the meeting was so well organized that business matters were handled with dispatch. There was very little evidence of controversial items on the agenda.

The meeting of skips to select rinks will be held next Monday night and the number of skips was increased to 40, allowing for 160 curlers. Last season's skip was increased to 40, plus eight new ones. The new skips are: Bellamy, Carly, Eberts, E. Goodwin, Jameson, Lindsay, Quirk and Tummison.

IMPROVEMENTS

Lindy Mackey and Mill. Eddicot of the ice committee reported that although it was estimated that improvements to the ice and club quarters would be in the neighborhood of $2,200, in order to make a thorough job, it will be necessary to spend $3,000. "Everything that human hands can do to improve ice conditions had been done," said Mr. Mackey. Shopping showed a strip of clay of No. 5 sheet and manila sleepers holding the artificial ice pipes were found to be two and three feet short. A large number of pipes were not fastened securely on the sleeper, and the brine in the pipes had not been changed for 17 years instead of every two or five years. These conditions have been remedied and to further ensure a better ice foot of sand has been levelled across the entire rink and the pipes will be altered to match the stone on the east. Improvements will be paid out of the $1,500 donation received from the ladies section.

Members discussed at some length the question of ice allotments for men's curling, commercial group nights, mixed curling nights and nights for the business girls group. This proved to be the only controversial item and the whole matter of ice allotment was referred back to the executive.

Past President Lou Walker said the mixed curling group will be increased by several new members and the group of 24 rinks, the number might be 36. It is expected that the business girls membership will

One automobilist, who exceeded the speed limit in Lindsay was caught in police court this morning when a Midland man was fined $5.00 and costs by Police Magistrate Jackson for speeding his car on Bond St. on September 20th. Through his lawyer, Mr. A. M. Fulton, he pleaded guilty. The information was laid by Chief Chilton who intends keeping a sharp look-out for all speed fiends in future. This practice must cease and the sooner reckless auto drivers realize this, the better. The public must be protected.

Convention

Three was a large attendance at the Victoria County Teacher's Convention held at the Central School today. In the neighborhood of 150 teachers were present, and Secretary Trask has a very busy time entering up their names and supplying those who applied with tickets to see "Lauren" the first concert on Mr. C. Forsyth's Lyceum Course for this season. Nearly everyone of the teachers are going and seem to be taking two or more friends with them.

Haliburton-Hundreds of visitors passed through the village recently from over the province and several United States cars were noticed. Some were only visitors, other sightseers and some fishermen and many were just visitors at the resorts. Artists had a busy time and some beautiful pictures were sketched of the trees and picturesque landings in the most glorious colors ever seen in the country.

Members of the choir of Banquet Street United Church, with their friends were guests of the official board of the church at a banquet held in Cedar Village, Balsam Lake, the gathering numbering some 56 in all. PEACH MERINGUE TOWERS
Nut Pastries: 6 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/2 cup white sifted all-purpose flour; 3/4 cup finely chopped California walnuts; 1 lightly beaten egg yolk; 1/2 cup Crisp Meringue; 1 egg white (at room temperature); 1/2 teaspoon vanilla; 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar; 1/4 cup sugar.
Raspberry Sauce: 1/2 cup sugar; 1 tablespoon cornstarch; Dash salt; 1/2 ounce package frozen red raspberries, thawed; 1/2 cup water; 1 tablespoon lemon juice; 2 pints thick Neapolitan ice cream; 8 large canned peach halves, chilled and well drained.

For pastry, cut the butter into small bits with pastry blender. Mix pieces are size of small peas. Add nuts, toast. Add enough water to egg yolk to make 1/4 cup liquid. Sprinkle 1 tablespoon of the liquid over the top of the flour. Gently toss with fork; push to one side of bowl. Repeat, using as much of the liquid as necessary to moisten all. Gather up with fingers, form in ball. On lightly floured surface, flatten ball slightly and roll 1/4 inch thick into a rectangle, about 16 x 7 inches. With pastry wheel or sharp knife, cut in eight 4 x 5-inch rectangles. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Prick well. Bake in hot oven 40 deg. 10 to 12 minutes or till lightly browned. Cool on rack.

For the meringues, beat egg white, vanilla, cream of tartar, and salt till frothy. Gradually add sugar, a small amount at a time, beating till very stiff peaks form and sugar has dissolved. Cover cookie sheet with foil or ungreased paper. Swirl meringues from large star pasty tube (or use spoon) onto paper. Bake in very slow oven (275 deg.) 45 minutes. Turn off heat and let dry in oven (door closed) at least 1 hour.

For sauce, mix sugar, corn starch and salt in small saucepan. Add raspberries and water. Cook and stir till mixture thickens. Boil 2 minutes. Stir in lemon juice. Serve, then chill.

To assemble: Cut each brick of ice cream into 4 slices; place one on each pastry square. Top with a peach half (rounded side down) and a meringue puff. Drizzle with sauce and garnish.

Western's five-run opening spurt fails to withstand Carbide fire

Five runs in the first two innings spelled out defeat for the Western Merceries at Little Britain when Buzz Hodgson came to the rescue and smuffed the Mercs on two hits and one run the rest of the way. Faced with the five-to-nothing deficit, Union Carbide fought back and had the game tied at five all at the end of four frames. They added three in the sixth and one in the eighth to claim a 9-5 win and tie the best of seven final series at two games each.

How Bardwell started for Union Carbide and fell victim of four Carbide errors and four Mercury hits by the time he had one out in the second frame. A shift change sent Doug Kelly into left field, Ron Jewell to right field, John Horton to centre field, Jack Spratt to first base, and Buzz Hodgson to the mound and the new combination proved a winning one. Carbide bats also came to life as they nibbled on Craig Case's slants for a total of ten hits, not more than two in any inning and scored nine runs in the next six frames.

Eight Mercury errors did little to help Craig Case bear the brunt of the Carbide attack, and Ted Birchard added to their miseries when he talked himself out of the ball game in the top of the fourth after being tagged out at home plate, breaking up the smooth working Western infield.

proved costly to the Mercs. Well over two hundred fans took in last night's game and once the game was tied even Bill Cummins, umpiring at first base, had difficulty making himself heard. Buzz Hodgson brought on the loudest shout of all when he lived a homer through the middle that ended against the centre field barrier some three hundred and forty-five feet distant to tie the eighth inning.

Dave Wainman started the Mercs off with a bang when he lined a single past Bob Gowden playing in close at third. Merle Reads singled over second and Birchard was safe on the error to load the bases. The Mercs rallied however with a double play. Paul Ashmore singled to John Horton in deep right field and the throw was in time to tag Wainman out. Don Jackett however never batted in two runs with a double, and two walks loaded the bases again before Vaughn Case's slant hit the glove of Bushey at third. In the bottom half, a foul to the catcher and a pop to short had two out. Merle Reads had difficulty with Morley Daynes' grounder and Buzz Hodgson beat out a hard bounce to third to put two on. Spratt's bounce to third ended the rally.

Jerry Becke had trouble with Craig Case's grounder to start the second, and Wainman laced Case, to second. Reads walked and Birchard doubled Case home. The throw was dropped at second permitting Reads to score and Birchard moved to third when the throw was dropped at the plate. This brought on the shift change. Ashmore laced Reads home and Jackett started proceedings again with a single to left. Bushey walked but Francis fanned leaving two on. Union Carbide threatened again in the second after two were out. Jerry Becke and Doug Kelly both singled. Merle Reads booted Pearson's bounce but threw to the plate in time to tag Becke trying to score from second.

Ted Birchard started the Mercs off in the fourth with a single and went to second on a passed ball. An infield out moved him to third, and Don Jackett bounced to Morley Daynes at short. Daynes checked Birchard then fired to first in time to get Jackett. Spratt rifled a throw to the corner of the plate in time for Ashmore to tag Birchard. Ted raised quite a fuss and watched the remainder of the game from the bench. Ken Johnson was inserted in Birchard's place in the line-up, going to centre field, with Vaughan Pogue coming in to second. Andy Bushey to third and Merle Reads to short.

Union Carbide used two hits and two Mercury errors to tie up the ball game in the bottom of the fourth. Case fanned Jewell. Jerry Becke singled to right. Doug Kelly bounced to Wainman at first and his throw to third was high permitting Becke to score. Danny Pearson beat out a bunt single and Bob Gowden's bunt was rifled past first allowing Kelly and Pearson to score. Morley Daynes sacrificed Gowden home with a long fly to right for the fourth run and Hodgson bounced back to the pitcher.

Western's broke the tie in the fifth with a tainted run. Bushey fanned. Francis swung on a bad third strike that got away from Danny Pearson and he beat the throw to first. Pogue's bounce forced Francis at second and Case walked. Wainman then hit a double over second scoring Pogue. Reads grounded out.

Bob Francis prevented Union Carbide from scoring in the fifth when he made a spectacular catch of Spratt's high, most behind third. Spratt was on third before he realized the ball had been caught. Horton followed with an infield single. Jewell then hoisted to left and the ball squirted out of Francis' glove but Case fanned the next three leaving the pair on base.

Hodgson handcuffed the Mercs through the final four frames with only one batter getting on base for a walk in the eighth. In the sixth he fanned the first batter and tossed the next two out at first. In the seventh he struck out two and one lined to Daynes' short. Case walked to open the eighth. Wainman hoisted to Jerry Becke. Reads forced Case at second, and was out himself for taking a lead-off trying to steal second. In the ninth, Johnson fanned. Ashmore lined to short and Hodgson tossed Jackett out at first.

Union Carbide in the meantime came up with a three run sixth inning and added one in the eighth. Pearson walked and was sacrificed to second. Daynes doubled to right scoring Pearson. Hodgson bounced to Wainman who threw to a beat of five set for the Dr. Bushey too late to get Daynes. Spratt fanned and Horton Angled Daynes home. Jewell's source got away from Wainman allowing Hodgson to score the third run before Jewell was forced by Becke.

To top it off the fans got what they were waiting for in the eighth when Hodgson blasted a pitch to the centre field barrier for his fifth homer of the series.

The fifth game of the series is scheduled to be played at Little Britain Thursday evening at seven p.m. Union Carbide won the first and fourth game, Westerns the second and third.

ED SULLIVAN ON STUDEBAKER

Today we introduce the beautiful new 1964 Studebaker.

You will find it different from any other car. We are an independent company, with independent ideas.

We think the small cars are too cramped and flimsy, the big ones too expensive and hard to maneuver.

We have built this thinking into the new Studebaker. We set new standards in interior space. The car is longer than last year but it has lost none of its maneuverability.

It is built like a fort. It makes no compromise. We're proud of this.

If you're a family man, you'll want your car to be the safer one. The road. Studebaker is exactly that. For example, completely padded rear-impact pads are standard on all models.

And Studebaker surrounds you with a "grid of safety" - like "bridge construction." Armor Guard frame. You can have rubber door covers, the safest kind in the world.

If you're a car enthusiast, you'll like a "hot" car - and Studebaker can match performance with cars costing $2,000 to $4,000 more.

If you're a business man, you'll prefer the "big value" dollar to the "low" dollar. Studebaker does not "slump" down to a price, but builds up to high standards of comfort and economy.

If this kind of car appeals to you, we invite you to see the beautiful '64 Studebaker - the one car that's different...by design.

Fenelon WI to support new FWIO project

Fenelon Falls (PNS)—Fenelon Falls Women's Institute resumed their regular meetings when they met at the home of Mrs. D. A. Scott.

The president, Mrs. J. D. Thomson welcomed everyone with a special greeting to the visitors and new members, after which the meeting was opened in the usual manner.

Minutes of the June meeting and the financial reports were given by Mrs. D. A. Scott, and a lengthy business period followed, to clear up the important matters which had accumulated during the summer recess. One of the more important questions discussed was the project of the FWIO, which is help to the Indians and Eskimos in Northern Canada. This is a self help programme which establishes teaching the citizens in Northern Canada that they may teach others. It was decided to support this project by purchasing a $10 gift certificate. An invitation to attend "Open House" at the Training School in Lindsay was accepted with thanks and several ladies volunteered to drive their cars on that date. A two day school on "Deserts" will be held at the Government Building early in October. It was decided that two ladies should attend this school, and later give instruction to the village ladies on the course.

Mrs. A. W. McGee gave the report on the list of blindcraft held during the summer. Proceeds of the sale amounted to $352.80. In response to a request from the White Case Club of Lindsay, it was decided to entertain the club when supper will be served in the United Church lower hall. Fenelon Falls WI will also provide one number for the programme. A committee was named to make necessary arrangements for the evening. Mr. Scott read the Good Cheer Report. In the absence of the convenor, Miss Y. McInnes.

An interesting commentary on The Pitcher Plaid, the emblem of Newfoundland was read by Mrs. McInnes.

The programme arranged by Mrs. J. Halligan convenor of Home Economics and Health was opened with a reading by Mrs. H. Popert entitled "A Homemakers' Recipe for a New Outlook" after which Mrs. McGee read an excellent paper on "Back Allments". It is reported that some eight million Canadians have back injuries. Mrs. Halligan read a paper which told many simple ways in which a back may be injured. This year Fenelon Institute entered a display in the Lindsay Centennial Exhibition and Mrs. McGee gave a short talk on the display. Mrs. Popert read another poem before the meeting was closed.

While lunch was prepared the ladies viewed the Fair Display and congratulated those who had prepared the exhibit on which they were awarded sixth place, however the marks for the display were very close with only 16 marks separating the first and sixth place.

Plans to attend "Open House" at the Training School were completed during the lunch hour.

The "Heads of Haliburton" have a bonnie tartan all of their own. Norman Craig, secretary - manager of the Highlands of Haliburton Chamber of Commerce collected the first five bolts of the new tartan from Canadian Pacific Express office in Lindsay on Tuesday.

The new registered tartan will be made into kilts and skirts and ties and shirts and many other tourist items. The colours of the tartan will be incorporated on Chamber of Commerce literature and publicity.

The colours in the tartan have meanings according to Norman Craig. The green represents the forests of the highlands, the blue the lakes, and the white, the snows and the white trillium, flower of Ontario province. The red and gold together represents the shadings of the autumn foliage and the brown stands for the pioneers that first settled in Scotland.

The new tartan, the result of many months of work and consideration by members of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber was designed by Miss Patricia Jenkin of Gagetown, New Brunswick, proprietor of Loomcrafters of Gagetown and was hand-loomed in Scotland.

"We are expecting big results with the new Highland tartan," Mr. Craig declared.

Up Again
The proposed pension increase comes up again in the House of Commons today and it's the hope of some of the members that the debate will be quieter than yesterday. Yesterday, Liberals and Conservatives started a shouting match over the legislation and one member commented later that the scene looked "more like a kindergarten than a group of adults."

Denies Report
Canada's controversial Federal Health Minister Judy LaMarsh has denied the ever said Quebec's proposed pension plan could cause a sort of National Socialism as Nazi Germany had. She told the House of Commons yesterday that a Toronto newspaper had misquoted her. Quebec Conservatives Louis-Joseph Pigeon refused to accept her denial and said he had more faith in the newspaper than in the health minister.

"Faint Hope"
The government is clinging to a "faint hope" that eleven hour proposals may mean a proposed trusteeship on Canada's five Maritime unions won't have to go into effect. Both Prime Minister Lester Pearson and Labor Minister Allan Rock have said they would prefer a private settlement of the Great Lakes dispute rather than the trusteeship bill.

Destroys Mill
The Cuban Government reports a "pirate ship" attacked and destroyed a lumber mill on the northeast coast of Oriente Province the government says the attack was carried out early yesterday. The ship—according to the report—escaped "to the north"—a reference to the United States.

Announces Support
The Algerian army has announced its support for President Ahmed Ben Bella and denounced the rebels who seek to oust him. The statement reaffirming the army's loyalty came as heavily-armed government troops moved to isolate the rebels in a mountain region east of Algiers. Although there has been no bloodshed since the rebel began Sunday, a showdown appears near as Ben Bella's troops inch toward the rebel stronghold.

Next 48 Hours
A Washington newspaper

While Japan is developing industrially and economically, it is an enigma spiritually. This statement was made by Rev. R. K. McLean, Cambridge St. United Church minister at Lindsay, during a broadcast sponsored by the Bay of Quinte Conference.

Recently returned from several weeks spent in Japan, he mentioned especially the tremendous building programs which are underway through out the country.

Noting that Japan is fast taking her place among the top nations of the world, Mr. McLean said that although the people still cling to their own religion, they are yearning for, and ready to receive, the Christian faith. He said the church has a great challenge in facing up to the situation in an awakening Japan.

A GOOD CATCH

THIS is an amusing story to work among friends. It calls for a conspiracy against one you want to "trip." As you're seated or standing together for a round of cards, suggest a game in which you pay-as-you-go will place right hand palm up on the table-top or counter; then at the count of three, the last man to slap his hand down is "wrecked with the catch."

At the number three, you and your confederates should lift your hands and put them in your pockets. Your victim is the only one to slap the counter. Therefore he will lose one hand and be wrecked.

Chances are that instead of being wrecked, the victim will be the trick one some one else.

A Sweet Trub in Sweet Tooth

YOU can see for yourself one of the wonders of nature—crystallization—through making something sweet.

Take a pencil or rod, three pieces of wax, a tumbler, some sugar, water and some oil.

Put one and three-fourths cups of sugar into the sugar pan of water over heat, and stir the mixture until the sugar has dissolved. When it has cooled a little, pour it into the glass in which you have mixed the three clear pieces of string, weighted down, as shown below.

As a couple of hours or so, you will see crystals start to form on the string and grow. The process will continue until you have a string of old-fashioned rock candy.

Which One Won?

ARTHUR, Bruce, and Ed, three boys, decided to have a race at camp. Back home, they gave their reports on the race.

Arthur said, "I was second. Bruce stated, 'David won, I was last.'"

Could said, "Bruce was second. I was fourth."

David stated, "I was third. Arthur said, 'Bruce won, I was second.'"

The above is one of the progressive sports described by a new book, "161 Science Projects" by George K. Black, published by Prentice-Hall. Another book filled with similar challenges is "Science Games" by Charles Wynn, published by Rinehart. We recommend both for informative home diversion.

Each boy made one true and one untrue statement. Knowing that, how did each finish in the race at camp?

September 30, 1963

Last Sunday morning it was cold, wet and generally disagreeable. A poor start for the second day of the Festival of colour. I had just turned on the stove and was preparing the coffee when Fenwick hammered on the door. Yawning and stretching I opened the door and let "the Finch" in.

Looking around the kitchen and sniffing he said, "Gittin' breakfast are ya? Forget it — the chuck wagon's in. Let's go down and get some good, old fashioned flapjacks and coffee — I'm buying this time."

With Fenwick buying it was too good to miss. We drove down to Ross Ward's Esso Station and there was the chuck wagon. The smell of coffee and the flapjacks was almost too much.

"Reminds me of when I was again if he can scrounge a prospecting and mining 'pass' from someone, other around South Cobalt years ago," said Fenwick. "They say this lad's pretty handy with the skill—let's try him out."

We did and the panache, covered with Haliburton Highlands' Maple Syrup, were something to write about — which I'm doing.

Finishing the grub and grog Fenwick surprised me by reaching into his pocket — "You can't be sure of it."

"He wasn't kidding", I thought to myself, "he's really going to spring for the tab."

Going over to the cashier, Fenwick passed over a faded sheet of paper. I might have known —

"This ought to cover the vit-ber for Victoria and Haliburton files," he said, "she's a complimentary ticket from Bob Harvey Sr."

The chuck wagon is part of the Haliburton Highland Colour Festival and leaves Carleton Place on Sunday, Oct. 7, down Scenic Highway to Minnow Lake. The past weekend it was possible.

During our coffee-break several well-wishers came over to let me tell you this. Mr. Mowbray said he was on his election. This was all I was just crying on his shoulder.

The chuck wagon is a trailer remodelled to look like a car. It has covered chuck wagon and the cooking and serving are done from it.

The driver of the wagon was Murray Burton, on leave from the air force — the efficient waiting staff were Miss Glenda Medley and Cynthia live of politicians try for and only bad as you think and after a few adjustments everything of hundreds of cases where should be in good shape — and nail and shortly after that just give us a chance."

"This makes sense" I disagree with over they thought as I cooled down, were as thick as they were before. Leaving the car with Ross I for. Not with the adults who went down street. I had the helped separate them — the whole day to 'put in around fight was three or four years town so I began to think in the age and the mothers or fathers prejudiced business — and of the children involved haven't spoken to each other here's what happened.

since. This is the type of pre-judice I'm afraid of.

I never realized there were so many prejudices, large and small in a community — not only Lindsay — but every place I have visited. With a day to think things over it gave me quite a shock and something to ponder.

None of us, no matter our race, politics or religion, are free from or protected against prejudice. At some time or other we are exposed to it. We are either the hunter or the hunted. Either way it is a disagreeable spot to be in.

It is prejudice that closes our minds to the truth and knowledge which would enable us to work together in friendship, vote with intelligence, worship in understanding, and avoid international disputes. In my case, my prejudice had blinded me to the fact that of the other three Ford products I had owned — not one of them had ever let me down or given me undue trouble — this is a common failing with people — we are too quick to condemn and too slow to comprehend.

We are all entitled to like what we like. It is prejudice that closes our eyes to the other side of the case — which is so dangerous and awe-inspiring is the 100% prejudice used to run cars as they do on the other side of the case — the kind that only allows one the explanation — a one YOU naron and works its way selfish co-operation and help-company as far as I was concerned we had no one that doesn't meet this standard is right. As long as people live and do things they will make mistakes — the only people who are never mistaken are the dead.

The people with prejudices have a motto, "My mind is made up—don't confuse me with the facts!" So many people say "I think as children — we should be more adult in our approach — I couldn't agree more. The older I get the more I realize the 'kids' have been as good as you. You can think what's it — be around next week?"

Near Goderham, over the weekend, one dog less — this dog used to run cars as they went by his driveway — he apparently misused and paid for his error in judgment with his life.

I guess what we need is more faith in everything and a closer look at our own faults instead of worrying about the next guy. Speaking of faith I heard of a Negro preacher who prefaced his sermon with the remarks — ("—here you is comin' in to pray for rain, I'd like to ask you one question — where is your umbrella?")

That's it — be around next week?

A LOVELIER YOU

By MARY SUE MILLER

SEARCH FOR LOVELIER HANDS. Many lovelies quest for prettier hands, as do they wish to. And the most frequent cause of failure, it seems, are problem nails.

So let's investigate the difficulties and the means of overcoming them.

• Ingnails and Ragged Cuticles. These pests usually result from an error in technique—cutting the cuticles. Just pare the skin, and the cuticles lose their jaggedness in time. To keep them tidy, apply cuticle remover and push them back with an ungreased stick. At bedtime, massage in cuticle cream or oil.

• Discolored Nails and Fingertips. Stains under and around the nails can be removed with a cotton swab, first lathered with soap then dipped in hydrogen peroxide. Several applications are needed to bleach dark stains.

• Weak Nails. Habitual breaks may be due to some systemic or dietary deficiency. Thus, a medical check is a wise step to a remedy. For another, avoid abuse—stop using tools to cure your nails for instance. And to guard them further from external injury, make use of strengthening cream, and exercise or cottage with protective protectors.

Generally speaking, all these problems respond to extra-frequent manicures. Softer cuticles, less staining, and less breaking would be the much desired result.

Ontario elects first negro

Toronto, Sept. 30 (UPI)—Liberal standard bearer Leonard Braithwaite, 39-year-old lawyer, tonight became the first negro ever elected to the Ontario legislature when he won in Toronto's Etobicoke.

He was also the first negro to have served on the Etobicoke Township Council and the Board of Education.

A Toronto native, he graduated in commerce and finance from the University of Toronto, obtained a master's degree in business administration from Harvard and was a Gold Key winner at Osgoode Hall.

He served overseas with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Election echoes

A Lindsay boy was re-elected on the P.C. ticket in the person of Hon. Robert Macaulay, in Riverside, Toronto. As a cabinet member he held two portfolios in the Robarts government.

Premier John Robarts did not come as many seats as the "Old Master" — Hon. Leslie Frost — with his high of 83 seats. The former premier was at Tory headquarters as the returns were pouring in and was greatly interested in seeing so many ministers of the cabinet re-elected. This he said, was a complete rebuff of Liberal Leader Wintermeyer's oft repeated insinuations of scandal and corruption.

Clayton W. Hodgson, for 18 years federal representative in Victoria and Haliburton, heard the returns at his Haliburton home. He and Mrs. Hodgson were extremely pleased with their sons, Glen and Les, who were elected for the first time in Victoria-Haliburton and Scarborough East. One of the Scarborough's chief supporters was another boy, Richard Sutton, former member in Scarborough. Incidentally, Mr. Sutton is married to a daughter of the late Thomas Hodgson of Lindsay.

There was plenty of excitement at the P.C. rooms on Russell Street and a number of workers listened with interest to the mounting Hodgson majority. They were interested also in a small pool started to see who could come closest to guessing their candidate's final majority. Mrs. Glen Hodgson won it.

Hugh Davidson, Deputy Returning Officer at the community hall, Oakwood, flatly contradicted the "rumor" circulated in Lindsay on election day that two farmers cast four votes. The allegation was to the effect that the two farmers reported their wives were unable to get to the polls and that they asked for and secured two ballots and cast them in preference for their wives. "There is nothing to that wild story," said Mr. Davidson.

It would cost about $2,400 to purchase the necessary ingredients and the tea and coffee and soup bowls, he said.

"We have the funds to do it and I think any improvement would be well while".

It was decided to try a few samples and, if satisfactory, to purchase 140 units.

"It is a distressing situation and we must have a better setup", remarked Dr. Armp.

Pictured above following their wedding in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Lindsay, are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson. The bride is the former Jean Violet Hore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hore, of Little Britain, Ontario and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Wilson, of Scarborough, Ontario.

St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Lindsay, was decorated with white Shasta mums, all pink carnations and a white carpet on September 7, 1963, at 1:30 p.m. when Jean Violet Hore, of Scarborough, Ontario and Lawrence George Wilson, also of Scarborough were united in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hore, of Little Britain and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Wilson, 96 Wayne Ave. Scarborough, Ontario.

Rev. Father R. Hart officiated and Barry Thorne, of Woodville was soloist. Accompanied by Miss Ruth Shannon of Lindsay, he sang "Ave Maria" and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother".

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown of French silk, a short pea de soie which was fashioned with a rounded neckline going to a V at the back and long lily-pole sleeves. The skirt was abetsthele in front and the back fullness started from the hips and fell into a cathedral train. A bow, with floor-length streamers attached to it, accented the bride's waistline. Her triple bouffant illusion veil was caught by a heavily double crown of crystal and mother-of-pearl droplets and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink Delight roses, white carnations, stephanotis and ivy.

The commission concluded it was the post of her responsibility to ensure delivery providing the marriage was correctly addressed and bore the right amount of money. It was decided to request payment of the amount on the grounds that the commission couldn't understand why the consumer wasn't receiving his bills when he was receiving letters dealing with the matter under consideration.

A leaky faucet or other faulty water consuming equipment in a home or place of business doesn't constitute grounds for protesting a higher than usual water bill. Commissioners agree on this point when they heard a request for a reduction in a bill which was reported to have been much above normal. Reason for the increased water consumption was given as a faulty toilet fixing.

"The summer months are our biggest problem", he said, "but we are giving the situation close scrutiny and it will be while before we can iron it out."

NOTICED... along the way

The smell of burning soft coal and the wail of a steam locomotive whistled filled the air at intervals in Lindsay for a few hours Saturday, when one of the last active models of the railway steam engine era took a breather here during an excursion trip. Canadian National Railway's engine number 9167 is seen above as the built up steam for the return trip to Toronto. The engine hauled a special Upper Canada Railway Society trainload of railroad fans en route to Halliburton, as far as Lindsay. It laid over here while the train was taken by double-header diesel units to Halliburton and return. Hundreds of photographs were taken of the steam locomotive while it shuttled around the yards at Lindsay. The picture above, shot at the fireman pit, shows the engine being a veteran railroader to remark: "You can easily see why people wouldn't want the steam locomotive era to return."

The committee brought back memories of the days when only steam locomotives did ply this area and complaints about the smoke from them were a dime a dozen. People complained about the damage to the paint on their houses, households "raised Cain" about soot on their lawns and gardens. The council was frequently petitioned to do something about the situation.

Time passed and the situation did something about it. Diesel locomotives gradually took over from the steam. The coal storage depot was never built after the big fire, the water tower, roundhouse and eventually the station itself, disappeared from the horizon, along with most of the work which the railway used to provide for people living in Lindsay.

Even this wasn't sufficient to make everyone happy. The disels presented some problems too. Parked on siding here, they were blamed for interfering with television and the pounding of the idling engines was resented by those living nearby. Instead of belching black smoke, they poured out copious quantities of burning diesel oil fumes and these, too, brought down the wrath of some who inhaled them with their sweat-soaked heads.

In spite of all the beefs which attended the steam locomotive, it was apparent on Saturday that many people still had a soft spot in their hearts for them. The train itself was heavily-laden with fans and scores of people flocked to score the engine as it panted, hissed and belched smoke and steam on the Lindsay siding. Probably the same sort of nostalgia will exist when atomic power takes over from the diesel and that form of locomotion is faced with extinction.

The committee brought back memories of the days when only steam locomotives did ply this area and complaints about the smoke from them were a dime a dozen. People complained about the damage to the paint on their houses, households "raised Cain" about soot on their lawns and gardens. The council was frequently petitioned to do something about the situation.

Time passed and the situation did something about it. Diesel locomotives gradually took over from the steam. The coal storage depot was never built after the big fire, the water tower, roundhouse and eventually the station itself, disappeared from the horizon, along with most of the work which the railway used to provide for people living in Lindsay.

Even this wasn't sufficient to make everyone happy. The disels presented some problems too. Parked on siding here, they were blamed for interfering with television and the pounding of the idling engines was resented by those living nearby. WORRIED ABOUT HYSTERECTOMY

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I'm exactly three weeks in due for surgery to remove my uterus. I am terribly concerned about what is to happen.

I am 30 years old and have two beautiful children. We hadn't planned on having any more, but just the same I feel like something drastic is going to occur mentally. I've always had difficult periods and up to three years ago have felt very uncomfortable with a prolapsed uterus.

Two doctors decided on removal of the uterus. They say the operation won't cause any problems concerning fertility, menopause, intercourse, etc. Nevertheless, I remain terribly concerned. Will you please take time to give me a few words to calm me, Dr. Steincrohn?

Incidentally, I've checked with the hospital to find out if it is an accredited institution. It is not as yet. They say they will get proper accreditation within a year. That raises doubts in my mind as to whether to have surgery there, also.

whether my doctors who are on the staff are able. What would you do? Mrs. C.

Comment: I'd want my operation in a properly accredited hospital. I'd also insist on consultation with an outstanding gynecologist in your community before undergoing such surgery. I'm sure your doctors won't object.

Let's suppose there's no question you need the operation and that you will have a fine surgeon do it in a fine hospital. I think you are inviting unnecessary grief by allowing yourself to become so preoccupied with MAY happen. So many women have told me their hysterectomy caused them no more grief than a tonsillectomy.

DIFFICULT TO PRECISE REACTIONS

I have seen others who had emotional reactions. It is difficult to predict which women will react badly with hysterectomies, nervousness and extreme anxiety and depression. I recall a girl in her mid 20's who had no postoperative or convalescent problems at all after her uterus was removed.

In her case, one might have expected poor postoperative adjustment. Met, another patient, a woman in her motor pause, and a grandmother (not times over, couldn't bring herself to accept the fact that she was now without a uterus).

Call it psychological, hormonal or whatever you will, not all women react with predictability to removal of the uterus. For that matter, neither do all men react the same way after prostatectomy. Therefore, I suggest Mrs. C. that you try to go into this thing chipmunk Fear invites fear. If you allow yourself to get too scared before the operation, you may be laying the groundwork for unnecessary future trouble.

For Mrs. H: Neither does diverticulosis (little outpouchings in the bowel) require any treatment when there are no symptoms.

For Mr. V: Don't feel like a martyr in the presence of your friends who still smoke. I congratulate you; but there's no bigger bore than the one who keeps telling how he gave up tobacco.

ANSWERS AD FOR PROSTATE CURE

Dear Dr. Steinhorn: Repeatedly you have expressed concern about the many charlatans and quacks who prey on the sufferers of arthritis and similar degenerative disease, and you have voiced your profound commiseration with the victims of these cultures.

UNDER TREATMENT

I am afflicted with prostate gland trouble (I am 63), and I have been under treatment by a respected and well-qualified urologist for almost a year. I have improved somewhat. However, the dribbling and the lack of control in the flow of urine continues, and when the urge to void manifests itself I feel it better go immediately or else! (This, at you can well understand, can be terribly embarrassing at times.)

Now, about two weeks ago I noticed an ad, which claims to be able to cure prostate gland trouble. Spurred on by the apparent lack of complete amelioration in my bladder control, I answered the ad and received the brochure. As it was to be expected, the assistants tell in glowing terms the advantages of coming to this place for treatment. However, there are four things I do not like about the brochure:

SALES APPEAL

1. The promise to restore sexual vigor. This obviously plays upon the average male's vanity to whom this particular loss seems to be a blow to his self-esteem.

2. The threat of contracting cancer should one neglect treatment. This I imagine is aimed at instilling a morbid fear and must be regarded as an incentive to act forthwith.

3. The prodding at the end of the message to "Act now!" and "This is your golden opportunity!" To me this smacks of noxious high-pressure salesmanship. Any time I hear or see this brochure I instinctively become wary and "on guard". True, the brochure is enticing and cleverly composed, but I know that many a worthless stock or real estate property is sold in thick-carpeted, mahogany-embellished offices!

4. The endeavor to have one bring also any relative afflicted with arthritis. (Which, of course, would be most beneficial for the pecuniary situation of this organization.)

As I stated in the beginning I am not at all sure Dr. Steinhorn, whether you are in any position to aid me in my quest for truth, not having read the brochure. But by this time you must have formulated some suspicion or exonerated them of guilt.

Not to put you on the spot, let me put it this way: I'll even appreciate a one-word comment, Yes or No.

Comment: I'll be glad to make it a few words. In this case, "guilty until proved innocent." Better stick to your own doctor's ministrations.

Mrs. J.: It is true that some women do not enter their menopausal period until the early or middle 50s. As you know, the usual time is in the 40s. And remember that the

COLICLINE HELPS GOUT

The diagnosis of gout is important, but so is treatment. Although it occurs more commonly in the male, it is the wife who is often the doctor's office asking just what she can do to prevent her husband's attacks; and how to help him when he comes down with the painful swelling in a joint. Q. How can you tell it's gout and not just some other kind of painful arthritis?

A. History is important. When a patient comes in saying that he gets two or three attacks a year in the same joint (with restlessness, pain and swelling which last a few days) we become suspicious. And once on the diagnostic trail, the doctor takes X rays which sometimes show punched-out areas in the joint. Even if there are no such signs, a microscopic examination of the patient's blood for uric acid will show that it is much higher than the normal level of six.

Q. Once you have made the diagnosis, then what can you do for the patient? Is there a special diet and special medicine?

A. As for the diet, I can't have been known to cut down the frequency of attacks, and in some cases to prevent them altogether. Q. Is it true that gout occurs only in the sedentary and the people who live rich (eat rich foods and drink a lot)? A. It may occur in anyone who is susceptible, whatever his habits. But it is true that a moderate amount of exercise, moderation in eating and drinking, and being on the job are obstacles against the steady march of gout.

Dear Dr. Staincrorn: I am sure that there are some gout drugs used in the treatment of high blood pressure sometimes, which cause severe depression?

Comment: I have seen such reactions, a number of times. It is a good rule to consider "drug reaction" in any patient suffering from high blood pressure who, for no apparent reason, becomes severely depressed. If the drug is stopped in time, there is usually no permanent damage. Fortunately, most patients can take antihypertensive drugs without having any depression.

Modern sanitation control in Ontario's urban centres contribute effectively to control of rates in the areas of greatest human population.

Dymond Discusses Health in Ontario

Rats! Get Rid Of Them

Matthew B. Dymond, M.D., C.M.

Ontario Medical Association

The rat is a pestiferous animal. Its man's unending association with the rat has extended from time immemorial. The rat has eaten man's food, given rise to diseases to him, and caused great economic losses. Like man, the rat can live alone, but prefer to live with his fellows on a community basis.

Experience has shown that man can only defend himself against these uncleanest guests by community effort. One householder's attempt to control these pests is of little use if his neighbours do not. The rat is a social animal. Its tasks on this problem are of little use. The programme must be a continuing one.

The Environmental Sanitation Board of the Ontario Department of Health suggests that any programme, to be effective, must accomplish the following: 1) remove rat harbours; that is, not only remove rat harbours, but also prevent them from being established; 2) prevent them from obtaining food; and 3) eradicate the rats which are already present.

All new construction should be so designed that open spaces in the walls of a building (1/4" or over) either do not exist or are protected by mesh. This mesh should be so substantial that rats cannot chew through it, and the openings small enough that they cannot squeeze through. Older buildings should be looked over carefully and all possible rat entryways eliminated. Rubbish, waste building material and earth should be removed from the property.

Rat cannot exist unless their food supply is in close proximity to their shelter. Food should be protected by being stored in rodent-proof buildings, bins or containers. Waste food should be stored in metal garbage cans with tight fitting lids well removed from the structure. These measures are kept, they should be followed during the day and in the summer that no garbage and refuse will be available to feed the rats during the hours of darkness when they are most active.

Most of the methods used for the destruction of rats were ineffective until the advent of the anticoagulant poisons. These poisons are safe as there is little danger of accidental poisoning and where properly prepared, rats do not develop resistance. They will consume the required amount of poisonous feeding until a breakdown in their blood clotting mechanism is brought about. Any wound—even the physiological wear and repair process—constantly going on in the body will result in the rat bleeding to death after a few days.

All necessary steps should be taken to protect humans from these uncleanest vermin, not only for economic reasons, but also for the health and well-being of both our family and the community. The most important information about this problem may be obtained from your local medical officer of health or the Environmental Sanitation Board of the Department of Health.

Mrs. F. Wright hostess to Minden WI

Minden (PNS)—The September installment of Minden Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. F. Wright with Mrs. P. Clarke, vice-president in the chair. After the usual opening the roll call was taken of persons of note in the village. The minutes were read and Mrs. Walker gave the report of Visiting Committee and collection was taken for this. Treasurers report was given by Mrs. Coulter showing a good balance.

Bills are to be paid and this included the prizes for the School Exhibit at the local fair. The group is planning to be conducted on a tour of the Training School at Lindsay and other branches of the district and Mrs. McArthur and Mrs. Sears are to arrange for this.

The branch plans to make a donation to the Special Project regarding the Northwest Territories. A delegate was chosen to attend Central Area Convention and those to visit the local hospital for the month are Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Sears. All members are to contribute prizes for the card party to be given at the October meeting.

Mrs. Lunham gave a very interesting paper on some of Canadian history with stress on the Canadian flag and a note regarding this is to be placed in the Minden paper. The ladies thanked Mrs. Lunham with a hearty call of appreciation. Mrs. Fairfield read us a splendid letter from Mrs. Mary's in Yorkton with notes of happenings in that pastorate.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem and W.I. grace and a delicious lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. W.A. Welch and Mrs. Angus Coulter.

"A war arose"
The question of Lindsay's decorative lighting came up once again at Lindsay Chamber of Commerce meeting last night. "From our last discussion," said James Nolan, "A war arose."

Mr. Nolan continued, "After reports in the paper last time, some people asked what our interest in the lights was; the lights were donated by merchants. It is our duty to see that they are properly used."

This matter was started by Council," said Chairman F. C. Pugh. "I caused the uproar in the papers. I don't like to see the bickering that goes on in this town. Why can't people be a little and get together? Mr. Lightbody, (the hydraulic chairman) felt that the criticism was unfounded."

"We look just like a circus on the main streets with the lights all year," said Gordon Graham, "we look like a Christmas tree in the middle of summer." he continued, "We should only turn them on at the festive season."

COLD WEATHER KILLER

"Found dead behind the wheel of his car..." How many times these or similar words appear in the press during the cold weather months calling attention to the needless expenditure of another human life! The Ontario Motor League reminds us in an item captioned "Invisible Killer" that "now cold weather isn't too far away, drivers should beware of warming up a car in a closed garage." It goes on to state that "if you start your garage door before starting the engine of your car and do the warming up outside—in a closed garage, an idling automobile can produce deadly carbon monoxide fumes in a hurry."

The warning might be carried a step further and contain a recommendation that motorists take the added precautions of having their exhaust systems thoroughly checked for leaks before winter driving begins and driving with at least a half-dozen feet open to ensure an escape route for fumes which might build up from an undetected leak.

Carbon monoxide fumes are indeed one of the most insidious of all killers and they are odorless and their potential victim is virtually unaware of their presence until they are odorless and their potential victim is virtually unaware of their presence until their lethal attack is well underway. This is one motoring hazard which is often neglected very often means that there is no time to apply a remedy.

Be on guard against this insidious cold weather killer by observing the simple precautions of maintaining a poor exhaust system in your motor vehicle and ensuring that there is an adequate circulation of fresh air within and without while it is in operation.

REVISED RATINGS

Anyone who feels depressed by the suspicion that he may not be the most able living person in his area of endeavor, whether it be soda-jerkery, or philosophy, or playing left corner back on a football team, may be soothed by the knowledge that so much research is constantly being done on almost everything that some future device could reassess his value and give him a higher rating. Perhaps some eager scholar, bucking for a Ph.D., would propose a thesis to prove him the best all-time soda jerk. Conversely, his old enemy along the counter, the one who is a wily with a naive waitress sundae, may be downgraded in future ages.

Encouraging examples from the English Renaissance that the literary establishment now considers the best of that period to have been the wit, Shakespeare, Ben Jonson, John Donne and Fulke Greville. Who in the world is Fulke Greville? For hundreds of years he was known as one of the most influential and wealthy men of his time. Chaucer, the author of "The Canterbury Tales," the first, and a poet who rated second to Sir Philip Sidney. Now the mills as the Ph.D.s, grinding slow an fine, prove Greville as a major poet.

On the other hand, the English writer of the Elizabethan era who was best known during the lifetime was George Gascoigne.

Revere Kyle, Al. Smeal and W.E. Rector, will accompany the Town Solicitor to Toronto when the Board of Railway Commissioners will convene for the purpose of considering the town's application for the removal of the G.W. T. Co's poles off Kent St. His Worship Mayor Ball informed the council he had interviewed President Perry of the Telegraph Co. and suggested that the town and Company should get together and settle the matter without unnecessary litigation. Mr. Perry informed the mayor that he would write him. A letter was received from Mr. Perry stating that the matter was out of his hands and would come up before the Railway Board. The representatives will go up with strong evidence in support of the council's contention that the poles should be removed from the main trunk line. The town of Lindsay has made an application for a hearing in reference to the alleged unsatisfactory train service on the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway, Lindsay, is asked to cooperate with Uchridge in the matter.

Jantville—Mr. Perry Crawford met with an experience while driving his threshing machine across the marsh bridge north of the village. The engine of the outfit was just on the centre of the bridge when it crashed through a block and trucks the machine was finally extricated before night. During the operation traffic was diverted and directed through the farm of Elwood Grandy. The bridge has been in use since that time, having been built some 25 years ago by the late Christie Armstrong, who formerly owned the farm now in the hands of Mr. William Hill.

By MARY SUE MILLER

WHAT TO DO WITH A CARROT TOP. A lovely writer: A redneck is supposed to be a glamorous character. But he would hardly win a beauty contest. It's just got a carrot top, a ruddy complexion and freckles. And that is just what I've got. Is there any hope for me?

The Answer: Cosmetic stand ready to make a knockout of anyone with this coloring. The type is basically dramatic and needs only some clever styling.

The initial effect to aim for is a pale complexion. You can achieve it in two ways: Apply a creamy-beige shade of opaque cream or cream foundation. Or apply two liquid foundations—a creamy-beige over white or neutral under make-up. Both methods eliminate redness; the first more fully blanks out color. As a finish for either, use a blushing powder.

As "toners" for both your skin and hair, wear amber-pink and brown-pinked liquids—subtle rather than intense shades. Make subtly a point in eye cosmetics, too. Wear green shades, amber pencil and mascara were designed for your enhancement.

On trying this makeup you may well discover that your hair is not half as flaxen as you thought. Fair skin and red hair, however bright, are a mildly striking combination. But if you still wish to subdue your hair coloring, you can try a trick with a deep amber shampoo twice. A fairly short, simple rinse might further the cause. Above all, keep your locks nicely groomed. It's the final stroke in becoming a glamorous woman.

Montreal and Boston tied in season's opening game

(United Press International)

The Montreal Hockey League defeated the Boston Bruins 4-4 in a tie game in the season's opening game. The game was played at the Montreal Forum and was a high-scoring affair. Montreal scored first in the first period, but Boston tied the game in the second period. The game ended in a 4-4 tie.

One game is scheduled to night with New York at Chicago. Thursday, Chicago helps Detroit open the new season and Saturday New York is at Montreal and Boston travels to Toronto where they defend league and Stanley Cup Champion Maple Leafs get their first taste of action.

In Boston, Murray Oliver scored his second goal of the night with less than two minutes left to play to earn the Bruins a 2-1 victory over the Red Wings. The Bruins had leads of 2-0 and 3-1 only to give the visiting Canadians the win and go ahead. Oliver and Tom Williams gave the Bruins a 2-0 lead in the first 10 minutes and then the Bruins made it 3-1 with a goal at 14:57 of the middle period.

Montreal Rookie left winger John Ferguson—playing on a line with Jean Beliveau and Bernie Gosselin—scored the Canadiens first two goals and assisted on Gosselin's second.

Two-Ten Team Affair

Toronto coach Phil Inlay says the N.H.L. race will be a two-team affair between the 10 minutes and then the Bruins made it 3-1 with a goal at 14:57 of the middle period.

Little Britain Bantams champs, Dr. Hall Trophy winners

Little Britain Bantams won championship at their food-drum park Monday evening when they defeated Cannington 8-6 to take the best of five series for the league Championship and the Dr. Hall Trophy three games straight.

At present the Little Britain O.B.A. team remains alone in best of five series. They trail the four game to one in it. The best of five series and played the fourth game at Staffa next Sunday. A win for Little Britain will bring the fifth game to Lindsay.

The Boy Scouts have had a couple of interesting outings. On a recent occasion they were guests of the Lindsay Lions Club, to a supper meeting, at which they were presented with their Patrol Flag, a gift of the Lions Club to encourage a boy's work. The past weekend was also an eventful one, when the boys went to welcome a homecoming from Toronto, who spent the weekend at Walter Devereil's camp. The boys and their leaders, 24 and 10 Scouts, to camp out over night with them, and the boys were glad to have such an opportunity to camp out.

Allege "discrimination"

BUSINESSMEN PRTEEST TREATMENT BY OPS TOWNSHIP COUNCILLORS

Lindsay Drive-in operator and former Ops councillor Barry Rogers and Peter Hargrave, owner of The Embassy dance hall claimed today that they had been treated with "a disgusting lack of courtesy" by the reeve and members of Ops Council, and furthermore were being discriminated against with regard to business licenses.

Mr. Rogers told "The Post" that only 3 businesses out of a long list were forced to pay business license fees. These are The Embassy, the Lindsay Drive-in and Lowry's Tavern.

Mr. Rogers said that during discussion on township accounts one councillor remarked: "I didn't quite follow your annual Hot Turkey dinner, but I guess it's all right" and voted for the motion. During this time another man came in regarding land purchase and was dealt with immediately by the council.

Both Mr. Rogers and Mr. Bakogegge say they have spoken to the council before on this matter and were promised it would be looked into, and that they would be notified of the decision. "We got nowhere," said Bakogegge, "our appeals were completely ignored, they didn't even record the appeals in the minutes."

Last October Mr. Rogers said he met with council who agreed that it was right that they should be discriminated against and decided to leave to the 1963 council to deal with the matter.

Councillor Mosson moved that their license payment be suspended but as no second came forward, the reeve ruled the motion lost. Mr. Bakogegge says the deputy reeve then lost his temper and shouted: "If the boys said you should pay, then you should pay."

"The whole situation is just ridiculous," Mr. Bakogegge declared, "we waited hours were treated rudely and did not get any satisfaction."

A war (Continued From Page 1) by came to the defence of the lights. "Merchants have paid good money for them so they must have wanted them."

The members of the chamber finally agreed that Secretary Manager Harry MacDonald should discuss with the Mayor Manager Jack Lightbody the possibility of testing a new bulb that Mr. MacDonald said he had been shown and that should have a lower mortality rate.

Says town should buy land locked in industrial zone and relieve owner of taxes

Residential land locked in an area zoned industrial was the basis of a strong protest from Roy Head at the first public hearing called in connection with the proposed official plan for Lindsay.

Mr. Head, who said he was speaking for a friend who couldn't be told, plan here he felt it was unfair to forbid a person owning land in an industrial zone to be prevented from selling it for residential development.

"Are we going to have to pay taxes for 50 years and not be able to develop our property?" he asked. "You should have consulted the people before this plan was started."

At another point in the meeting, Mr. Head challenged the planners to pursue the matter. "If I own property zoned industrial and can't sell it, the town should buy it and relieve the owners of the taxes he has to pay on it."

Speaking to this matter, Councillor Russell Taylor indicated he was sympathetic to the problem presented. He asked if it weren't possible there could be some relief for the property owner where there are forced improvements (such as servicing an industrial site) and these are charged to the owner.

Mr. Head reiterated his contention that if the town were going to control the use of property was to be put, they should buy the property. All questions and problems arising out of the first of two public meetings called to consider the proposed plan were discussed and Lindsay Board Chairman John Eakins assured those attending the items would come under further planning board public meetings called to consider.

Misfortune strikes twice

Loes Bexley family home In wake of husband's death

Misfortune struck again on Tuesday afternoon when a Bexley Township family was hit by a second tragedy. Through its frame farm dwelling, completely destroyed. The house was located one mile east of Lindsay.

The owner - Mrs. Lloyd Peel, who suffered the loss of her husband two weeks ago - is in Ottawa at the time. It is reported that her daughter Sharon, 15, was alone preparing supper for her brother Elmer, who was working at Balmain Lake, when the fire broke out.

Colebrook volunteer fire brigade fought the blaze under the direction of Fire Chief Jack Elmer for four hours and was able to save a number of buildings nearby including the barn which housed a quantity of feed.

It is not known at this time whether the residence was insured. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Dam water to install water main

Weekend visitors to Minden found the Cull River at a very low ebb after Gap Construction temporarily dammed the river to connect water mains serving the two halves of the town. Work on the water system is far advanced and should be in operation this year.

Guides at firemen's "Open House"

Lindsay Girl Guides were among the many interested visitors to Lindsay's Fire Hall this week when members of the fire department under Chief Arnold Watson welcomed them to their annual "Open House". The visitors were shown various phases of a fire department's operation and use of firefighting equipment were demonstrated and explained. In the top photo, Volunteer Group Leader Charles Barjarow explains the workings of a Scott Air Pack to a group of Guides. In the lower picture "Spook" the department's mascot gets into the act as he accepts a pat on the back from Volunteer Fireman Harold Armstrong who is demonstrating the latest thing in plastic casts which exert pressure on the injured member by air pressure. Another phase of Fire Prevention Week in Lindsay is the carrying out of fire drills in all schools. Fire Chief Watson says in review that the efficiency with which the drills were carried out is a tribute to the effectiveness of regular drills conducted by school principals. The chief also cited increased safety conditions at the schools brought about as a result of school board action in introducing structural changes in the older building. In addition to the in-town phase of the fire prevention activities, the department is visiting 12 township schools, carrying out inspections and distributing literature. Later in the week, lo-

Lawrenson-Smith wedding solemnized in Bowmanville

St. John's Anglican Church, Bowmanville, beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, gladioli and carnations, was the setting for the marriage of Joan Allison McNair Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James William McIntyre Smith, Bowmanville, to James Murray Goudie Lawrenson, B.A. son of Mr. and Mrs. Goudie Lawrenson of Lindsay.

The double-ring ceremony took place on Saturday August 21, 1935, at 4 p.m. and was performed by the Rev. K. J. Frampton, rector of the church. The music was played by Mr. William Perry, of Lindsay, and the soloist was his wife, Jean, who sang "The Twenty-third Psalm" and "The Wedding Hymn". At the conclusion of the marriage ceremony the Sacrament of the Holy Communion was administered to the couple.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a full-length gown of carnation-patterned Chantilly lace and brocade, made by her aunt, Mrs. Jack Abensur, Toronto. The lace bodice featured a scalloped V neckline and long hip-pointed sleeves, and the skirt, fashioned from brocade, was very full in the back and fell gracefully into a slight train. Her elbow-length bouffant veil was caught to a pearlized floral headpiece and the bouquet was a cascade of Cymind orchids, carnations and stephanotis. The bride wore the groom's gift of a strand of pearls.

Mrs. John Stones, Toronto, was matron-of-honour and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Neil Bala, Oshawa, Miss Carol Smith, Bowmanville and the Misses Rosemary Griffith and Hilary Duquesnay of Jamaica, cousins of the bride. Their dresses were of turquoise pseudo-sole with bell-shaped pleated skirts featuring a bow at the front of the waist. Their headresses were large bows of the same material, attached to nose veils and they wore white gloves and turquoise shoes. They carried cascade bouquets of white and yellow shasta daisies. The little flower-girl was Miss Tracey Lee Stones, Toronto, who wore a dainty bouffant dress of white organza, made by the bride's mother, and carried turquoise shasta daisies.

Mr. Keith Hargrave, Toronto, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. John Smith, brother of the bride, Dale Duquesnay, Toronto, Doug Davidson, London, and Howard Nesbitt, Woodville.

The ring-bearer was Master Gregory McNair, Oshawa. The reception was held at the Flynn, Dutchman Motor Hotel, where Stanley Smith, Bowmanville, was master of ceremonies. The guests were received by the bride's mother who wore a sheath dress of holiday blue lace, with a gracefully draped skirt. Her accessories were the same shade of blue and her hat was a small floral one with a veil. A corsage of dusty-pink carnations completed her ensemble. Assisting her was the groom's mother in a gown of lilac lace and organza. Her accessories were a white feathery hat, blue shoes and a corsage of Cymind orchids and stephanotis. During the reception several cables of congratulation from relatives and friends in Jamaica and England were read, and afterwards an evening of dancing was enjoyed. The delicious and exquisitely decorated wedding-cake was made by the bride's mother. The honeymoon was spent touring the New England States to the coast and for her honeymoon ensemble, the bride chose a suit of ir-brant green shantung with a beige blouse of the same material. Her accessories listed her at a dinner held at the Ontario Trading Post and presented her with a set of beautiful Val D'Or china.

Two days before the wedding the bride's mother gave a trousseau tea and, following the rehearsal, the wedding-parade was entertained by the groom's parents at the home in Lindsay.

The bride attended S.S. No. 2, Pension Twp., Peelton Public School; Jamaica and Bowmanville Public and High Schools. Until her marriage she was employed as an Invoice Clerk at the Ontario Training School for Boys, Bowmanville, whose Toronto branch she has now joined. Her interests include winter-sports, tennis, bowling and dancing.

The groom attended S.S. No. 2, Pension Twp., Peelton Public School; Peterborough Teachers' College; Waterloo Lutheran University and will graduate next year from Knox College where he is studying for the Presbyterian ministry. His interests are skiing, badminton, reading and photography.

Pre-Bridal Events
Prior to her marriage, the bride was guest of honour at several parties. A dimmer-party and miscellaneous shower was given by her cousin, Mrs. Fritz Marti, Bowmanville and Mrs. Gerald White, also of Bowmanville, held a winter shower at which the bride's neighbours

Secretary-Manager Harry MacDonald said that in view of the chamber's strong financial position this year compared with previous years he thought it unnecessary to ask merchants for cash donation but hoped the merchants would participate more with floats and activity support. Mount Albert Hatchery

We have doubled the size of our hatchery and we require additional flockowners.

Present flockowners are making up to $250 per bird level profit. You can do likewise. Culling for 2,000 brooders makes the hours per day, and can make you an additional $4000 per year. We have a large extra farm and a large indoor hatchery, and guarantee to take your hatchling eggs at any time.

A Farm Improvement Loan is available to purchase fenders and nests and to renovate space in your barn, or for construction of a new building and no previous poultry experience is necessary. Each brooder hen requires 3 square feet of floor space.

Why not investigate this money making opportunity by contacting Charlie Casson, Flockowner, Supervisor, Chase, Oakview, Cheshire Ltd., Hatchery Division, Mount Albert, Ontario, Telephone 778.

Pretty September wedding at Oakwood United Church

Pictured above following their wedding in Oakwood United Church are Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Frain. The bride is the former Janice Caroline McKinnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Macklin A. McKinnon, of Oakwood, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Frain, also of Oakwood.

Baskets of gladiolus and seasonal flowers decorated Oakwood United Church on September 7, 1963 at 3 p.m. when Janice Caroline McKinnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Macklin A. McKinnon, of Oakwood and John Wesley Frain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Frain, also of Oakwood were united in marriage.

Rev. W.E. Brignall officiated and Mrs. Hugh Smith, of Cambray, was soloist. Accompanied by Mrs. Frank Gourd, of Oakwood, he sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love".

The bride wore a floor-length gown of pearly-ecru. The gown was styled with a sweetheart neckline and long slip-top sleeves. A single pleat accented the front of the skirt and at the back two large box pleats caught by a large belt fell into a small chapel. Her headpiece, a large fabric rose with pearl petals, held a silk illusion veil which came to a point at the waist. She carried a large nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses, white baby mums and white stephanotis.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with white studs and white bow tie. He carried a large nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses, white baby mums and white stephanotis. The bride's mother received wearing a beige lace over-fabric dress which was styled with a rounded neckline and short sleeves. A large fabric rose accented the belted waist. She had a brown fur-fabric hat, brown gloves, purse and shoes and her corsage was of yellow Sweetheart roses on green leaves. The groom's mother assisted wearing a turquoise and gold pleated floral dress which was styled with a round neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. She had a matching turquoise hat, purple and white shoes and her corsage was of yellow Sweetheart roses on yellow leaves.

For a honeymoon to points north the bride wore a black and white three-piece linen suit with a white velvet bow tie and white beaded bag, white shoes and gloves. Her corsage was of pink Sweetheart roses and white poms.

The newlyweds will reside in Lindsay, Ontario. Out-of-town guests were present at the wedding from Woodville, Manilla, Lindsay, Little Britain, Oshawa, King City and Toronto.

Baddow ladies hostesses for Region 4 UCW Rally

The ladies of Baddow United Church were hostesses to the Fall Rally of Region 4 of Lindsay Presbyterian U.C.W. There was an afternoon session only, conducted by Mrs. Maurice Watson, RRI Pensioner. In the absence of Mrs. Hilda Chapman of the Region, Miss Vina Neal, Victoria Road acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Robt. Montgomery of Beley. There was an attendance of approximately 50 from the eight churches in Region 4, including 10 Presbyterian officers and secretaries.

Mrs. Chambers of Baddow gave a very warm welcome to all and a feeling of friendliness pervaded the whole afternoon.

A moment's silence and a short memorial was conducted by Mrs. W. Fisher for Miss Gilmour of Kilmount who was being buried that afternoon.

Since Kilmount is one of the churches in that region, the ladies were present at the rally from Kilmount.

The highlight of this as well as all the rallies is the address of the U.C.W. was the address of The Rev. R. K. McLean of Cambridge St. Church.

In introducing him Mrs. Stanley Murray, President of the Lindsay Presbyterian U.C.W. said, "he is the immediate past president of Lindsay Presbytery. He and Mrs. McLean have collaborated in the writing of the new curriculum which is to come into use in 1964. He has recently returned from Japan where he was sent by the inter-board committee on an evangelistic mission for the summer, as one of a party of 20 from North America, working through inter-board."

Mr. McLean in his opening remarks said he was amazed by attending the 4 rallies at the same time. He based his remarks on a few verses read from J.B. Phillips' translation of Paul's first letter to the Ephesians. Paul speaks of the fact that by faith we receive that "inner illumination of the spirit" because they have become to sense "how tremendous is the power that is available to those who believe in God." He said, "What I have to say about Japan is merely incidental as I try to elucidate the 'inner illumination of the spirit.' Important as what I learned about Japan, is what I learned about Canada while I was there."

He spoke of the solitariness of the Japanese and of anyone who lives outside the gospel. He said that even in the time of their movies one senses this loneliness. "You do not find in an arranged marriage the solidarity that we find in a Christian marriage. The literal translation of the word 'Wife' in Japanese is 'That thing in the back of the head.' A wife may be a very solitary person because she is under the domination of the mother-in-law. This is a traditional thing that goes on from generation to generation. Missionaries saw that the mother-in-law situation is the cause of most of their unhappiness. We in Canada realize what it means to belong to a gathered people who believe in God. You do not realize what it means to have been nurtured in the faith until you visit a church where they have not had this opportunity. There is a lack of trust and in the place of it there is a charming courtesy with which they try to cover this lack. He challenged United Church Women to make adequate preparation for this new curriculum which is to come into use in 1964, to provide adequate teachers, etc. that our children may come to have this 'inner illumination of the spirit'." The Japanese people are imitators. They are just beginning to think for themselves. What happens in Japan may determine the future of the whole of Asia."

A very inspirational worship service was conducted by Mrs. E. Hargrave of Long Point with Mrs. Carker giving a splendid paper on "Christian Love". Mrs. Frank Benson of Orillia read the minutes of 1962. Mrs. S. Davey also of Beley rendered a beautiful solo, "God Understands."

This activity was reported from each organization even though the membership is small and much credit is due these smaller organizations.

Mrs. Murray spoke of Hillcrest Lodge which is a St. Cliven's Lodge at Orillia supported by the Presbytery of Simcoe, Grey, Muskoka, Lindsay and Dufferin and Peel. The U.C.W.'s of these presbyteries are asked to provide furnishings. Lindsay Presbytery share will be $547. This is to be voted on at the annual meeting in January at Beaverton. She also urged the use of Bible Study.

All the other Presbyterial officers present spoke of their work and space will only permit mentioning finance and supply. Finance Chairman, Mrs. Fisher hoped that every organization would send in its allocation plan, and said, "when you have sent in 100% we still not have quite enough for the finance committee has not allocated the whole amount. Some organizations are marked the thank-offering for the allocation which goes to the U.C.W. No money can go for Over and Above until the Board of Women has reached its objective. Donors have the opportunity of specifying where their gifts shall be used. On Sept. 16th the Finance Committee has a finance workshop at Fenelon Falls which includes the president of each local as well as the treasurer, the finance chairman of each local. Each is to bring a box lunch and Fenelon Falls will provide a cup of tea. Miss Olive Geach, Treasurer of the Presbytery said that Region 4 at the end of June had sent in 47% of its allocation. She has also received two contributions of $10 each to the Bursary Fund."

Mrs. Ralph Smith, Supply Sec. reported that 3 1/2 tons of clothing had been sent, 30 bales in May and 78 in June. The T.P.T. has transported these bales to Toronto free of charge. Hazelton, B.C. is our only allocation for a bale of good clothing. They can use pyjamas at all times. Good infants' children's clothing is always acceptable. We had 82 quilts, 21 blankets, 49 babies' quilts, 20 tacked comforters. Rather than quilts, they prefer blankets which can be washed more easily. $2.25 sent to the church treasurer, Mr. Harold Armup, 85 St. Clair Ave. E., Toronto will provide one of these blankets. They also sent 45 pyjamas, 10 pr. socks, 35 lbs of soap and they need more. 70 lbs of old nylon were sent to Korea to be recycled and made into new articles. Drapes woven from old nylons were sent to the new chapel at St. Clair Ave. E. in appreciation of what Canada has done for Korea.

"The Maidens' Viewpoint"

This past week and the Highlands of Haliburton were filled with people enjoying the colour tints and the scenery. Come now — "Ed," you'll have to admit that the recent editorial you wrote about the colours "down south" being so much better than the Northern ones — and that our colour was a "washout" must have been written during a slight mental relaxation. Granted the colours to the south of us are good, in their own way, but compared to northern colours — isn't that?

It appears now that the colour will still be here over the Thanksgiving weekend. Even if the leaves aren't at their best — we have enough scenery left over to make the drive up well worth the trip.

The second chapter of "The Case of the Defunct Comet" is about to be written. I have been assured and reassured from several sources of the fact that the company "stands behind their product." This is fine and as it should be — provided they don't stand "too far behind."

We'll keep you up to date as time moves along.

Got a short note in the mail the other day — the lady that wrote finished by saying "I personally enjoy your column as much as my husband."

The editor, in his daily rounds, meets quite a few problems. Our Editor was handed a story the other day following a fire in a farm residence. A mong the losses was an item — the loss of 2025 pigs. When a lot of pigs to the editor, the editor asked the farmer: "When he came to the 'phone he had quite a pronounced line. 'Is it true you lost 2025 pigs?' asked the editor. 'Yeth' came the liping answer. 'The editor very wisely corrected the story to read 'two sows and 25 pigs.'"

Every once in a while I get involved in a difference of opinion with customers regarding the damage done by spraying underbrush. Sooner or later they quote as their Rachel Carson's book "Silent Spring." No matter what is said — this book is taken as absolute authority on the damage done by insecticides. I was pleased to read this article in the Toronto papers last Thursday — it puts this book into proper perspective and backs up my side of the argument.

Professor A. W. A. Brown of London Ontario, one of the experts quote in the book — "Silent Spring" — had this to say:

"She took a few horrible examples and built them up into a very lucrative book. She allowed herself to be pressured by persons who had a vested interest in opposing insecticides."

The book was described as the work of an "extremist." Dr. Brown said "it is the greatest danger of insecticides came from their use by untrained persons. Officials must weigh the loss of Canada's white pulpwood supply, of forests are not sprayed, against the advantages to be gained from safeguarding fish for U.S. Anglers."

So there you have it — it is to be hoped that the damage done by this book in destroying public confidence in intelligent and informed programs of pest control, by skilled operators, will soon pass away.

Visiting at one of the larger hotels in Toronto recently, a friend of mine was complaining about the cost. "When they handed me my bill I asked them if it would be alright if I made a suggestion." "Certainly sir, what did you have in mind?" "You know that sign you have in all the rooms, Have you left anything?" "Well," came the reply. "Yes," said my friend, "I suggest you change it to read, 'Have you anything left?'"

There was quite a bit of activity over the week-end in Minden. The side-walk engineers were treated to the sight of large diggers, bulldozers and truck fleets working along the east of the river. The Gull river has to be crossed twice with pipes for the new water works.

Speaking of water — to break the routine of coffee drinking I decided last week to try a pot of tea. I ordered tea in three different Lindsay restaurants and it was all inferior — the common denominator, of course, was the water — the smell and taste, even after being boiled has returned me to coffee, where the strength of the brew is strong enough to overcome the water.

Had coffee in the Cottage Restaurant with Gord Cart and Bob Carter of the local radio station. As usual, the conversation covered a wide variety of subjects. Bob Carter seemed to me to be a rather quiet and well-informed young man until I remembered his hobby and we got talking about it.

The man's mad, completely unshared hobby of his — having someone take him up in an airplane to say — a few thousand feet — then flying the plane out of the doorway or whatever you call the opening in the side of a plane and allowing it to float through the air. Tapping arms and legs and soaring like a bird — free-falling until, at the last minute, he opens his parachute and floats gently to the ground. Must be quite an experience — but too rich for my blood — the highest I ever get off the ground is when I'm talking to Gord Cart — then, I draw my self up to my full five-foot six, sit down in a chair a pop case to even things up. This way I can almost meet Gord face to face.

Don't get me wrong — I envy Brother Carter, his nerve and skill but it's not for me....

Dogs and more dogs. The past week I noticed more dogs than ever running free and easy throughout the town and country. Must be the by-law restricting their activities has been lifted. This by-law of course never really interfered with their moving about but now they may be able to do it legally.

Well, as they say, 'It's a dog's life.'"

Driving through Carnarvon and Gooderham this past week it is almost unbelievable the amount of building that is going on. New homes, new businesses — and judging from the past season — the Highlands of Haliburton are just coming into their own. The next ten years should show quite an upswing in business. More and more people are referring to Minden and Haliburton — they are building new homes and starting a new life. These people who are retiring here are for the most part, highly skilled people, many trades and many arts. Most, that I have been speaking 10, I have no intention of "withering on the vine," they have ideas of working with small businesses and services that will greatly assist the tourist to enjoy their visits to our country.

The older people are rapidly becoming the backbone of the community — our young people, as soon as they reach the age that they need work are forced to leave for the outside world — there is little or no future for them in a small community. This is unfortunate, but this is the way of life. Only when they have made their way and have become successful are they able to return to their homes and live.

The latest series of pictures and write-up on "The Clergy House" in Minden appeared in the September issue of the "Ontario Homes and Living." A copy of this article was given to me by the editor of the "Post." It was written by Mr. E. H. Jacques of the White Pine Bureau of Ottawa. Mr. Jacques was in Lindsay with their display in the Merchant's Building.

The White Pine Bureau has developed a slide presentation of Canadian Pioneer Buildings and this is available free of charge to small groups, clubs and societies. Any organization interested should write to: Information Service, White Pine Bureau, Canadian Lumbermen's Association, 27 Coulbourn Ave., Ottawa 2, Ontario.

The story behind the slides is this: "Early in 1959 the White Pine Bureau, which is a division of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association of Ottawa, inaugurated a search to locate the best examples of homes, churches and other buildings built by our forefathers — the Pioneers of Canada. The search team — a list of 10 of the most outstanding old buildings, have been photographed, featuring their most outstanding characteristics and when suitably mounted, offer the collection for display in Public Library Branches across Canada.

This was found! The photographs by Malak of Ottawa, were mounted in two travelling display stands and have been touring public libraries for nearly three years. Letters and reports received from libraries indicate that Canadians everywhere are genuinely interested in our history, our culture and our national heritage.

The Clergy House of Minden was one of the ten chosen and has been the means of bringing a great deal of attention and interest to Minden and the Highlands of Haliburton in general.

Another week gone by. Don't forget, a drive up this way for the Thanksgiving weekend — it is well worth it.

Japanese lonely people, Lindsay Presbyterian told Region 3 of Lindsay Presby- The Japanese father may be off on his summer vacation but would not dream of taking his children to the U.C.W. Church with morning and afternoon sessions conducted by the Regional Chairman Mrs. Elmo Rich of Oakwood, with Mrs. Lloyd Graham, also of Oakwood, as secretary. Approximately 100 ladies were in attendance, with a good representation from each of the eight churches in the region, and each church answering the roll call with "What's New" in its work. Mrs. W. McCarty, President of Cambridge St. U.C.W. extended a hearty welcome to all present. The two highlights of this rally were the Bible Study by Mrs. B. Garrett, wife of the minister of Queen St. Church, and the address by Rev. R.K.N. McLean, well-known minister of Cambridge St. Church who has recently returned from the summer spent in Japan.

Mrs. Garrett after looking over the leaflet, "The Covenant" which is to be studied this year said it was one of the most interesting studies and also makes use of "The Word and The Way" She divided the study into 10 groups and made more intensive study and had each group report its findings.

In introducing Mr. McLean, Mrs. Murray, President of Cambridge St. U.C.W., said: "He is the immediate Past President of Lindsay Presbytery. He and Mrs. McLean have collaborated in writing the first year in kindergarten work for this new curriculum which is being introduced in 1964. He has just returned from Japan where he was sent by the inter-board committee, on an evangelistic mission with a party of 20 from North America."

Mr. McLean in his opening remarks said: "We are gathered in Christian fellowship to find what our neighbors are doing in Japan. I want to share with you what the Christian church is doing in another country. He based his remarks on a few verses read from J.B. Phillips' translation of Paul's first letter to the Ephesians. Paul speaks of the fact that by faith we receive "inner illumination of the spirit" because they have become to sense "how tremendous is the power that is available to those who believe in God".

The theme of our rally is "Our Christian Faith" therefore I want to talk about this passage with relation to Japan. I came back doubly grateful that we here in Canada have been nurtured in the Christian faith from birth until you have visited in a country where they have not this opportunity. The Japanese people are a very lonely people. Missionaries have been sent to them in this too. The strength we gain from the fellowship of meeting together in a Christian congregation is unknown to them. There is much loneliness in their family life. Where you do not have the pattern of "That Holy Family" to follow is very difficult. This is a true translation of the word "Wife" in Japanese is, "That thing in the back of the house." It is the custom for the mother-in-law to live in the home of the oldest son when he marries, which often means that the new wife is merely a servant to the dominion of her mother-in-law. This is a terrible thing which goes on from generation to generation.

Toronto will provide such a Chairman, Mrs. Lloyd Thurston, R.R.6, Lindsay, Secretary Mrs. Lloyd Graham, Oakwood. The Rally will be held at Cam Tompkins, R.R.1 Lindsay, Vice on next year.

Report from Ottawa

A resume of affairs on Parliament Hill as reported by Russell C. Honyman, M.P.

The first order of business when the House of Commons reconvened on September 30th was to determine "who sits where". The question arose as a result of the separation of the R.C. Constituents and the R.C. Creditors from the Social Credit Party.

The question of seating arrangement in the House is of some considerable strategic importance because it establishes the priority of speaking by the Party Leaders, the order in which amendments may be moved to government legislation, and other matters of tactical importance.

The Liberal Party forming the government sits on the right of Mr. Speaker. The Progressive Conservative Party, constituting the Official Opposition, sits on the left. The question of seating is of some considerable strategic importance because it establishes the priority of speaking by the Party Leaders, the order in which amendments may be moved to government legislation, and other matters of tactical importance.

Speaker Allan MacNaughton, who has the final responsibility for seating arrangements, pointed out that the real question for determination was whether Mr. Caspary and his followers were really a new "Party", or merely a different version of the Social Credit Party. Stating that third parties have been recognized in the House since 1927, Mr. MacNaughton went on to say that the recent split in the Social Credit Party "creates quite a new situation to have a third party divide into two sections or blocks a few months after a general election and during an adjournment of the House".

Stanley Knowles, spokesman for the N.D.P. Party took the position that the cleavage in the Social Credit ranks had in fact created a new party, and thus the N.D.P. group, with 17 members had become the second largest opposition group and should rank next to the Progressive Conservatives. Hansard reveals some humour about the question. Mr. Knowles said the debate is wide, there has in fact been a division of the Social Credit Party into two parties, whether they are two parties or the same party or two separate parties, it so on. From what we have read in the papers, I find it strange they should be so divided together, cheek to jaw, without exchanging blows.

Secretary Gilles Grégoire, Chief lieutenant of Real Caspary snapped "It's no worse than sitting beside you", causing Mr. Knowles to respond with one of his few French words "Touche".

Official Opposition leader Mr. Caspary spoke for the whole matter as he sprayed political grapeshot in all directions. He said the Social Credit Party, confronting the House might have been avoided if the House had only listened to him in July when he opposed the legislation providing $4,000.00 extra to be paid to the leader of any party with 12 members or more in Parliament. He charged that the Social Credit Party was the result of Real Caspary's desire to gain the extra $4,000.00. Mr. Grégoire then stepped into the Conservative leader by reminding him that Mr. Caspary had voted against the $4,000.00 payment being referred to by Mr. Dielenbacher, which said Mr. Grégoire "goes to prove that opposites attract one another." Mr. Caspary's lieutenant then went on to remind Mr. Dielenbacher of his own leadership problems when he said "I wonder whether he (Mr. Dielenbacher) realizes that what is happening today to the former Social Credit leader may also happen to him before long."

The end result, after the political criminal was named, was the adoption of the suggestion of the Speaker that the matter be referred to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections. The question of "when is a party not a party" is in essence a constitutional problem. The question has been decided the other decisions as to seating, precedent in speaking and so on, flow from it naturally.

Granted that the Committee's problem is a constitutional one the speeches to date have referred point to the fact that the political ramifications of the decision will not be entirely absent from the minds of Committee members.

Charged with causing a disturbance are Leonard and Geraldine Titus and Nelson and Pearl Giroy, formerly of Lindsay, now living in Toronto. Another former Lindsay man, James S. Adams, also of Toronto, has been charged with obstructing a police officer.

Charged with causing a disturbance are Leonard and Geraldine Titus and Nelson and Pearl Giroy, formerly of Lindsay, now living in Toronto. Another former Lindsay man, James S. Adams, also of Toronto, has been charged with obstructing a police officer.

The charges followed a disturbance on Kent St. in which OPP Const. Emery became involved. He reportedly contacted the Lindsay police and the Toronto police were arrested and charged.

The counter charges were laid by Mrs. Pearl Giroy when she was released on bail last night.

Those charged with assault are Corporals Ross Bar and William Mosley, Constable T. Emery.

EDITORIALS....

IT COULD HAPPEN HERE

Scenes and reports of civil violence are not unusual in these days of great unrest in many parts of the world, some of them relatively close to home. Generally speaking though, when we read of these things or view scenes of this nature on our T.V. screens, we tend to console ourselves with thoughts of "it couldn't happen here". Those who witnessed the "Donnybrook" on Kent St. late Saturday night and early Sunday morning probably felt less certain of it.

Start with an isolated bit of trouble-making the affair quickly took on all the aspects of a mob scene, shutting from one point of action to another and back again while police mingled with the crowd sorting out the real score and trying to keep things from getting worse. For a while it was touch and go with the risk of a real firestorm being heightened when one of the crowd came forward by an off-duty provincial policeman, slammed his fist into the face of one who was engaged in an approach when he returned to the scene after summoning assistance.

The unrest which accompanied the incident took a long time to subside and people hung round the scene long after the suspected ringleaders were arrested and taken out of circulation. It was not until police visited the scene again that final dispersal of the crowd was effected.

One of the surprising features of the incident was the apparent lack of respect for the law on the part of some of those involved. Instead of respect, it might be termed an attitude of contempt for the law, one which virtually challenged the right of police to interfere. This, of course, is an unhealthy state of affairs and one which cannot be tolerated. We have got to have, and maintain, a respect for law and order and those who are engaged in enforcing the law require the support of the public if they are to do an effective job.

The weekend incident could have been a lot worse — left unattended, future incidents of this type would be sure to cope with and with it is so important that, in the long run, the law requires the support of the public if they are to do an effective job.

"ROLLING STOCK"

Canadians probably have a greater per capita investment in "rolling stock" than people in any other country in the world having, perhaps, "rolled" steel.

Most of us have been conscious of the steadily increasing number of motor vehicles on our highways and wondered vaguely "where it was all going to end". It has been estimated that "Canadians bought over half a million new cars in 1962 — a record 502,585 units."

According to FACTS AND FIGURES, "there is an average of one car per household and 5.2 persons per vehicle in Canada. This compares with a density of approximately 2.4 vehicles per person in the United States and 6.6 in the United Kingdom."

"Motor vehicles provided governments with an estimated $683 million in revenue in 1962, which represents 21.2% of the total net general revenue of the provinces. Of the total motor vehicle revenue in Canada in 1962, 15% was derived from motor fuel taxes and 6.2% from registration fees."

Other interesting facts and figures in this informative booklet about the Canadian automotive industry in 1962 include:

- * Total production of passenger cars and commercial trucks amounted 209,780 units — an increase of 117,883 units over 1961.
- * The average hourly earnings by wage-earners in the motor vehicle manufacturing industry amounted to $2.47.
- * Retail sales of passenger cars, trucks and buses totalled $1,762,916,000.
- * There were 21,027 convertible cars produced in Canada in 1962 — an increase of 10,501 units over 1961.
- * There were more than 5,780,000 vehicles registered in Canada in 1962, of which 4,336,000 passenger cars.
- * Canadian drove an estimated 47.5 billion miles of highway last year on a total of 467,106 miles of highway, roads and streets.
- * Net sales of gasoline totalled 3,314,910,000 imperial gallons and net sales of diesel oil totalled 153,971 imperial gallons.

Well may we ask "Where is it all going to end?" But the end is not in sight and therefore no one, not even the automotive industry knows the answer to that one.

CAMOUFLAGE BEING REMOVED

The camouflage is gradually being removed from some of the favorite old vote-catching gimmicks. Now, instead of promising the people something and leading them to believe they will get it for nothing, governments seem to be at last coming to the point where they are offering the public something with a price tag attached to it. Of course the tag was always there but it was covered up with so much window dressing that many who got the goods really believed they had received something free from government, although something which elected-official politicians had promised them.

Least development in this matter of removing the camouflage has to do with the proposed increase in old age pensions by ten dollars per month. The government has announced finally that it will mean an extra one per cent, or from four to thirty dollars per year increase in personal income tax. This at least makes the public aware that these things do cost money and that there is only one place a government obtains money and that is from the taxpayer.

There is, however one feature of the proposed arrangement that still hasn't been brought out into the open Canada has spent eight years and $7 million developing an amphibious military vehicle called the Bobcat. After all this time and effort there has been talk of scrapping the project and buying a similar U.S. vehicle. The reasons? Because the American vehicle is said to be a little better and, what more, it's cheaper.

If these are the only reasons there are for scrapping the Bobcat then we have no reasons for scrapping it at all.

There never was a military weapon or vehicle that was ever perfect in its murderous purpose. The Stien gun, the Bren gun, the Spitfire and even the Lee Enfield rifle all went through their various Mark Xs, Twos and Threes. The Bobcat can be improved too.

And as for the US vehicle being cheaper, this is important. After all we have spent $7 million of the Canadian taxpayers' money developing an industry — for that's what a military vehicle is — it is nothing but insanity to say that an American vehicle is cheaper.

The $7 million and the money that follows in production is money that will go to Canadian manufacturers to keep Canadians from being unemployed, to allow more Canadians to pay taxes.

To buy an American vehicle would kill a part of Canada's economy, help fatten the US purse and put more red ink in our balance of payments ledger.

It would be cheaper if the Government were to agree to allow Canadians to be unemployed to share American Social Security benefits.

ELECTION COSTS

There is a simple way in which election costs not only can be reduced but efficiency increased. The only conceivable reason that every level of government insists on preparing its own voters' list and its own machinery is elections are a traditional medium of petty patronage. With major elections occurring at the rate of almost one a year, isn't it reasonable to expect our government to pool their electoral machinery prepare one master voters' list and keep it constantly up to date?

BOOKLET TO HELP LAYMAN IDENTIFY METEORITES

Canada's farmers and other rural residents are being asked to help clear up some of the mysteries of outer space.

Valuable space clues come from meteorites, pieces of interplanetary material that plunge to earth. Scientists want all the help they can get in finding meteorites and which, if dealt with, might make possible even higher pensions for those who really need them without increasing the tax burden. We refer to the fact that old age pensions continue to be paid to those who really have need of them at all — people with substantial pensions or income from other sources. True, it might be held by some of these people that they "paid for it and should get it" but what they would be forgetting is that if these pensions were only for those in need, those contributing would certainly not be called upon at this time to pay more. In fact, it might just be possible that they would find themselves in the position of having to pay less.

DEPRESSED, DISTRESSED, OPPRESSED
The words "depressed", "distressed" and "oppressed" are terms of designation we are hearing quite a lot about these days in relation to industrially underdeveloped municipalities.

Applied at the local level during the recent Ontario election by Liberal Candidate S. C. Benson, who suggested that Lindsay have itself declared a "depressed area", the term was resented in some quarters. This resentment, it would appear in the light of later and continuing developments, was due, to some extent at least, to a misunderstanding of the term's intended application. This same misinterpretation of what the terms "distressed", "depressed" and "oppressed" meant when applied to municipalities has been the subject of considerable discussion in the House of Commons as recently as this week.

During these discussions, Canada's Labor Minister Alan MacEachern objected strenuously to what he called a "wrong emphasis" in suggesting municipalities receiving special assistance to develop industrially were depressed. They are really, he said, "areas of future opportunity in view of special aid to industry to establish there." Enlarging upon this, the labor minister went on point out that "such areas were made eligible for special assistance because they failed to grow as rapidly as other areas".

What, we would ask, is wrong with any municipality availing itself of any opportunity to grow industrially if it feels it is not developing space with other areas? What stigma is there attached to being designated as an underdeveloped area, especially if it means more industry and more opportunity for people to find employment? To put it in other way: Can any community which is underdeveloped industrially afford to leave untapped any stone which might hide beneath it the key to industrial growth?

No doubt there will be some resentment in areas of high industrial concentration which are reluctant to see incentives given to areas which are considered as underdeveloped industrially but this would be of selfish motivation and show a total lack of interest for the welfare of other communities, even of the nation as a whole. Before condemning the application and acceptance of industrial incentives, we believe the industrial commissioners of all centres in which industrial development shows signs of lagging, should undertake first to investigate the matter fully. In Lindsay's case we may be saying "not" when we should be saying "yes". Other towns and cities have said "yes" with beneficial results.

One more point, lest there be another area of misunderstanding. This is not a matter for political prejudice. Aid to industrially underdeveloped areas is in existence under Conservative administration and is continuing under the present Liberal government.

Reports and Remarks...

are willing to pay for them. The Geological Survey of Canada will pay upwards of $100 for a meteorite.

Because they live for the most part in sparsely settled areas and devote much of their time to working on the land, it is felt farmers are among the most likely prey to come across a meteorite. One Canadian farmer found a meteorite virtually in his own backyard. It had been used for years to prop open the barn door.

To help the farmer and his neighbor identify meteorites, the National Research Council Associate Committee on Meteorites has had published an eight-page, illustrated booklet describing the origin of meteorites and how to identify them.

Prepared by the Geological Survey of Canada, a branch of the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, the booklet is printed in both French and English and in non-scientific language describes the appearance and characteristics of meteorites. Photographs show the three types of meteorites and rocks or other objects commonly mistaken for meteorites. Copies are available free from the Geological Survey of Canada, Ottawa.

By studying meteorites, scientists may determine, for example, whether the radiation level in parts of the solar system is so high as to mean certain death to the space traveller. From meteorites come information about the age of the solar system, meteorite studies may also help solve space-vehicle re-entry problems.

Persons finding what they believe are meteorites are being urged to get in touch immediately with the Associate Committee on Meteorites of the National Research Council, Ottawa. Specimens may be sent to the Geological Survey of Canada or the nearest university for identification.

The size of meteorites varies greatly. They may be no larger than a pin head, or a mass weighing several tons in Canada. Alberta and Ontario have visited the greatest number of meteorites, although they have been found in most parts of the country.

Largest Canadian meteorite, weighing 386 pounds was found in 1869 near Iron Creek, Alta. about 70 miles east of Edmonton. The second largest, weighing 370 pounds was found in 1854 near Madoc, Ont., about 30 miles north of Belleville.

THERE MUST BE A BETTER WAY

We are reminded every day, and often many times a day, that this nation must produce more educated people or be buried, both militarily and economically, by communism. As a matter of fact, the pressure for more education is growing so strong in America, one may easily be led to assume that ignorance is very closely related to treason, or at best a decided lack of patriotism.

I am certainly not anti-education but it seems to me that there must be a better way to inspire our youth to seek knowledge.

A young man whom I have known since he was twelve is a typical case. This boy had expressed the desire to become a doctor and his father had encouraged him. After one year of college, however, the boy quit school and accepted a job in the mills of a large industry. The boy's father was very disappointed and asked me to talk to his son about returning to school. I consented, since I felt that this lad could be an outstanding success in any field of endeavour.

After several preliminary thrusts, which the boy parried with admirable dexterity, I was forced to ask him outright why he had elected to become a mill worker.

"I have told you Dad more than once, but I don't really mind going out there again," the boy said. "Of course, I could give you the old 'blessed are the horny hands of toil' and all that sort of stuff. You see, I really would like to be a doctor, but I get to figuring: Take the years required to qualify, plus the chance that I would not be successful; add the extra taxes involved if I did reach the high-income-bracket level, mix well with the fact that doctors will most likely be working for the government in a few years, and you arrive at the same conclusion I did."

The boy seemed to be beyond reach, but his father would not concede defeat.

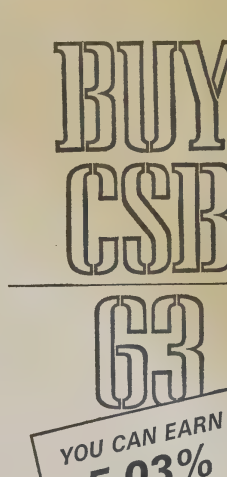

"I tell you, Dad, I have the most security anyone can have, outside of jail, right where I am," the boy said at last. "In three years I will be earning about seventy-five hundred a year. If I am off for lack of work, we have the guaranteed annual wage. Should I get sick, we have insurance paid by the company. I cannot be forced to work any faster than I choose to work: the union won't allow it. You just can't beat a deal like that."

"Suppose the company goes out of business?" I asked, thinking I saw a weak place in the boy's defense.

"No problem," he shot back. "In a case like that, the government will declare this a disaster area and feed us, or both." Then as an afterthought, he added, "Boy, Uncle Sam's really in a cube. If he wants people to go to school so bad, why does he keep working so hard to make the educated and the uneducated equal?"

In the face of such logic, I can only add that the voice of our nation's plea for better education appears to be drowned by the great sound of opposing action.

Something new for Thanksgiving dinner

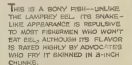

Year after year, as in the first Thanksgiving feast, the golden browned turkey remains the master of the holiday ceremonies. Though the feast is much the same, there is a difference in the appearance and the eating quality of whites; ¼ cup sugar; 2 eggs the turkey. Today's bird is designed for, and especially grown for, our modern methods of cooking. It is plump and attractive, and tender and juicy for mighty good eating.

Charts giving the roasting time are merely approximate and tells you when to put the turkey in the oven. The best test for doneness is to pinch the thickest portion of the drumstick while protected in the thumb and forefinger with paper or cloth. When the meat feels very soft the turkey should be done.

For something new serve a cranberry cube with the turkey as a variation on the usual cranberry sauce. Refreshing and beautiful, cranberry cubes (upon whipped mixture into made in the refrigerator tray, trays and press ice cube) prepared several days ahead and removed from the trays with aluminum foil and freezer just before the blending for several hours or until it is puffed. An old-fashioned Indian pudding ends the feast.

Silken Harvest From Sub-Surface Rocks
Asbestos: Canada's Magic Mineral

Canada's largest asbestos mine is the Jeffrey at Asbestos, Quebec, above. Recovery of fibre from mined ore averages six per cent, remainder is waste rock.

Since away back in 1871 when Canadian Confederation was just eight lusty years old, pyrite-a-cotton (some of cotton, as asbestos was then called) has been part of Quebec's commercial life. Then, a single horse was used to hoist the asbestos-bearing chunks of rock to the higher surface of the open pit and young boys hand-picked the silky fibres from the ore. Today, in the Asbestos region of the eastern townships, massive, four-story-high mills, fleets of 35-ton trucks, self-propelled drill rigs, electric shovels and ultra-modern mining techniques produce the bulk of Canada's annual one- and a quarter-million tons of milled asbestos fibre. Worth nearly $110,000,000 a year, all but a five-per-cent fraction of Canada's asbestos yield is exported to more than 60 different countries. Poetically-minded native son pays hometown a visit

A man with a poetic turn of mind who was born in Lindsay and now lives in Kansas City, Missouri, is currently paying his old home town a visit. The man is James C. Fox and many readers will probably recall the verse he has published some months ago expressing his feelings for the place of his birth.

Mr. Fox has lived in Kansas City since going there in 1928 when he joined the Chevrolet Division of the General Motors Corp. at Buffalo, N.Y. A supervisor, he recalls the days when 30 cars an hour used to come off the assembly line. "It couldn't be done now," he notes, "because the cars inwards today are much more complicated. They have many parts under the bonnet now which weren't even dreamed of then."

He retired from the job in 1951, 47 years after leaving Lindsay.

Donald Gordon re-appointed CNR President

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—(UPI)—Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson announced Friday that Donald Gordon had been re-appointed as Chairman of the Board and President of the Canadian National Railway.

The reappointment of the controversial head of the CNR followed in the heels of a national controversy about the hiring of French-speaking Canadians to top management posts in the railway.

The 61-year-old Gordon has been in the 75-thousand-dollar a year post since 1950. In a letter to Pearson he said he was "anxious to be reelected, which it is possible, of these heavy and varied responsibilities which go beyond the field of management."

However, he said, he was "convinced" with seeing through to completion the work of reorganizing and strengthening the railway. He said this work will be finished in a year and a half. At that time he would ask, "In good conscience" to be released from his duties."

Noticed .. along the way

People shouldn't really jump to conclusions if they happen to look out their window and see the neighbour hammering nails into a tree or if the child of the Homestead suddenly appears on the scene brandishing a claw hammer and toting a bag of zinc-coated roofing nails. Chances are they haven't come unhooked at all. In fact, they may have quite a lot on the ball — or should it be the nail?

The reason is like to snowball and boost the sale of zinc-coated roofing nails no end following the appearance in "The Independent" of a cartoon of a letter which tells of a unique way of overcoming Dutch Elm Disease, killer of many of this country's stately elms.

Here is the letter:

Cremation is considered one of the cheaper ways of being buried but the public is so far reluctant to accept it, on the whole, that even in larger centres where burial space is at a premium, that is the word from Thos. Graphic art combines a number of art forms which have one thing in common, emphasis on drawing," the Lindsay artist Guild was told at the first meeting of the 1965-66 season.

The subject of the lecture was printmaking and the speaker was Miss Claire Pratt of Toronto. The newly elected president, Mrs. D. M. Thomson, was in the chair, and her first official act was to present to retiring president Miss Nellie King on behalf of guild members, a hand-wrought silver brooch.

Miss Pratt, a graduate of the University of Toronto in Printmaking and English, has done post graduate work at Columbia. She studied print-making at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and is a top producer of wood cuts, and having exhibited there and in many important Canadian galleries as well.

To outlining the various types of printmaking and the qualities peculiar to each, the speaker quoted drawing as being the "grammar of art."

If others would try this, before the trees are too far gone, it can get away with none nonsense than can the maker of a fine art print. Drawing is the basic means of expressing an idea pictorially, used by prehistoric man in his caves.

Prints are the most democratic form of the graphic arts, because of multiple copies. They combine both art and craft, and the process is peaceful and relaxing, a continual and joyful discovery. There are four categories, Relief, in which the parts not to be printed are removed; Intaglio, the reverse of relief, as the incised areas are printed; Lithography, in which the printing is done from a flat ground stone upon which a picture is drawn with a greasy crayon, fixed with acid; and the fourth method is silk screen or stencil, in which areas not to be printed are blocked out.

As wood cuts are Miss Pratt's special study, she gave detailed description of their development: the joys to be found in woods, their texture and grain. She demonstrated use of knives and gouges, and the fine price paper upon which separate blocks are pressed, each using a different colour.

Excellent examples of the work of the artist were shown in the pictures hung for the meeting. The works of Sybil Andrews of Vancouver were particularly colorful and of humorous exaggeration and dynamic symmetry. Miss Pratt's prints were ethereal and mystical, some of them inherited from her poet-father and literary mother.

The speaker was warmly thanked by Lois Smith, Thos. Purdy, and Mrs. J. C. Fletcher. The Rev. R. C. G. Fletcher, guest-orator, rendered in fine voice one of the psalms. The Rev. R. C. G. Fletcher, guest-orator, rendered in fine voice one of the psalms.

Reeve balks at building council overrides him

Objects on ground estimated cost low

NOTICED .. along the way

Reeve Frank Bowen of Lutsarworth is adamant against the construction of a municipal building for the township and refused to sign any motion concerning the proposed building.

The township councillors had agreed unanimously that a township building was necessary and passed a motion applying to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval of dispensation of the approval of the electors in connection with the building's construction. After the reeve refused to sign the proposed by-law, Councillor Robt. Beeney then signed it on behalf of the Council.

"The reeve strongly voiced his disapproval of the project," said one councillor while another member explained that the reeve wouldn't agree because he didn't believe it could be constructed for anywhere near the $100,000 estimated by an engineer.

The councillor went on to explain that it was proposed to build the offices under the winter works programme which would enable them to save 75% of the estimated $50,000 labour costs. The remainder of the cost would be materials. Councillors Art Hodgkinson, Robt. Beeney and Secretary-Treasurer Jack C. Housnell had visited the Ontario Municipal Board in Toronto earlier in the week to find out the procedure necessary to build township works.

The councillors claim that the building is necessary to improve township services to ratepayers.

Lindsay Fair men at Simcoe Fair

Lindsay Cantor Exhibition was well represented at Simcoe Fair last week when Dr. A. F. Codlin, John Jenkins and Newton Wilson took in the event. They were accompanied by Reginald Cross, also of Lindsay.

Located in the heart of the tobacco growing belt, tobacco exhibits filled a whole building in the show. A five-day event, it features programs for school students and 4-H clubs. It was estimated that 6,000 boys and girls took advantage of free transportation to attend the fair.

Failed to give employee book, fined $50 here

Two Unemployment Insurance Commission officers and one lawyer were on hand to give and question evidence given against a Bobovogon resort operator in Lindsay court Friday. The resort operator was charged with failing to supply an unemployment book to an employee, and failing to mail other employment books into the commission.

Albert Bach, who told the court he had been operating the Fiesta Villa for ten years, was fined $50 and costs on both charges, the magistrate showing leniency to a first offender.

Mr. Bach said that he had been working short-staffed when the incident occurred which had been an oversight on his part. One of the officers told of checking the records books during the summer and finding no book had been issued to one of the employees, and another who said that he had been delivered to the Commission, were still in the accused's possession.

No protest action planned by Lindsay area dealers

Essa dealers in the Lindsay area indicate they are not planning to join in protests against the Imperial Oil Ltd. deal, such as taken by dealers in Sudbury.

Dealers there closed one day this week to protest a reduction in their commission from 8.75 to 6.5 cents.

Lindsay dealers say they have been receiving only 6.5 for some time now but seem quite satisfied in general.

"We are satisfied with the arrangement as it guarantees our commission regardless of price fluctuation," said Art Corneil, manager of Graydon King Motors. He also said that the pegged commission would protect dealers if the company was involved in a price-cutting war.

"It is a more stable setup," declared Irvin McCormick of Lakeway's Service Commission.

Miss Doris Mitchell and the tess was assisted by Mrs.
a. MacKenzie, Mrs. Lloy l, Mrs. Robert Hayes, and
s. Joy Hayes.

CAUSES OF NEURITIS ARE MANY AND VARIED by a systemic infection due to Mrs. X. it is not unusual for people to have neuritic pains in their arms and legs. Often we find it in people who have neuritic pains in their arms and legs. Often we find it in people who have neuritic pains in their arms and legs.

For example, consider Mrs. D. who has been having pains in her leg. She wonders what causes it. I've had this pain down my leg for months. Could it have caught hold in the nerve?

WANT TO HAVE A BABY A First, it's important to make the diagnosis of neuritis, have been married for several years. Mrs. D. But let's suppose it's there. There are many we haven't been to a doctor more than about it. I weigh 200 pounds.

Q. What might be the cause that I'm overweight. Besides my husband drinks beer. Could that have anything to do with it? But let me give you some with it? Do you think we have examples, which will give you a chance? We have been helped an idea of the differential list as Uncle and Daddy so neuritis, neuritis may be caused had! What do you advise?

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have a dropped kidney. My doctor tell me not to worry about it. Do you agree?—Mrs. T.

Comment: Not too many years ago surgeons went in to "lift" the dropped kidney. These days, if the kidney is otherwise healthy, we leave it alone. With few exceptions, it causes no trouble.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: When a man reaches his 60's, is it common for his sleep to be disturbed by having to get up once or twice a night to urinate? Comment: It's common. In addition to the kidneys, the prostate gland checks on the prostate.

Noticed along the way

There are a few people around town who feel that the modern "drive-in" trend can be carried a bit too far.

They go along with the idea of drive-in churches, theatres, restaurants, banks, laundromats, car washes and what-have-you, but they draw the line at cars taking to the road when Albert
Pearce of Penelon Falls drove into the river.

It was business as usual at Manley Motors on Thanksgiving Monday when Albert
Pearce of Penelon Falls drove into the used car lot and indicated to sales manager Russell Graham that he might be interested in driving out in a more up-to-date conveyance.

After settling on the vehicle of his choice, Mr. Pearce went inside to complete the deal, leaving his car on the lot... out of gear. When he came out, the automobile had disappeared.

A check disclosed that it had taken off by itself and striven inside to complete the deal, leaving his car on the lot... out of gear. When he came out, the automobile had disappeared.

CEMENT TO PROTEST CARRIED TO COUNCIL

Didn't infringe on any by-law, delegates told

"Taxpayers are entitled to protection," claimed M. J.
Cunningham, legal counsel for a deputation of taxpayers from Maple Crescent area which descended on Lindsay Council Tuesday evening. The deputation was protesting the construction of a cement works in the neighborhood.

"It seems strange," said
Mr. Cunningham to the council, "that factories would be allowed there when we have $25,000 residential properties in the area. The big objection is the smell and dust that would be created," he continued, "and of course it would devalue homes in the area."

Mr. Cunningham, on behalf of the taxpayers, went to the Lindsay Council Tuesday evening. The deputation was protesting the construction of a cement
works in the neighborhood.

"One of the problems a council faces when it annexes a rural area," said Mayor Holton, "is that there is no control, and can be no control, until we establish one."

Mr. Cunningham said he was "shocked" to find the permit for the cement works had been granted the same day taxpayers were asked to inspect the new town plans.
"There's nothing underhanded," said Councillor Bakland, "the issuing of the building permit and the sending of the notice the same day was just to get co-incidence."

"Building permits do not come before council if everything else is in order," said the mayor. "If everything else conforms it is done outside Council. That is the way it should be."

"Following promises by the Council that the matter relating to the Maple Crescent area was to be looked into, the deputation withdrew and the town council went into committee."

"The deputation was

EDITORIAL ..

THE DECORATIVE LIGHT PROBLEM

Lindsay's city council devoted some attention at its week's committee meeting to the decorative light problem which has been causing concern to the council, chamber of commerce and hydro commission. Upshot of the discussion was a decision to give the matter further study which may or may not come up with a solution, and if it doesn't chances are the town may go out of the decorative lighting business which has proven unexpectedly expensive — about $1,500 a year in maintenance and power costs.

It has been apparent from the outset that the performance of the system has been unsatisfactory in terms of the lifespan of the bulbs used. Replacements have been an almost constant basis ever since the lights were erected, a fact which has proven most annoying to those who purchased the system in good faith and those who undertook to maintain it in good order. However, merely pointing the finger, first in one direction and then another, is unlikely to resolve the situation and, since there is usually a cause for such things, the thing to do is to ferret it out. This shouldn't prove to be an unattainable goal for those with a good working knowledge of electrical hookups of this kind. There must be scores of other towns employing this type of lighting and surely some of them must have encountered and overcome problems similar to those Lindsay is meeting with. Why not take the matter to the experts in this field and let them make some suggestions?

Reports and Remarks...

SAFEGUARDING DEMOCRACY

The Canadian Catholic Hierarchy issued a Labor Day message on September 2, 1963, entitled "Public Authorities and Intermediate Organizations". By "intermediate bodies" the authors of the message mean "the various associations, organizations, and institutions established independently of government initiatives. Obviously Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce come within this definition and therefore the message has particular significance and meaning to those within the Chamber of Commerce movement.

The message stresses the importance of close and harmonious collaboration between public authorities on the one hand and such "intermediate bodies" on the other, and the following paragraphs merit careful consideration:

"In a country in such total evolution as ours, when so many plans, programs and reforms are being drawn up at the same time in all sectors and at all levels, municipal, provincial and federal, it becomes imperative to unite all the energies, talents, and goodwill available for this extensive task.

"It is important, moreover that all who are involved both governed and governing, share, discuss, and approve studies, decisions and actions that can have far-reaching consequences. Any action that is only one-sided, though taken by government with the best of intentions, runs the risk, in the long run, of discouraging the free flow of public opinion and suggestion, and of smothering out the citizen's sense of responsibility and initiative, so indispensable to the general well-being of society.

"In a political system, the spirit of democracy is not manifested only in the rights of citizens to vote freely, and from time to time, but also in the effort of the elected representatives to exercise their mandate in close and continuous collaboration with the citizenry.

"In the modern State, the intermediate bodies have become, for all practical purposes, the principal and most reliable means of expression at the disposal of the public; therefore they should be heard and respected as such. The voice of the isolated voter makes little impression on our day. Only intermediate bodies assuming all their responsibilities can save our country from the horrors of arbitrary action or that political tyranny which other so-called democratic countries have sadly experienced. It is only by working together, and not by opposing each other, that our civic authorities and intermediate bodies can keep up a truly democratic system of government."

— C of C News Letter.

Remember way back when

OCTOBER 16, 1913

Mr. Wm. Twigg, of Franklin, lost a fine mare by getting into a field and eating too much clover, and Mr. Arthur Flack had five head of young cattle killed by the CPR passenger train, they were two years old. They got out of the field onto the road and went on the track off the concession line in some way. Mr. Flack has the sympathy of his neighbors as he has been confined to his bed for the past two weeks from a severe hurt and under the care of the doctor every day.

Population now 7,400

From information received at the Town Clerk's office it has been learned that Lindsay population is now 7,400 an increase of 200 over last year. This is a very healthy increase, taking everything into consideration and the prospects are that during the coming year a still greater increase will be recorded.

False Alarm

A false alarm was rung in last night at 9.30 from the box at the corner of Bond and William Streets. The fire team responded in quick time but no blaze could be found.

A LOVELIER YOU

By MARY RUE MILLER

RESORT WARDROBE. Lucky you, if you're selecting a wardrobe of resort clothes. It will prove exceptionally independent, wearable and handsome, if you build it around a color theme. Around three shades. Let's say, that are complementary to you and to each other.

In terms of new resort colors, a palette of apricot, white and brown would be a stunner for a woman. For blouses there is perfection in a sky blue, white and lime shade. A Titian's ideal together could be wheat, creamy white and turquoise.

However you work it out, remember that parties are bright but not glaring; white is a win-out-which-out; the combination of American red/white/blue finds favor in all collections. As for styling, the precursors follow:

- * Fabrics in capes — striped, rugged cottons, elegant silk and silky impression, knits, jersey, flannel.
- * Silhouettes — classic malloids, relaxed malloids with blouse and drawstring bottoms; boy-like tops with blouse long; long-sleeved, knee middle, a little or a lot.
- * Beach covers — hooded cape; long-dress; long pullover; short and "dressed" dress.
- * Fabrics — stretch rayon, the hip-slung model; seersucker; in other fabrics, the seared look is truly event grade.

Then what? A-line separates; denim fitted suits, casual dresses and coats; after-dark that slink or float.

Correction

In an account of a shooting incident at Lorneville two errors occurred. The victim of the shooting was reported as being Mrs. A. Smith whereas it should have been Mrs. William Smith and in reference to the height of a kitchen window from the ground it appeared as four inches which was a typographical error and intended to read 54 inches. However, Mrs. Smith corrects the height to be nine feet. "The Post" regrets the error and hopes the record in this case is now complete.

Oakwood-The frame farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moyne, a mile and a half north of Taylor's Corners, was completely gutted by fire early yesterday evening when the occupants were away. Only a small quantity of the downstairs furniture was saved from the fire. At 8.45 o'clock Joseph Ryalis was walking near the Moyne farm. He noticed smoke coming from the house and while he watched it rapidly turned to flame. He went to a nearby house and put in the alarm by telephone with the results many persons came to assist in any way they could. When people arrived, however, the house was a veritable furnace, nothing could be removed from the house. The people had to stand by and watch the house reduce itself to ashes. Some insurance was held on the house. The cause of the fire is mystifying Mr. Moyne. Bystanders believe it started in the partition between the kitchen and living-room. Mr. Moyne stated that no fire had been taken sleeping in the room since noon.

SOAP WITH ART

The newest fad bubbling on the front pages of soap is art. Housewives, career women and teenagers are joining in turning cakes of soap into decorative objects either for use in the house, for gifts, for building or party favors, and for sale for the benefit of assorted community projects.

Just about any household odd or can be used for decorating — beads, felt, buttons, sequins, net, ribbon and decoupage. One manufacturer whose bars are being turned to art objects said samples of decorated bars are being arriving at its offices by the thousands.

In Chicago, a teacher is helping her students carve soap fish to be used as gifts for parents and teachers for Christmas. A Vermont housewife says she has seen antique soap scum cut into gift cards and passed them to her friends. She has written a letter to the person to whom she's sending the gift. She has also written "Washington Women's Guild members the gift of your soap bars in a hospital's gift shop. They will purchase new equipment for the hospital with the money. Housewives in Detroit and St. Louis create colorful soap fish and sell them at church bazaars. And in Wisconsin, a group of women bought extra equipment for the school lunchroom with the money made on decorative soap fish.

Floral Printed

Do you have floral-patterned multi-colored bathroom wallpaper? One manufacturer says it will start distributing a matching floral-printed glass tile.

Weights More

A cup of unsifted flour — either cake or all-purpose — weighs more than a cup of sifted flour. —UPI Strip a salad! Gelatin layers make the design. Be sure each layer in the pan or mold is chilled until almost firm before you add the next. And make the gelatin mixture. You pour over a firm layer chilled until partially set. You'll have nice definite strips. You may fruit the layers to your fancy.

French green beans. Snip ends with a bean slicer. Snap ends off beans — scissors do fast job. Add salt and oil. Peel beans through slicer. No too! Hold bean on cutting board; with knife, pin diagonally end to end. Add pinch of rosemary to cooking water, or serve with butter-toasted almonds.

By Robert Lee Auto Upholstery

A splendid cleanser for the upholstery and inside coverings of your car can be mixed with ammonia and detergent, mixing up into a suds and using just the suds with a clean cloth or brush. Then rub over the cleaned portion with a cloth wrung out of clear water.

Emergency Adhesive

For a temporary adhesive or to mend something that will be kept around and never used or put in hot water — try transparent fingernail polish. It works on dishes, as well as glassware.

"Quality is very important," said Reeve Found Thompson's Crushed Stone Co. Lindsay had submitted the rejected low bids for pit run gravel, crushed gravel and sand. High bidder was Keene Construction of Peterborough. (113212)

OPS CATCHING UP Council decided to appeal next year's tax assessments from Ops Township for land at the airport and at the lagoons. Town Clerk B. Bates was instructed to enter an appeal. (113212)

TOOK PARK SITES Members of council toured and inspected the parklands in the town this afternoon to judge the need, if any, for additional parklands at the Lindsay Auto Camp site. The parks board asked for a 16-acre section to develop for park purposes, but some town councillors thought there were sufficient areas allotted for such purposes. (113212)

Pellet strikes lad in chest, court convicts

A 16-year-old Boxkayon youth will probably find himself before pointing any kind of a firearm at anyone in the future. He was given a year's suspended sentence and a $40 in costs when the court found him guilty of pointing a firearm (pellet gun) at Lindsay today. (113212)

The complainant in the case said he had been standing on the street while making his paper route finds when the accused approached with another friend, pointed the weapon at him and fired, the pellet striking him just below the neck. He said he had gone home crying to his parents, showing them the mark the pellet had made. (113212)

The accused said he thought the complainant was fooling. Defense Counsel J. McQuarrie said he felt it was more a case of foolishness than neglect and asked suspended sentence. (113212)

Says watching the World Series with mercury over 90 too much Watching a baseball game with mercury hovering between 90 and 100 degrees is really making too much of Canadians, claims Percy Skitch who, with his wife, are visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Skitch at Los Angeles, California, although frequent stays at Daytona Beach in Florida have got them used to a climate of 80 and 85 degrees. Mr. and Mrs. Skitch made a side trip to Ontario, California, but were too far away from Lindsay, California to make a call there. There is a low in California called "Hell," said Mr. Skitch, "and some people were startled when the Los Angeles newspaper carried a headline saying it was warmer in L.A. than in Hell."

Referring to the Dodger baseball team, Mr. Skitch attributed the victory of the Dodgers to superior pitching rather than to a non-hitting team of Yanks. "The baseball stadium is a marvelous and tremendous place but unless an happens to be a 100 yards away from the diamond, he might be better off watching the game on T.V."

LEAVE YOU HOLDING THE BAG?

Here on, there, we wouldn't do a thing like that! No, we'd sell you a WALL phone in a WALL PHONE, and there's no need to drag over a table to your caller for a moment, or if you want to try a "test" phone, the floor is set for it. It's safe to let it go (public don't do that), or worry about the receiver dropping there against the wall. As soon as the handset hangs quite snugly on the hook on the top.

Incidentally, wall phones are available in white, ivory, grey, beige, yellow, pink, red, and green. While some are in the most popular — probably because the wall phone is especially ideal for the kitchen (where it's close at hand, yet out of the way), and white matches the style and fringes.

TWO WRONGS

Ever answer the phone only to find no one on the other end of the line? Drowsy irritating isn't it? Usually when this happens, the calling party has suddenly realized that he has the wrong number, and simply hangs up. Elementary politeness would require that he excuse himself for bothering others needlessly, but he prefers to hide in the shade of anonymity and compound his fault. A simple, "Two wrongs" I've got the wrong number" may not quite make up for the mistake, but it certainly indicates a sense of social responsibility and, as often as not, it is all that's needed to bring a sympathetic or even humorous reply from the "wronged" party. Of course, no one in the right mind would ever purposely call a wrong number, but — despite all our emphasis on looking the number up and jotting it down etc. — mistakes do happen. When they do, it's good to remember that two wrongs can never make a right.

... AND THEN THERE'S GEORGE

For months, the area around the site at Chesham, England, had been plagued by a rash of wrong numbers, and telephone employees thought they were slowly losing their minds. Every time the telephone went out to try and track down the culprit, they came back empty handed. But one day the light dawned, and a telephone call at the new was raised by about four feet; the culprit they were looking for happened to be a frog, a strange George (he felt tall and all of it apparently pleased, there to grab the telephone wire with the tongue and let them leave him. The wire would get tangled up and cause telephone to ring all over the place. They stopped when the wire around.

If all goes well, the air force says, it will be the longest supersonic flight in history.

"The Maidens' Viewpoint"

Want to get yourself a pheasant? If you do . . . you never had a better chance than now.

Starting today, October 16th and going through until November the 30th there is an organized pheasant shoot taking place at Sibbald Point Provincial Park, five miles east of Sutton just off Highway 48. Turn north on the Egypt side road, go up about half a mile and you're at the entrance to the Park.

The shoot is restricted to 25 hunters per day, on a first come, first served basis. Bring five bucks with you and you're in business. — If you get there early enough. For this you are allowed three birds, per day, any sex. The shoot is from Monday through to Saturday—no action on Sundays.

So, if you want a good day's controlled shooting, grab your guns and five bucks and head for the park.

A drive through the park is well worth the trip even if you have no intention of hunting. This park, located on the south end of Lake Simcoe is the last word for campers and picnickers. The double entrance is beautifully landscaped with huge stone gate entrances. Most of the roads throughout the park are fully paved—those in the outlying sections are well-gravelled.

The public has the use of 455 acres of well-conditioned park land in which to camp, etc. There are lots of camp spaces—trailer sites and grade "A" drinking water available.

For the public visitors there are also flush toilets, fireplaces, already split and piled and picnic tables. Home was never like this. What you can't get is trailer sewerage, trailer-electric outlets or boats for hire.

There is also available launch ramps, swimming and fishing. The park is also patrolled and supervised. Further facilities include museum, picnic shelter (if it rains) booth and store—change house for the swimmers—boat excursions can be arranged and Indian handicrafts are on sale. The Indian House is interesting and educational.

A visit to this park is quite an eye-opener.

D.R. Cuts, superintendent of the Park site may well be proud of the work he and his staff are doing. There are five permanent staff supervisors and over double this during the camping season.

Driving through the park I met two of the supervisors—Eric Bell and Delbert Sedore. Lindsay people will remember Mr. Bell—he's on old Lindsay boy and he was telling me that quite a few people from "over East" as they refer to our area: drop in occasionally but not as many as you would expect. There's no excuse now—you know where the place is—just a short drive from Lindsay—and I'm sure that when you visit the park you'll be as impressed with it as I was last week.

If you aren't the picnic type—you want the drive and the enjoyment of the trip but not the fuss of picnicking then have no fear—one of the newest and most efficient eating places is almost on the doorstep of the Park—"The Grant Restaurant". Located on Highway 48 and the Egypt side road they are well-equipped to serve all types of meals and lunches, etc.

Opened last June, this restaurant operated by John and Clara Pirok, has proved to be highly successful.

Visitors from the Sharon and Newmarket district will remember the Piroks. They in business—the "topa" on the highway near Sharon.

Mr. Pirok has had quite a fight on his hands since he first started going blind in 1937. Totally blind in 1959 he was forced to sell his business and go into hospital. In 1960 a major operation restored his eyesight. After resting for about a year John became restless and decided on the location he has now to open a new business.

So, you have no problem—you can have the trip and with no fuss or bother, the Grant will look after the inner man.

Now that he has started we may as well make the rest of this week's column a few tips on trips and eating.

Right close to home—Bobbycaygon to be exact—there is a restaurant that offers you a wide selection of exotic oriental food. Specialists in Chinese food, sea food, steaks, and chops, the MING restaurant is only as far away as your telephone. A call to them will make available take-out orders of Chinese foods in two, three, four and five portion dinners.

The Ming Restaurant, operated by Edmund and Susan Man, is tastefully decorated in oriental style and is a comfortable and relaxing atmosphere in which to enjoy a snack of a full-course meal. The next time you are through Bobbycaygon drop into the "Ming" and enjoy their excellent coffee and fortune cookies.

In this day and age of complexities we are often apt to overlook the obvious. (This doesn't have too much to do with travelling. I just happened to think of it.)

One of the Big Town papers was trying to get a picture of a correspondent in a recent divorce action. The proceedings involved several prominent people and the young lady who was correspondent in the case was a beautiful and talented young actress. When the story came out there were no pictures of her—the editor wanted to know why not. "We can't get anywhere," came their reply "Your best men are out now." "Get more men on the job!" ordered the editor.

Later on in the day the editor inquired again, "Have you tried the servants?" "We have offered them money—no luck—we've tried the local photographers but are unable to come up with anything."

The editor searched around until he spotted a young couple reported they were breaking in—he had only been around for about two weeks. "Young man," he asked, "would you go out and get a picture of her?" In about an hour or so the young man was back with the picture.

The editor called a meeting of the staff and when they were all assembled he turned to the young reporter and said "Would you mind telling us how you managed to get this photograph?"

"I want to the address you gave me, rang the doorbell and when the lady answered the door I asked her for the picture—and, she gave it to me".

Back to the travelling.

Last weekend we took a trip through Barrie, Midland, Port McNicholl and up to Huntsville and back to Midland.—I'll have to admit that their colour and scenery is almost on a par with what he have in the Highlands of Hailbrunn.

The trip through Port McNicholl and Victoria Harbour was pleasant but both places could use a suggested sign on their road system—"Men should be at work."

The highlight of the trip came on Highway 103 from Wabushane to Poole Bay—this newly completed Highway is through the best of scenic country, lakes, rocks out and perfect tree covering.

A rock nearly a quarter of a mile long with sides of up to fifty feet in height is quite impressive. The rock face has been brushed and scaled clean and smooth and gives the impression of being sawn from the solid rock. You have to see it to appreciate it.

There Were Fireworks on Campus That Night

IT HAD been years since Genoa Prep defeated Columbian High football game. Those boys at N.E.B. are generally tough. So there really were fireworks on Genoa Prep's Commons in the evening, as this drawing of the climax of the match is shown. The underdog team should have had 40 yards in violation of most ordinances, and the town fathers, too, forgive the breach of the law.

The drawing was made from a photograph taken by one of the students. When the photographer studied the shot afterwards, he exclaimed to his roommate, "Boy! What a coincidence! If you scrutinize the scene closely, you'll see why. Of the way, two of the explosions exhibit the identical scene dancing design."

How quickly can you spot which two these are? Afterwards, it can be amusing to scrutinize the photo-jungle with distinctive colors.

Step into the world of the Law?

Split Forty Two Ways?

A FORTY 2 is 20 steps ahead of an officer, and 20 steps behind a sergeant. How many steps will the officer have to catch him?

How many steps will the sergeant have to catch him?

How many steps will the officer have to catch him?

Keep This Under Your Hat

A MAN has found out two or three fine things. He has been able to split 40 into two parts. These three, or more or less, of words on the table. Cover each with a letter hat.

Make a great point of having nothing concealed in the hands or up the sleeve, and profess your willingness to have the audience mark his three articles so there can be no question of a substitution.

Then take up each hat in succession, set the rest or piece of canvas, and restore the hat to its original position. This, done, pick up the hats one at a time, and show each to be empty. Now announce that you will bring the three hats, at all, under-stand being made, you do so. How is this possible?

ITS IN THE CARDS Cryptarithmic

IN THE set-up with the numbers and sets, the cards are served at your next party, some of the male guests may like to try to guess or figure out the answers to the following:

How many cards must be dealt from a shuffled deck of cards before a player can be sure of holding (a) royal flush? (b) four of a kind? (c) a full house?

The answers are:

(a) Royal flush consists of the ten, jack, queen, king, and ace of the same suit. Therefore, to be sure that you hold a royal flush you need to be dealt the four cards of the suit. The fourth card might be one of the required cards from each suit.

(b) To be sure of holding four of a kind you need to be dealt 4 cards since the first 3 cards could be three of each kind and the fourth card the one needed to make four of a kind.

(c) To be sure of holding a full house, which is three of one kind and two of another, you would need to be dealt 5 cards since the first 4 cards might be four of one kind and the next card the one needed to make three of one kind.

Now that THANKSGIVING IS OVER...

Now that Thanksgiving is over, people in Lindsay have something else to look forward to... nominations for the municipal level, and they are indications that the town is using enough energy to get enthusiastic about another election after having already come through a federal and provincial campaign within the year.

A question or two on the ballot always add interest to an election and there are indications that the question of a two-year term for council may be placed before the people this year. Generally a controversial issue, it is not new to the electorate, having been voted on several times.

Personalities, of course, usually make the election, with the greatest interest centering around who will seek the top office in council — mayor, reeve and deputy reeve. There are indications that Mayor Holm is in the running again this year despite earlier predictions that his health would rule this out. He now seems to have fully recovered from a chest ailment which twice hospitalized him this year and he has indicated known to be partial to the two-year term of office for council and may choose this year to seek public support on this issue. As a matter of passing interest, endorsement of the two-year term of office has not had any effect on the term of office for members elected this year... it wouldn't come into effect until a year after it was approved.

What of the opposition to the mayorality and other office council? Mrs. Doris Acheson's name has been mentioned as a potential mayoralty candidate again this year. But so far she has not indicated her plans in this respect. Reeve Lloyd Found is regarded as having the best aspirations, but observers doubt he will oppose Mayor Holm. To this moment no new names have been put forward for either the top offices or regular seats on council. However, since nominations are now only a first step in the election, it is more than likely that municipal politics almost daily now.

On the subject of issues in the forthcoming election, apart from the possibility of a vote on the two-year term question, there are some other issues that have been raised in the election taking points. Some of these have to do with the proposed new official town plan. It was evident at the two public hearings held to consider this matter that there was dissatisfaction with the council's plan, particularly in regard to zoning. Council candidates may be placed in the position of having to take a stand on matters related to the plan. Then there is the Academy Theatre Foundation's proposal to have the town acquire the site of the old theatre and develop it into an issue depicting, of course, on the findings of the special committee appointed by council to study the takeover of the film project.

Continuing in the words of a patient philosopher: "We shall see what we shall see". Speculation often comes to nought in the light of nomination night reality.

SOME EXCELLENT POINTS RAISED CONCERNING PROPOSED NEW PLAN

Some excellent points have been raised concerning the proposed new official plan for Lindsay during the two-night public hearing called to get ratemakers reviewed to the draft plan. These points are such that the Lindsay Planning Board will be required to give serious thought to the plan, possibly make some revisions, before it is submitted to Town Council for its approval prior to going on for provincial certification.

During the first evening's discussion, the matter of ownership of an area termed "industrial" was raised. The point was made that anyone owning land in the industrial zone would be prohibited from selling it for residential development; but required to pay taxes on it as if it were possible to sell it for residential use. The contention advanced was that this was unfair to the property owner and that if the town wished to restrict an area wholly to industrial development, it should be prepared to take the land. This belief found some support from Councillor Russell Taylor who said he was sympathetic and wondered if some tax relief provision could not be made in instances where a person held property in an industrial zone and was subject to double taxes by reason of the poor improvement to serve the site for industrial purposes.

Wednesday evening, second sitting of the hearing, another point of special interest to people owning property in the town and on the outskirts of a peninsula was raised. The point was made that the town had purposes along the Scugog River was raised. It was to the effect that the new plan's provisions gave the town a preferential position in the future sale or development of the peninsula. It was suggested that the town, if it was suggested, should be able to develop it and apply to have it rezoned from green strip to residential, the town could offer to purchase at a lower than prevailing land value price. Then, if the owner rejected below the offer, he would be unlikely to get it rezoned because the chances of a planning board (which is part of the municipality) opposing the town were remote. It has been pointed out that the town would be taking the town and the town placed on an equal footing with its citizens in the matter of privileges.

Another issue which was unresolved and threatens to be a troublesome one, concerns the proposed zoning of a section of the town and on the outskirts of a peninsula, the railway crossing as "light industrial". Residents in the area asked for a definition of the term "light industrial" but none was forthcoming. Unrest in this quarter of the town stemmed from the granting of a permit for themselves manufacturing in the area designated on the new plan as "light industrial". However, J. McQuarrie, chairman of the official town committee and Town solicitor, Jos. L. Staples, told the strong representation of pro-industrial residents that the town, which is the Lindsay Planning Board nor the Town Council had any legal right to refuse a permit for the plant because there was no official plan covering the area when application was made.

"THE POST" LINDSAY, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15TH, 1968

STAFFA EDGES... LITTLE BRITAIN 7-6

The matter of "phasing" as related to residential development came in for protest on the grounds that by designating residential development in phases (plans one, two, three, etc.) the town is restricting residential growth to a specific area, thus erecting a barrier against those holding land in other areas phased for later development.

These are just samples of some of the issues raised at the meetings and which will have to be given further consideration by the planning board. Frankly, we share planning board chairman John Raskin's sentiments when he expressed pleasure at seeing residents' interest in the town's development. As Dr. R. K. Hollows suggested at the previous meeting, human liberties are involved in the proposed plan and where this is the case there is naturally the risk of infighting. As unlikely as it may seem, it is possible that an interest in the plan, might very well find that their liberties had been infringed upon.

THE FINGER POINTS IN ANOTHER DIRECTION

The finger pointing to possible causes of lung cancer has been pointed in another direction. For years directed unerringly toward cigarettes, it has shifted to car exhaust fumes, long suspected, but really never labelled until Toronto Works Commissioner Ross Clark and Air Pollution Director Harold Belyuk took a public stand on the matter this week.

Automobile exhaust fumes were termed the "deadliest cause of air pollution and it was claimed that people who drive 12,000 miles or more per year are twice as likely to get lung cancer as those who drive less. According to Mr. Belyuk, "the worst danger lies with invisible gases that are not completely burned in the engine. About five per cent of gasoline leaves the exhaust in a form containing sulphur dioxide, nitrogen oxides and hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide". Mr. Clark noted that while "diesel fumes smell worse, they are not so dangerous".

According to the report, one factor blamed in lung cancer is "background radiation" from the earth. The information doesn't come as much more than confirmation of what many have suspected and which lung cancer research has tended to bear out — that the disease is more prevalent in heavily populated areas where air pollution is more common. However, the revelation will give rise to further speculation among those who are concerned with the growing incidence of the disease. People will now begin to wonder more than ever if cigarettes are really the cause of lung cancer as they have been led to believe or if they are only one of a combination of factors which have served to inflict upon mankind a health hazard of paramount significance.

In the matter of car exhaust fumes, if it has been established conclusively that man's health is suffering by his exposure to his mechanized way of life, control or elimination of the hazard will be expected of the industry, either by resorting to other fuels or finding other means of coping with the problem.

RIGHT OFF THE TOP... AND INTEREST-FREE MONEY

Most of us who tote home a weekly pay check have noticed that the lot has become increasingly lighter in recent years. That's because the top of the pay load has been skimmed off by which only one cent is left for the homeward journey. Some of us, too, have occasionally been struck with the thought that this skinning-off process is economically unwise because in many instances where a salary is so small, it is to be expected that interest-free money, long in advance of when it is legally due. This applies particularly to our income tax payments the government has a really handy thing going there in interest-free money) is also applicable to other contributions which make some of them involuntary.

"The Printed Word", a contemporary which likes to expose the facts and related subjects, has concluded that among other things, we may run out of money for groceries if we keep on contributing towards those things which are deductible from the old pay check before it is passed along to the one who earned it.

The following are some of the interest readers: ENCRANCHING ON GROCERY NEEDS "There used to be a saying that so-and-so was land poor. This meant that he had so much land from which he could get so little return that he had very little money left over for living expenses.

"Today there are people who say they are insurance-poor, men and women who are buying so much life insurance that after paying the premiums they are not able to live it up the way they wish to live."

"Here is a list of pensions and insurance towards which most people must pay:

Old-age pension
Company pension
Hospital Insurance Group Insurance
Workmen's compensation

Unemployment insurance
"The Canada Pension is a new proposal, expressed mainly by the Hon. Miss Judy LaMarsh. She says that anyone who attacks the Canada Pension is a representative of the big interests, mainly insurance companies, trust companies and banks, who may have the administration of private pension plans.

"Others who might look askance at the Canada Pension Plan are people who are wisely, even though painfully, reluctantly turning their backs on themselves and their estates an income for their later years."

"Also looming up as a monthly expense to the ordinary citizen is a plan for insuring the payment for medical attention, of Medicare for short."

Reports and Remarks... SNOW ROBOT WILL THAW THINGS OUT

A robot snow disperser which will wander about at will warming up ground has been invented by a Kent (U.K.) man, and is being developed by two firms. A futuristic snow machine for sports pitches as well as for agricultural uses.

The inventor, 37-year-old James Sheenan, of Belle Grove Road, Welles, has worked for four years on the machine. He says it is like a large van with a skirt at the rear, driven by a man, and with a motor which runs and travels at walking pace. It can go for about 12 hours on one filling.

Once set in motion, it will go on its own, pumping out snow. It will be about 10 ft. long. As it moves, it touches an obstacle, it shears off on a different course. The prototype has been made of aluminum and weighs about 1,000 pounds. Estimated cost when in full production is between $14,000 and $22,000. Running costs will average about one hour. Sheehan hopes the machine will be in production by the winter. At the moment he is satisfied with the basic principle, and is aiming at greater simplicity of operation.

Two companies developing are Bellgrove Construction, Wigmore Street, London, W.1., and Falconwood Products, Ltd., of Swanley, Kent.

Among sports organizations interested in the robot are many of Britain's leading football clubs.

THE ONTARIO SCORE

Retail sales in Ontario continued buoyant and slightly in excess of last year's. Wholesale trade remained steady and normal for the season. Collections showed improvement but in some cases extended credit terms were being used. Steel production was very high and this year is about 16% ahead of the comparable period last year. During the first eight months of this year 330,000 passenger cars were manufactured, an increase of 10% over the same period last year and 15% below the previous eight-month record set in 1955. Retail sales of cars were high and production of 1964 models commenced in mid-August. Manufacturing in general slowed down as a result of vacations and shutdowns but remained satisfactory. Unemployment was slightly higher than at the end of August 1962. Preliminary estimates placed the 1963 tobacco crop at 160,000,000 pounds.

"ONE IN EVERY SEVEN"

This is every seven Ontario workers covered by the Compensation Act had an accident in 1962. There were 28,104 compensation cases reported from 28,769 firms in the membership of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations. Nearly 3,000 of the cases reported were reported by a firm in the Association.

These were among statistics disclosed by R. G. D. Anderson, Toronto, General Manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations. He was speaking in connection with a provincial safety campaign being conducted during October by manufacturing and industrial firms in Ontario, in co-operation with the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations.

In the past years the hands and fingers of workers comprised the most frequently injured body parts involved in accidents", Mr. Anderson said. "In 1962, such accident costs in the previous years. The sad thing is that back and spine were next in line totalling 4,147 compensation cases in 1962, and 1963. The most common member firms of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations."

"This was an increase of more than $1,000,000 over accidents in 1961. A total of 100 years. The sad thing is that many of the accidents in 1962 could have been avoided by the use of more care and caution and the use of prescribed safety equipment. That is why we are urging all workers, men and women alike, to be more safety conscious in October this year."

A study of 1962 industrial accidents reveals that the handling of materials caused nearly 29 per cent of all mishaps in industrial plants. Moving machinery accounted for more than 13 per cent and slips and falls for another 12 per cent.

the federal sales tax goes to help the pension fund. So does the corporation tax. These are additions to the prices of goods. The general taxpayer, the employer and the consumer pay the cost of the employment insurance fund. These are also additions to cost.

"There are so many of the schemes that it is difficult to keep them sorted out in one's mind. Part of the politicians excuse for the funds is that an employee's pension is a part of the employment insurance fund. This is the wage cost, no matter how carefully it is sliced, is still in the wage cost and, therefore, in an addition to prices.

Canada is rapidly approaching the point where the people will be insurance poor for the future. There will be so much for the future that grocery money for the present may be difficult to come by".

Thinks spark started fire

Firemen dampen down on the ashes of a chicken colony house destroyed by fire last week. Mr. Victor Chandler, of Chandler's Corners at the junction of Highway 7 and County Road 10, thinks the fire, which caused about $100 in damage, was started by sparks from a seemingly dormant bonfire nearby. There were no chickens in the building.

TIMELY TIPS
Don't make the mistake of waiting until cooked meats are cold before refrigerating. Refrigerate such foods as soon after the meal as possible, say food experts at Macdonald Institute, Guelph. This refrigeration is necessary, as bacteria, which cause food poisoning, multiply quickly at room temperature.

Wondering how much bread to buy for stuffing a turkey? Food experts at Macdonald Institute, Guelph, tell us that a one-pound loaf of white bread, two or three days old, makes about four cups or one quart of light, fluffy crumbs with the crusts removed.

Purchase ¾ to ¾ of a pound of chicken per serving. Remember too, that some persons like two servings of meat at a meal.

A loose "tent" of foil over the top of a roasting bird will keep it from burning. Foil is recommended rather than a light-dripping lid on the pan.

Scratched Furniture

If you've become concerned about the nicks and scratches your furniture has acquired, try this treatment: First darken these scratches with wood stain and then apply white shellac to the scratches, one coat at a time, until they are filled.

Plastic Cement
Sometimes that special plastic cement that comes with plastic veneer has a way of becoming too thick and gummy for practical use. In this case, close the bottle lid, soak it in warm water for a while, and it will regain its usable consistency.

Peeling Carrots
To avoid those yellow stains on your fingers and hands when peeling carrots, peel them under water.

CARE OF COOKED POULTRY REQUIRES PROPER STORAGE

Short and proper storage of cooked poultry will mean that you get "the most for your money," say Home Economists at Macdonald Institute, Guelph.

Here are a few guides. Always put the cooked poultry into the refrigerator within 2 hours of taking it from the oven. Plan to use the meat within 4 days. Remove the stuffing from the body and neck cavities. Wrap well and store separately from the meat. This reduces the risk of spoilage. If most of the bird has been carved, remove the rest of the meat from the carcass and wrap tightly in plastic. Store the carcass, brined, using the bones, right away while the carcass has maximum flavor.

The gravy in a separate container as well.

There are many recipes for cooking poultry which have a condensed soup or creamed sauce base. The recipe below uses soy sauce, corn starch and consommé for the base. This recipe uses large pieces of meat, rather than chopped meat, to save the consommé time.

Turkey Casserole (6 servings)
2 large onions, sliced and separated into rings; 3 tablespoons cooking oil; 6 large pieces of turkey or 12 smaller ones; ¼ cup brown sugar, packed; 2 tablespoons cornstarch; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon soy sauce; ½ cup orange or pineapple juice; 1 cup canned consommé; ½ cup vinegar; 1 can green beans; 2 cups canned tomatoes.

Cook onion rings in cooking oil on very low heat until onions are soft. (About 5 minutes.) In a large greased casserole, layer onions and turkey. In a saucepan, combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and soy sauce. Gradually stir in condensed soup, orange or pineapple juice, vinegar. Stir and cook until slightly thickened. Pour over turkey and onions. Add corn, green beans and tomatoes. Cook on low heat until thoroughly heated — about 10 minutes.

Q. How can I remove fruit and vegetable stains from my kitchen sink?

A. Mix up a paste of equal parts bicarbonate of soda and chlorinated lime with boiling water, and spread this on the stains. Leave until dry, then wipe off. Another paste for the same purpose consists of three parts of cream of tartar to one part of peroxide.

Q. How can I remove light scratches from some of my silverware?

A. Mix enough putty powder with a little olive oil to make a paste, then rub this over the silver with a soft cloth and follow with a chamomile polish.

PRIVATE-LIFE LUXURY DESIGNED FOR FALL

Fashion leads a luxurious private life for fall. In both the lingerie and lounge, the preference is for uncut, natural shapes in elegant fabrics, colors and prints.

Lounge-wear is often flatteringly floor-length, inspired by the long look fashion loves for evening. In lingerie, the trend is to coordinate color, print and silhouette line.

Underneath it all, fall fashions will be wearing full-length slips with flattering higher waistlines or new modified bodies for a smooth under-liner; brief chemises for a pretty and practical short-cut undies; and, half-slips of petti-pants in a variety of prints and colors.

Colors Go Pretty to Primitive
Long slip petticoats take their place beneath fall's long evening gowns and toe-the-floor at-home fashions.

Undecor color goes the way from pretty to primitive for fall. Black and white is a fashion-right color combination especially when one or the other is lace. Lingerie's new "equatorial" are excitingly different tones such as wine, red and minosa yellow. Most often, lingerie colors are floral, abstract or animalistic prints.

It's happy hunting for fall as fashion features an animal kingdom of book-loops — leopard, zebra, reptiles, snakes, mink and more — for lingerie prints, and frankly take for robes.

For women who prefer the dainty to the different, fashion is planting a garden of floral prints on lingerie. Many of fall's flowers bloom against black backgrounds for a new look in prints.

Lavishing Lace
Fashion lavishes lace over slips, handbags and trims on slips and sleepwear for luxury every woman will love. Many stylish full slips and nightgowns have lace body or lace trims. New patterns in lace are interpreted in black or color over white or colored tricot.

Fall or lounge-wear is at home in or out of the bedroom. The most fashionable robes either look like coats or are long, ultrasleight bathrobes, styled in luxurious fabrics for the hostess with the mostest to wear while entertaining.

Showing Layered Look
Fashion's new layered-look is interpreted in sleep-steps that go from bed to breakfast in style. Most often, these paired gowns, shirts and sleep-shirts with their very own jammers, tunics or wrap slippers.

Designer's fashion sweet dreams for fall in feminine floor-length gowns, baby-dolls and shift-suits for retiring beauties. Many of these are flatteringly and fashionably high waisted.

Q. How can I secure a nut in place when I don't have any lock washers at hand?

A. After twisting the nut tightly into position, use a center punch, placing this in the center of the bolt and giving it a sharp rap with your hammer.

This will spread the bolt slightly, and prevent the nut from working off without being forced.

Q. How can I remove onion odor from my hands, after I have peeled and cut these "year-keepers"?

A. Rub your hands with raw celery or parsley before washing them. Or, wet your hand with clear water, then rub them well with salt.

Q. How can I clean rusty steelware?

A. Rub thoroughly with sweet oil, allowing the oil to remain on for sometime before doing your rubbing.

Q. How can I remove butter stains from materials.

A. Ordinary laundering usually removes them from washables. Spounge unabsorbable with carbon tetrachloride. An absorbent can be used on delicate fabrics (silk's carth, cornstarch, French chalk, or talcum powder). Dust it on, let remain until the fats have been absorbed, then brush off — and repeat this process if need be.

Q. How can I recommend some of my furs.

A. Try this: Wet the fur with a hair brush, then brush against the nap. Hang in the air until dry, then beat lightly on the right side with a ratan. Finally, comb the hair out carefully into place.

Q. How can I re-whiten some linen that has become yellow from long storage?

A. You can bleach this into whiteness again by letting it soak in buttermilk for two or three days.

Wherever Canadians live and work, a local chartered bank is nearby—a familiar, friendly source of financial services. Banking in Canada has been brought to people in a few other countries—the proportion of banking centres to population is among the highest in the world.

Every day more customers become aware that a chartered bank can not only guard their savings, cash their cheques and make loans, but help in many other ways too. They find new banking services being introduced, others being changed, improved or enlarged. For example, personal money orders, life-insured loans, company payroll plans, night depositors, banking by mail, safety deposit boxes—the list could go on and on.

The local branch of the bank is the one place where you'll find complete banking facilities—almost everywhere.

Bobcaygeon "wet" forces lose liquor plebiscite

Bobcaygeon's "wet" forces have lost another round in their bid to have cocktail bars and 380 against, and liquor lounges approved for the village. Voters, for the fifth time in recent years, declined to give the plebiscite questions the majority they needed to carry.

The "Yes" ballots, though over 50% of the total tally, failed to meet the required 60% or more.

Out of the 812 eligible voters, 666 went to the polls to "voice their approval or disapproval." The final returns, according to Returning Officer Willard, were 255 in favor of the plebiscite, 323 for and 313 against.

Earlier, at a meeting held by the local "vote No" committee, Rev. Lawrence Cunningham spoke in favor of the licensing stating that it would be the "best thing that ever happened to the village."

The owner of Stonestown Inn, who said he would not apply for a licence even if the vote were favorable.

Ben Griffin of Lodge Lodge, who had planned to make application if the plebiscite was "freeing increased business to the town" and be beneficial to everyone.

Dr. G. Smith, Presbyterian minister, had stated that the ministers of the town were definitely opposed to the vote. "You get a greater number of drunken drivers this way than you do with a liquor store, and although I oppose them too, at least a purchaser takes it in instead of driving with it in them," he said.

SETTLEMENT MINUTES SEALED

The "gasoline seepage case" is closed. The case, which was born when a Beaverton Hotel was forced to close its doors and those of businesses it housed, kept the Lake Simcoe village in the news for months while efforts to locate the source of the gasoline seepage were made. Final closure was forced when the fumes from the seepage in the hotel's basement caused the closing of the Ontario Fire Marshall against lighting the hotel furnace.

Gentlemen, I congratulate you on the settlement. It is the most difficult case," said Mr. Justice Campbell Grant to the lawyers at the final session of the Ontario Supreme Court in Barrie, Ontario, last week. The case, which was reached after three and a half days in the Beaverton "gasoline seepage case."

Plaintiffs in the case were Frank and Mary McMillan, who had been the owners of the Imperial Hotel. The defendants were the Imperial Oil Limited, George Brown, the manager of the Imperial Oil Limited, and the Ontario Corporation of the village of Beaverton.

Mr. and Mrs. McMillan claimed for loss of revenue, income, for health and punitive damages. They claimed that gas seepage from the Imperial Oil station entered his hotel basement, made it unsafe and consequently caused the loss of business. Would delete "green strip" clause, claims town in preferred position

Deletion of a clause defining rights and privileges in relation to the proposed new official plan for Lindsay has been recommended by lawyer David Logan. The clause pertains to the "green strip" bordering the Scugog River within the town limits which has been designated for future development for recreational purposes by the municipality.

Representing a client owning property in an area north of George St. E. with the river as one boundary, Mr. Logan held that the provisions of the plan place the town in a preferred position with regard to the future use or sale of the land. He told the second public meeting called to examine the proposed new plan that he felt the town should be placed on the same level as its citizens when it came to acquiring property.

In the case at hand, Mr. Logan noted that if a person has private property within the green strip and wished to develop it as a residential area, the municipality's representatives to they could apply to the planning board for permission to do so, provided they can point out the problem is that the municipality, under the terms of the proposed plan, has no right to acquire the property and can offer a price which is not a fair price in relation to land values. This, he declared, could result in a situation wherein the person owning the land could, by refusing to sell to the town, find themselves carrying their appeal to the permission to develop to the people to whom they had refused to sell — the municipality.

Mr. Logan further explained that the case should be virtually closed because the request for permission to develop would have to be made to the planning board, members of which were appointed by the municipality. Thus having rejected the municipality's offer to purchase, the prospective developer would be placed in the position of asking the municipality to purchase the land. A decision which he considered would be highly impractical.

Mr. Logan took the stand that if people are going to be affected in the adoption of a new official plan, all people (including town administrators) should be treated equally. No person, he submitted, should

Report Dominion Store take-over of former Post Office site near Negotiations between Dominion Stores Ltd. and Shannon Enterprises, new owners of the old post office site near the town of Lindsay, are under way. The site is now under review by the store's engineering department, it was learned Friday.

A. E. Johns, property manager for the Dominion Stores, told "The Post" his company is now "moving to the next stage" of the development of a "contract."

"A tentative proposal has been submitted by the owners," he said, "which is under serious consideration by our company. There have been no rental terms set to date, or dollars involved, but there is every indication that this site is strategically located for our operations."

"At this time I can safely say that the site stands a good chance of being the top on our list."

Slow start forces campaign to extend canvass time

A slow start on the Community Chest Campaign has made it necessary to extend the time until the objective is reached, which may be to ward the end of October, Chairman Don Anderson announced today.

Canvassers are going all out in an effort to complete their calls as soon as possible.

Unofficial returns from the industries indicate receipts are about the same as last year, he said, but it is still too early to give an exact figure on the campaign's progress.

As was announced earlier, he was the canvasser when he calls at the door.

Calf leads men a merry chase

A small but agile calf led a number of men a merry chase on Angeline Street North on Friday afternoon when it escaped from the Community Sale Barns. Changing course too quickly at one spot it landed on its hindquarters and then sped away again before the men could get close. After a while it was outsmarted and its brief period of glory was over as it was hauled back to the barns.

The Vicking Division of the Union Carbide Canada Ltd. is again, for the second year, encouraging their employees to donate to the campaign by giving a ticket on a draw for every $8.00 donated. It was responsible for nearly doubling the donations last year, said the official, and from all reports is expected to top that figure this year.

Considerable credit must also go to the service clubs for their effort in the campaign, noted Mr. Anderson, also to the industries and business houses for allowing time off for some of the employees working on the campaign.

"I am appealing again to every citizen to make a special effort to see that we go 'over the top' this year and to welcome the canvasser when he calls at the door."

New development applies for service

Application for water service has been made by the rental housing development seen under construction in the picture above. A co-operative federal-provincial-municipal project, the houses are being built in Logis St.-Kawartha Drive area.

"It's surprising to see all this building going on in a 'depressed area', isn't it?", quipped Mayor Jos. Holton when the application was read at the Lindsay Water Commission's October meeting. His workshop noted that another 15-house development is going to be built on Short Ave.

One hundred and seven years ago, Faithful Brothers Lodge, now of Lindsay, was founded in the village of Manulac. It was the 77th Masonic lodge formed and chartered in the Ontario jurisdiction. This week W. Bro. Hugh M. Carter and officers of the lodge were the gold trimmed regalia for the first time. The occasion, which was most auspicious, was attended by a large number of members and visitors from the area.

Following the exemplification of the Entered Apprentice degree, the address of the evening was delivered by R. W. Bro. Mortlock, P.D.G.M. of Peterboro.

Wor Bro. Ford W. Moyne, Master of No. 77 Lodge 45 years ago, was called on for a few words and following the work in the lodge, adjournment was made to the banquet hall where the "Fourth Degree" was enjoyed.

The insurance firm now occupies new offices

A widely known Lindsay insurance firm has moved into new quarters on William Street north of Main and Whyte, general insurance agents in Lindsay since shortly after the first world war, are now occupying the former street level office of the CPR.

William D. Whyte joined the insurance firm of Mason in 1947 after serving during the war with the RCAF and he took over the company entirely when Mr. Mason passed away in 1953. Prior to the war Mr. Whyte had been a public and high school teacher. A past president of the Lindsay Kiwanis Club, and past lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 6, he is a Canadian Legion member and a member of the golfing and golf clubs. Mr. Whyte is married and has two sons ages 18 and 20.

Receptionist for Mason and Whyte for the past 10 years is Mrs. Joan Millage of Lindsay.

Elva Southern read the scripture and Eleanor spoke a few words on faith and hymns "My Soul Looks Up To Thee" was sung with Nora Tomlinson at the piano. Eleanor gave a reading on Faith and the offering was received and dedicated. The hymn "Faith of Our Fathers" was sung followed by prayer.

In the absence of the president Elva Southern took the chair for a short business period. As the last November Progressive dinner was such a success inquiries had been made about another to be discussed at the next meeting, which is to be at the Tait home, with Phyllis Purvis to speak on the United Nations.

The meeting closed with several old time favorite hymns. The Wrangs very kindly showed the group the lovely wedding picture.

Native of Newfoundland addresses club on province

Cannington (PNS) — At the regular meeting of the Cannington Lions Club the members heard an interesting talk on the province of Newfoundland by Fred Walker, a native of this island and at present on the teaching staff of Brock District High School.

Mr. Walker gave a word picture of this interesting province from the time man first stepped on this island to the present time. He explained its financial difficulties.

His problem of securing industries, the railway, and the new highways. It was interesting to hear Mr. Walker give the dialects of various communities on the island.

The speaker was introduced by president Allan McPhail and thanked by a Past President, Gavin Brandon.

The Lions Club made a donation of $400.00 to the Community Centre Board to help on the installation of a new hardwood floor at the arena.

Tenders for coal supply, new truck, deal with Tenders for next winter's supply of coal and a new truck were dealt with by Lindsay's Board of Water Commissioners at its October meeting.

Three tenders to supply coal — Lindsay Coal ($19 per ton), John L. Baker ($17.95), J. O. Baldwin and Son ($20.20 and $18.50, two grades). On the mayor's motion, the lowest tender is to be accepted, assuming that all of these are satisfactory.

Tendering to supply the truck were Graydon King $2,400, Peet's $2,375, Arnold's $2,625, Mowbray $2,105.90, J. Earl Graham $2,800. The tenders were referred to the chairman with power to act.

Gasoline Proposal is Disregarded

Commissioners decided against buying gasoline for its Board of Works at the existing channels when the estimated saving to be effected was considered. Supt. R. J. Reynolds estimated yearly consumption at about a 1,000 gallons. On the basis of available prices for gasoline, the switchover would involve a saving of about $29, it was pointed out. Commissioner Murray Grant observed that "for the amount of saving around involved it wouldn't be worth it."

Chairman Duncan Sinclair said he had been surprised by some of the garages — large water consumers — who wondered why they didn't get a discount from the board.

When it was estimated that there were about 35 service stations in the area being supplied by the commission, and the amount of gasoline used taken into consideration, members were hard-pressed to figure how they could divide the business up.

Canada Geese being featured on stamp issue

The Canadian Post Office Department plans to increase its stock of Canada Geese.

At present the 7c Canadian airmail stamp shows a single Canada goose but on October 30 a new 15c airmail stamp will show a flight of four geese. Postmaster General Axtell Denis says that since the 7c stamp is being replaced early next year with a new design it was felt the Canada Goose should be kept on at least one stamp in view of its popularity as a stamp subject and because it is the only waterfowl that bears the name of Canada.

The new 15c airmail stamp will be in the large vertical format size as opposed to the small size of present 7c airmail stamp. The stamp was designed by Angus Short, noted ornithological artist from Winnipeg.

CAN WOMEN OF 40, 51 STILL HAVE BABIES?

Dear Dr. Steinrohn I am 51 years of age and have been going through the menopause for the last six years and have no more hot flashes. It is possible that I can become pregnant now? Mrs. R.

Dear Dr. Steinrohn: I am 48 years old. I haven't had a period in 15 months. I have flashes, am tense and nervous. Can I be sure I am over pregnancy and child-bearing? My husband thinks there's nothing to be concerned over now, but I'm easy for him to say so, but I asked my doctor and he said he couldn't be positive, but the chances were not in favor of becoming pregnant. Can you give me more definite information? Mrs. G.

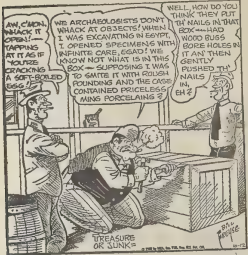

Comment: Dear Mrs. R.: Chances are you are way out of what many women call the "danger zone." Dear Mrs. G.: You are not far behind. But like your mother, I'll have to hedge; as the man said "Chances are you'll never get hit by lightning, but there's always the possibility when you expose yourself."

CAUSE FOR NERVOUSNESS?

I write today of a woman who has reason enough to be nervous. You or I would be, too, under similar circumstances. And I enclose her letter to so many women who are troubled because they can't get a new fur coat, a new car or wall-to-wall carpeting, will be more patient and thankful for what they have. And likewise so many men who haven't become vice president of the firm, and are dissatisfied because they were next in line for the promotion, will be thankful for their good health and present success and worry themselves unnecessarily. Here is the letter:

Dear Dr. Steinrohn: I read your advice to people every year in our paper. Now I have a complaint. I am sick of being sick. I don't know what to do about it. I don't think I can stand it much longer. Can you tell me what to do? I am almost 35 and have nine children. The youngest is 1 year old and the oldest is 21. I have a wonderful husband and am tired of worrying him about my sickness.

I am a poor woman. My husband just makes $120 a month and 11 of us have to live on it. I hate to worry my husband, but am so afraid. Please answer. Mrs. X.

Comment: It's almost incredible that in these days of inflation, your husband makes only $30 a week. If that's true, I don't see how the 11 of you can exist on it. And there's certainly reason enough here for your weakness and choking in the throat.

I have no medicine to suggest. Only hope to offer you my best wishes for a betterment in your financial condition.

Having treated many men who were upset by continually being kept at the grindstone by wives who were always trying to live up to the Joneses, I know many will be gratified by your statement, "I have a wonderful husband." The first regular meeting of the H.C. was held in the C.E. Centre. Rev. Plans were made for the group to attend the Youth Rally at Northminster Church, Ottawa and hear Drs. Kenneth and Pearl Prior of Africa.

A good number attended the Town and Country meeting in the C.E. room. A film on Peace, "The Way the Wind Blows" was introduced by Miss Beryl Hibbs and followed by a discussion. The Devotion-ism was given by Ralph Lerner. Lunch of pumpkin pie, whip-cream and coffee finished a pleasant evening.

A LOVELIER YOU

By MARY SUE MILLER

WHO'S AWKWARD? Scene in the lobby of a celebrated New York hotel. A kaleidoscope of fashion, as ladies gabble and fan chatter. The first lady the camera sees, the important hat, the crushed glove and the flash jewel - all were present and looking elegant. Cudd, that is, a warmer set down!

Then what had been a picture of loveliness suddenly became a study in awkwardness. Slim dancers, slumping in their chairs, resembled sacks of meal. Heavy women, feet stuck out and knees aghast, took on the aspect of a lady warrior.

Just so, poor posture detracts from femininity, looks and fashion in any situation. And all so unbecomingly, for it is so easy to carry oneself gracefully. To take a graceful seated position, simply follow these tips:

1. Sit squarely on your "sitto" bones. 2. Pull your waist in and up. 3. Let your shoulders fall relaxed. 4. Hold your back in a straight line, whether or not it rests against the back of a seat. 5. Avoid crooking your neck and letting your chin sag.

6. However you arrange your legs, keep the knees together. Place the soles of your feet on the floor, the toes of one foot slightly ahead of the other. If you're slim, you may cross the knees. But no chevron-like, please! No feet in the line of the palms, either. It is not the people who step on others' toes who are awkward.

7. Compose your hands in your lap and keep them still. 8. Practice all these motions until they flow into one simple, natural action. Then you'll really be "sitto" pretty!

USE OF BLOOD THINNERS AFTER CORONARY ATTACK
Many wives and their husbands are concerned with the doctor's suggested treatment after a coronary attack. They hear so many conflicting reports from neighbors and friends that it is natural that they become confused and anxious. For example, listen to Mrs. A. whose husband had an attack of coronary thrombosis:

friend whose doctor doesn't believe in giving blood thinners for so long.
Q: Well, what do you think about it?
RELY ON DOCTOR
A: The most important thing for you to remember is that you rely on your own doctor and not on what your neighbors' doctor is doing for your neighbor. Every case is an individual problem until their hospital after his attack of coronary thrombosis:

Q: What are the usual blood thinners?
A: Heparin is a common one. So is dicoumarol or a host. It means closing off of its derivatives. The doctor takes the blood test every week or so to determine how the prothrombin time is which indicates the thickness of the blood. Depending upon this finding, he orders the necessary blood thinners.

Q: What is their actual purpose?
A: To try to deter further clotting in the blood. In the winter if it's necessary to get water for blood tests every week or so. They hear of a

Now, in theory this works fine. In many patients we are quite certain that the drug has prevented further trouble. However, in many it doesn't work that way. They get second, and third, attacks anyhow. But we doctors make our decision to use it or not, depending upon the patient himself. How serious was his attack in the first place? Has he already had serious complications?

DANGER OF HEMORRHAGE
If the attack was a mild one although it's difficult sometimes to tell which was mild and which was serious) the doctor may decide to give the blood thinners only during the patient's stay in the hospital. As soon as he gets home he discontinues them. I haven't used blood thinners on all my coronary patients. There's always the danger of hemorrhage in using these drugs. The doctor has to be careful. Especially when the patient is a known bleeder, or has been suffering from severe ulcer of the stomach.

Q: So I suppose my husband had better take his dicoumarol until his doctor says stop.

A: That's about it. You'll have to live with it. Remember, he was good enough to treat him after it. Don't rely on neighbors when in doubt. Call in a heart consultant if you want to put your mind at ease.

Q: Well, I guess we'll just go along as is. We're thankful he has done as well as he had. No use borrowing trouble.

Councillor says:

Neither time nor desire to drink whiskey

Lindsay Councillor Joseph Hutton says he's toying with the idea of seeking legal advice about remarks directed at him by Reeve Lloyd Found at Monday night's council meeting. "I think those remarks were sanderous," Mr. Hutton said today.

In a letter addressed to the editor of "The Post", Mr. Hutton says, quote: "I would like to use this medium to clear your thinking and to assure you that Mr. Found's character attack on my sanderous was very untrue and has no foundation."

"In the first place, I don't have the time or the desire to consume whiskey, so in the future Mr. Found had better make sure who he is attacking while in a fit of temper caused by someone opposing his thinking."

"Some pretty important legislation was presented for council's consideration that dealing with members of council who may enter into contract or take advantage of the town and I thought that it should be discussed by all members of council, openly to the press, and not by a small committee behind closed doors as Mr. Found has requested."

Mayor suggests leaving parks issue up to 1964 council

"Let's leave the matter for next year's council," said Mayor Joseph Hutton replying to Councillor Joseph Hutton who had been commenting on the tour of parks properties by council members last week.

Councillor Hutton had raised objections to the parks board request for the use of the Auto Camp for parks purposes. "You have done a wonderful job Mr. Brown, but I'm wondering how much money the parks board can do at this time, this will be a costly project," he said.

Councillor Brown informed Councillor Hutton that members of council had taken on 2 1/2 hours to inspect the parks and go into all these questions thoroughly and asked why he wasn't present.

"I told you I had to go to Peterborough that day," retorted Mr. Hutton, and the mayor took the opportunity of suggesting the matter had better be handled by next year's council.

Theatre Foundation's plans outlined to Kiwanians

A large number of Kiwanians attended this week's meeting to hear an address by Dr. C.W.M. Service on the Academy Theatre Foundation and watch a presentation to Past-Governor of Kiwanis, Robert Ivan Moore on his retirement as public magistrate for Victoria and Haliburton.

Dr. Service gave a fine historical and enlightening talk on the Academy Theatre Foundation in which he stated several interesting facts; the theatre is over seventy years old, was built at a cost of over $16,000 and rebuilt and renovated with a new stage, pit and balcony over thirty years ago, and is today, recognized as one of the finest theatres as to layout, acoustics, and architecture in the Dominion. The speaker referred to many names involved in the running of the theatre and added that today some thirteen local organizations have pledged support to raise the money necessary for the purchase and renovation of the theatre.

Dr. Service outlined the aims and objects of the Foundation and the details of the forthcoming campaign for funds, and predicted a bright future for the theatre.

HARD TO BELIEVE BUT THAT'S WHAT THEY SAY...
Visiting the scene of the fire which left several people homeless in Lindsay Monday night when a combination business block and apartment house was extensively damaged, something of a very surprising nature was learned... Hard as it is to believe, some of the people living in the third floor apartments reportedly didn't know where the nearest fireescape was.
It is extremely fortunate that no one lost their lives in the fire as might well have been the case had it broken out a couple of hours later than it did. The fact that no one died, doesn't lessen the need for citing the necessity for ensuring that apartment dwellers are fully familiar with available emergency exits. We go to great lengths to try to ensure maximum safety in other buildings where many people congregate and there is no reason why the same shouldn't apply to people assuming occupancy of apartments.
Another thing which strikes us as being somewhat out of keeping with the times is having to rely upon human agencies to assist apartment dwellers in the presence of fire. Surely in the light of modern developments, an adequate warning device could be installed at strategic points in any building of this type. We say this because sometimes it just isn't possible for people outside to reach people on the inside because of smoke or the fire itself. In buildings of this type an easily accessible point of contact with all apartments (warning signal) shouldn't be either impractical or economically prohibitive.

Reports and Remarks...

NEW DRIVER LICENCE SYSTEM REQUIRES CORRECT ADDRESS
Is your correct address on your driver's licence?
Right now the Department of Transport is preparing to send to you — by mail — the application form for your next driver's licence. It is a new type of form, with your name printed on it.
"Under this new system, it is more important that ever that the Department have the right address of every driver," said Hon. Irwin Hackett, Ontario Minister of Transport. "Any driver who has changed his address and has forgotten to advise the Department should do so immediately, to ensure that he receives his application form for his next licence."
By law, a driver is required to notify the Department of a change of address within six days. Special forms for this purpose are available at all licence issuing offices. The mailing of application forms will launch Ontario's new system of drivers' licences. This will begin the transition to drivers' licences that will begin for three years, and will be renewable on each driver's birth-date.

Remember way back when

Our citizens will be pleased to learn that efforts will be made during the coming season to add greatly to the strength and efficiency of the Citizens' Band. The organization has had a very successful season and in all its engagements as well as in its park series, its playing has evoked the most favourable comment from music critics and the citizens generally. At a meeting recently held the organization was placed on a more effective basis. The excellent executive and the enthusiasm of its members augurs well for the future of this organization. During the coming season an effort will be made to add to the strength of the organization from the numerical standpoint. Already several new musicians have been enrolled and others could be secured if positions were available. The members will lend every endeavor to bring the membership of the band up to 35 by next spring. The best advertisement the town can possess is a first class band, and our citizens should try their share helping to make the local organization one of the crack musical organizations of the Dominion.

Hutton said he was considering seeing his lawyer about the attack made upon him. I consider this damaging and it is untrue," he declared.

At Monday's meeting Mr. Found in a exchange of words with Mr. Hutton is reported as having said: "I have no intention of standing and talking with commensurate on one side and whiskey on the other. I think it is a disgrace for some members to come into the chamber, reeking as they do, and I hope you print it."

Man is slipping . . . not a mistake, (although that may be possible too), but just plain man, the lad who's supposed to be in command of things, rule the household and all sort of thing.

A Terry Jackson of Lindsay has conclusive proof that man, some of the time, is a creature too, but just plain man, the lad who's supposed to be in command of things, rule the household and all sort of thing.

Looking through an old scrapbook the other day, Mr. Jackson came across the newspaper clipping which illustrates very well just how far man has yielded ground in what once must have been a winning battle to avoid being tricked into matrimony by artificial flowers. Here is what they looked like:

Historic Note
In the year of grace 1700 Parliament enacted the following list of legislation: "That all women, of whatever age, rank, profession or degree, whether virgin, maid or widow, that shall from and after such act impose upon and betray into matrimony any of his majesty's subjects by means of scent, paint, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish head-dresses, or high-heeled shoes shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanours and that the marriage so contracted shall stand null and void."

Unfortunately the clippings didn't include any pictures of women as they appeared in that man's era. . . Wonder what they looked like?

Nowadays man's got to have a pretty sharp eye in his head and a good memory for general features to be sure the woman he's having dinner with at night is the same one he left off the coffee-table that morning. . . But that's life in the woman's world today. . . a blonde this morning, a brunette by nightfall.

On the subject of matrimony and related matters, many presidents of United States manage to retain their bachelorhood. The Prime Minister of England, for example, an agile sidestepper of feminine lure by the name of James Buchanan.

Ex-principal looks back on Haliburton days with humour

The auditorium of the Haliburton District High School was filled to capacity with graduates, parents and their friends for the annual Commencement Exercises last Friday.

N. A. Sisco, B.A., assistant superintendent of Secondary Education for the Ontario Department of Education, was the commencement speaker. He began his address with humorous reminiscences of his own experience of the Haliburton high school. He went on to discuss history as interpreted by the eminent historian, Arnold Toynbee and stated that from observing the rise and fall of societies it could be seen that social progress came from adversity. Mr. Sisco compared the improvements of the Egyptian civilization before Christ who inhabited swampy lands on the Nile, compared with the work of progress among nomadic tribes of the Middle East who had grasslands where life

BB pellet strikes girl in face
Oakwood (PNS) - A serious accident recently occurred on Saturday afternoon at Oakwood when Lois Quirke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Squires was hit in the face by a BB pellet.

Several young children, including Lois, were playing outside a house when some boys came along with BB guns. One of them pointed his gun at the girl and said, "I'll shoot you."

The pellet struck the small girl less than an inch above her eye. Fortunately no harm was done except to the nerves and tempers of the parents and children.

ARDA chairman calls meeting
A public meeting of the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Association was held for Thursday night in the Ontario government building to draw up plans for ARDA pasture programme in this district and the water conservation projects in the Glenora-Hartley area.

The aim of the meeting, said Victoria County Chairman Clare Curtin, is to eliminate the possibility of misunderstanding on the part of the public, including urban people.

Mr. Curtin pointed out that more than farm problems were dealt with by ARDA. It was he said, concerned with conservation on a broad scale. He cited falling water tables as a matter of prime concern to both rural and urban people.

Automatic alarm foils burglars
An automatic burglar alarm foiled would-be thieves attempting to break into a service station near Powles Corners early today.

Police say an attempt was made to break into Hebel Motors on highway 36 north but the intruders must have got scared when the alarm went off.

O.P.F. Const. D. Reeds said in the case of the station deserted but a rear window broken.

Town declines to support anti-planning board idea

Lindsay Council likes its planning board. Council voted unanimously, non-concurrent with the recommendation of the Ontario's select committee that planning boards be dissolved.

Mayor Holton claimed that planning boards were necessary to relieve council of present and future planning work which they were constituted of local people enabled the town to make it own decisions without having to go to so-called Toronto experts.

Planning board chairman John Ekins asked for closer co-operation between the planning board and the council. "A good planning board can save the community working with council and on the board we need people who have an earnest desire to do a good job."

A hard one to control

Monday night's fire in Lindsey picture above shows firemen proved to be a stubborn one to control even when attacked from all directions. The fire in the rear of the burning building. In the second picture down, Fire Chief Arnold Watson directs the activities of his men while immediately below, firemen direct a high pressure hose on the blaze from ground level. The fire in the former Blackwell Bldg., northeast corner of Kent and Cambridge Sts., caused an estimated $750,000 damage and dislocated several business offices, apartment dwellers and a newspaper plant. A sudden roll of newspaper literally floats in the plant's doorway.

Agree in principle to accept Academy Theatre conveyance

Lindsay Council Monday night agreed in principle to accept the gift of the Academy Theatre from the Academy Theatre Foundation, subject to a satisfactory agreement that would protect the council's interests in the future.

The foundation had submitted to council a draft agreement setting out the objects of the trustees and details of the conveyance of lands and premises to the town for $1.00 a year. It was proposed that the property would then be leased back to the foundation in perpetuity, for $1.00 a year, with the town waiving taxes on the property and agreeing to apply for any government grants for the property that might be obtained.

ZELLER'S — RETAILERS TO THRIFTY CANADIANS

"The Maidens' Viewpoint"

Before I turn this column over to Fenwick for two or three weeks there are two or three things I'd like to finish up.

I have had several inquiries about this Sibbald Point Park — the people have been wondering what about the "fired" toilets, fireplaces — already split and piled — presentable." That isn't the way it went in but how it comes out, no one knows — the splitting referred to firewood — believe it or not you never know what happens between the typed copy and the printed product. I even read my own stuff — I never know what can happen.

I found a new place of business the other day. I've known about the place but haven't taken the time to stop in. That's why I was and anyone else who may have gone by without stopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Moody came from Thillston and have opened a small restaurant and home baking shop. The meat pies are out of this world and the bread just melts in your mouth.

The Moody's are more than pleased with the reception they have received — in fact it keeps them baking day and night to keep up with the orders. They hope to expand and wholesale meat pies to the various district restaurants. The Moody shop is located about four miles north of Fenelon Falls on 121 almost opposite what used to be the entrance to Mac Brandon's "Log Cateau".

The next time you go by this way — stop in — it will be worth your while.

Last Saturday afternoon I spent a couple of very enjoyable hours at the Fenelon Falls outdoor art display. The showing was at "The Anchorage" — a very delightful place with a magnificent view of the falls. For years I have worked in this locality and Saturday was the first time I was able to visit and appreciate "The Anchorage" surroundings.

The interior of The Anchorage is an artist's dream and shows a great deal of skill, and artistic appreciation.

I met so many people and had so many names thrown at me that I couldn't begin to remember them all.

The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Pellerin I hope that's spelled correctly were very gracious and invited their efforts to make everyone feel at home.

This group of artists, both local and outside the area, deserve a lot of credit for the work they are doing. Their exhibition was highly professional looking.

I noticed one thing — there were very few Fenelon Falls people interested enough to turn out to see this exhibition — this was their loss. The opportunity to see work of this type is not always available and it is unfortunate that when it does come so few avail themselves of the opportunity.

Well, that's about it — for the next couple of weeks at least, you are in the hands of "Fenwick Finch".

It's about time — though he'd never leave. Before tell you about Cooperstown, N.Y. I'd like to tell you about last Saturday in Lindsay.

As you know William Tins and Battery have moved out onto Oakeside Road and have set up shop. Quite a place it is too. Their tire shop does credit to a large city.

I needed gas so I stopped in. Rog Killeen and I retrieved our tank with gas — after he was finished he said — "Fenwick Finch" — The Leatherstocking make the visit.

The cat art director Jack Pollock is showing me at the East Canadian Art Association exhibition in Fenelon Falls. The product of Gordon Grewe's skillful hands. Bearing a price tag of $100, the investment was a trifle higher than I was prepared to go on this occasion besides "Minerva" might have been jealous. More about the show a little later in this column.

— don't run away — there's the Falls are beautiful.

If you are interested in baseball, the baseball Hall of Fame is the place — Historic playing accessories that were used by baseball's outstanding heroes comprise this outstanding display of moments. These heroes are represented by a bat, a glove, uniform even the bench occupied by Cooperstown — he's his own worst enemy — stated one of the group.

That takes care of this week he around later? It won't be long until Ams. Moosmick is on his way down south again — we didn't go as much time to visit this year but there's always next year — have a good winter Ams.

"Not as long as I'm alive". It won't be long until Ams. Moosmick is on his way down south again — we didn't go as much time to visit this year but there's always next year — have a good winter Ams.

"Say, Fenwick", he said, "How'd you like a free package of 'Pulp Magazine'?" "If she's free, I'm for it!", I answered.

"Well", Bob hedged, "I don't exactly free — you see this microphone — how about a short interview?"

So that's how come I got to be on the air — got a free package of 'Pulp Magazine'. After the interview Bob bumped into his car, left me, the service station and my windshield half cleaned. It's to be hoped the young gaffer, doesn't do the windshields on cars — she'd be a poor deal half done.

For the last part of this week let's take a little look at Cooperstown, N.Y. — This is the home of Baseball — the main theme throughout the community. A short drive below Syracuse brings you to Cooperstown.

In 1789, Judge William Cooper, father of James Fenimore, novelist and founder of Cooperstown, established his home at the foot of Otsego Lake. It was surrounded by a few huts and stood an Main Street near the present entrance of Cooperstown Park and commanded full view of the Lake. The house was replaced in 1799 by Otsego Hall which was destroyed by fire in 1852.

During my visit I found the atmosphere very quiet and peaceful although each year it is becoming more and more commercial. Times change and a great many of the old timers I knew twenty years ago have gone and their place is taken and more business-like group of people. The atmosphere is still there — now you have to pay to enjoy it.

James Fenimore Cooper made this area famous in his Leatherstocking Tales. You can easily relive them by walking along Stage Coach Lane and by standing at "Mt. View" to look for you should find something to hold your attention.

Next week I'll give you a bit of a breakdown on the Fenelon Falls Hall of Fame — give you some idea of the exhibits and what to look for you should find something to hold your attention.

A short trip up Scenic Highway 35 over the weekend made me realize the summer season is sure past and done with. The only way you could get a cup of frog was to wait until you got home and brewed it yourself. When things close down up here they don't fool —

Sitting around the table here other night in "The Clay Pipe" room the conversation got around to a certain lodge operator — "he's his own worst enemy —" stated one of the group.

"Not as long as I'm alive". It won't be long until Ams. Moosmick is on his way down south again — we didn't go as much time to visit this year but there's always next year — have a good winter Ams.

Mount Horeb boy hurt in fall

Mount Horeb (PNS) — A young Mount Horeb student suffered a painful accident while playing in school. Duane Reed, a student at Mount Horeb school, and some other children had made a swing by tying a rope around the limb of a tree and swinging from it.

As the boy took his turn, he slipped from the rope, falling to the ground, sustaining a fractured left arm.

Artists rendezvous at Fenelon Falls

Queen St. home gutted in Sunday night fire

A fire, believed to have started from a overheated radiator, broke out in a water heater, completely gutted the two-storey mixed, frame home of Duncan, 154 Queen St., Sunday night.

Firemen were called to the scene around 10:30 p.m. and worked for over an hour bringing the fire under control.

One John Surprenant, Donald O'Neill — was treated at the Ross Memorial Hospital for cuts received from broken glass and a radio newsmen and fire standing nearby was drenched by a hose that inadvertently came loose.

Mrs. Daynes told "The Post" that prior to the fire she had hung out some washing and had gone to visit her mother-in-law in the next door to wait for her husband to return from his work. A neighbor came in and told her of the fire, she said.

Mr. Daynes said he had received the call at the Millbrook restaurant where he had a guard and immediately returned home.

"That was one of the fastest I've ever had," he commented.

A considerable amount of clothing and other articles were badly smoked and fire damaged, he said, and the property only partly insured.

The fire was kept confined to the house, said the fire chief, and nearby homes were undamaged.

Mrs. R. Preston speaks on "Hong Kong" at UCW meeting

Bethany (PNS)—The United Church Women met in the St. Thomas Hall for their October meeting with Mrs. Thomas Jennings presiding.

Mrs. Herb Coppins had charge of the worship service of hymns, prayers, scripture reading, and a reading of the offering. The offering was received by Mrs. Bruce Riley.

Mrs. Ross Davidson gave the financial report. Minutes and correspondence which included thanks from Mr. and Mrs. James McKinnon and Mrs. A. W. Stieglitz.

Minutes were read by secretary Mrs. Addison Scott. Mrs. Jennings reported having attended the Church Official Board meeting and that a visit of all members to create new interest was planned.

It was decided to forgo the usual Fall Supper and that instead, letters would be sent out asking for cash donations. Members were asked to contribute coupons for the purchase of additional pitchers for the church kitchen.

Mrs. Albert Preston had charge of the study period and presented an interesting manner of life in Hong Kong. She said "This British Colony of some 398 square miles has a 98% Chinese population, with an English Governor. It is one of the few territories in the world that retains both free enterprise and free trade."

The major industry is textiles and they have up to date spinning mills and looms. It is also a ship building centre and a place of contrast with its natural beauty of scenery, with its winding hill roads overlooking dark and wooded valleys.

The speaker pointed out the heavy business counterpointed by the incessant call of Mahjong, with its delicate food and tempting pleasures, and its hungry, homeless children, and with its perennial tragedy and its spontaneous gaiety.

62 art association members register for Fenelon exhibit

Perfect autumn weather attracts many to Anchorage House painting weekend

Perfect autumn weather provided an added incentive for artists and art lovers to rendezvous at Fenelon Falls over the weekend.

Sixty-two members of the East Central Ontario Art Association had registered by Saturday afternoon for the two-day fall painting and outdoor art exhibition at Anchorage House overlooking beautiful Fenelon Falls.

Artists and viewers were present from many parts of the province including a good representation from the Lindsay Fenelon Falls Cobocook area.

President Robert Marshall of Orillia and Secretary Rose M. Duggan of Peterborough were enthusiastic about the success of the event. Mr. Marshall recalled that the association started out with a membership of about 35-40 representing three clubs and has grown to the point where upwards of 200 are present.

Started through the Community Programs Branch, Ontario Dept. of Education, Mr. Marshall explains that the association was formed in 1948.

Central Art Association is now entirely self supporting.

Two art exhibits are held yearly and the showing points are on a rotation basis among member units. The spring showing was at Picton.

An instructor at the Fenelon Falls event was distinguished Toronto artist Jack Pollock who circulated among the numerous artists who had set up on the spacious lawn of the Anchorage House.

The setting, he said, was ideal, offering a wide variety of subject material.

Although the exhibit was primarily of art work, an interesting wood carving item from Gordon Gordon of Bancroft was on display and caught the eye of many visitors. Called "Friskey Felino," it bore a price tag of $100.

Hosts for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Pelletier, owners of Anchorage House, Mrs. Pelletier being an artist of achievement.

Mrs. Pelletier said the association was formed in 1948.

Goes for swim in Sturgeon as October mercury soars

Jimmy Willis of Lindsay may have found some of a record for late swimming this year.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Willis, he took to the water at Sturgis Harbour (Sturgeon Lake) on Saturday at the peak of the late October heat wave.

Other flash-baths to the good old summertime which seemed loathe to take its last breath were the re-appearance of shorts, boats and sunbathers.

TIMELY TIPS

Before baking potatoes, rub the skin with butter. Potatoes done this way have a tender and extra flavorful skin.

Looking for "teen party food" that is sure to please and satisfy? Macdonald Institute, through offers these suggestions for hot sandwiches, using warmed hamburger rolls. Try broiled minced steak, topped with cheese and a thin slice of raw apple. Or try hot chicken slices topped with undiluted cream of mushroom soup and chopped raw celery. Broil until bubbly.

New potatoes, boiled and served in their skins, provide half of the day's supply of Vitamin C. Cook these potatoes in a small amount of boiling water and serve them immediately to avoid loss of the vitamin.

Buttermilk has food value as well as a tangy refreshing flavor. Nutritionists at Macdonald Institute, Guelph, tell us that buttermilk has the same food value as the milk from which it is made. This means buttermilk contains calcium, riboflavin and protein.

COOKING HINTS

For gelatin in orange slices. Cut top third off oranges; scoop out fruit. Prepare orange-flavored gelatin according to package directions, using orange juice as part of liquid. Chill till partially set. Add fruit. Chill in shallow pan till firm. Cut in cubes; pile in shells. Top with orange sections.

For whole-kernel creamed corn. Cut corn from cob, holding knife at an easy angle; now scrape cob. In skillet put 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1½ cups cut corn (about 5 ears), ½ cup light cream, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and dash pepper. Cover; simmer 8 to 10 minutes (stir occasionally).

To unmold gelatin salad or dessert. Dip mold to rim in warm water for a few seconds. Loosen edge with tip of knife. Pick up mold and tilt it; with your hand, ease gelatin away from one side to let air in, the rotule mold so air can loosen gelatin all around. Place plate upside down over mold; invert; lift mold off.

Let salad-maker shred carrots. These cooked carrots are a treat! Heat 2 tablespoons salad oil, butter, or margarine in skillet; add 4 cups coarsely shredded raw carrots (about 3 carrots), ½ cup sliced green onions, ½ teaspoon salt. Cover; cook 5 to 7 minutes or till limp-drops. Turn up snappets of parsley.

Whip gelatin for a fluffy dessert. Prepare gelatin mixture as package directs. Chill till slightly thicker than unbeaten egg white. Whip with electric or rotary beater till light and airy like whipped cream. Mound into sherbet glasses and chill until set. Trim with berries or other fruit.

Slip potato skins the easy way. This tip helps you remove jackets from hot potatoes without burning your fingers. Score the raw potatoes around the centre with the point of your knife. Cook covered in boiling water till done. Spear each spud with a fork in the score mark, and start peeling.

STOP! . . . killing yourself

By Peter J. Steinhorn, MD., F.A.C.P.

SO SHE SCREAMED AT THE CHILDREN

Sometimes ago I published a letter here to Mrs. X, who was greatly concerned about and angry at a neighbor who was always screaming at her children. You will be interested in this letter received today:

Dear Dr. Steinhorn: Perhaps Mrs. X will be more tolerant when she reads the other side of the story. Not too long ago in a nearby city a young mother of two killed herself and her two children. The neighbors said of her, "She kept to herself and she screamed at her children all the time."

The painful note left by the mother said: "I am tired-tired of trying and failing-tired of being caring."

Her neighbors didn't follow up their awareness of her troubles with any friendly help. It would have been too much of a strain on their dignity, I suppose. It was easier to sit home and criticize until they had accomplished something successfully. Watching her

CARE ABOUT THE MOTHER TOO

My comment to Mrs. X. is this: If you are about children, care about the mother too. In your mind try to imagine her as one of those little girls of hers grown up.

With her screaming and beating she exhibits indications of an unhealthy mind. Not to mention, just poor breeding in control and language. She is probably more unhappy about her treatment of her children than you are, Mrs. X.

If you have any constructive advice that can help her keep a better house, take better care of her children, plan her day for her so she has time to do something she likes, give her that advice. Don't do it coldly. Be diplomatic. She won't like. Be sincerely interested and friendly.

Teach her something new that you know how to do. Give her a recipe, teach her to knit, much of a strain on their dignity, I suppose. It was easier to sit home and criticize until they had accomplished something successfully. Watching her children for her an hour of two a week.

If you have it in your heart to really help, then try to get at the root of the problem. That mother has problems you can't imagine until you find children. Sincerely, Screaming Meechie.

It was a happy birthday affair for all for Mr. A.E. Webster of Oakwood.

Scheduled to celebrate his 60th birthday on Sunday (October 13), Mr. Webster was forced to enter hospital at Lindsay earlier in the week but modern medicine made it possible for him to be out in time for the occasion. He was able to have his birthday dinner with his family at noon on Sunday with all members around him. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E.P. Byers (Pearl) of Kenmore, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Eachern (Lena) of Lewistown, Mr. and Mrs. E.G. O'Neill of Peterboro, Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Eachern and children, Bobby and Sharon of Milton.

A few friends called in the afternoon but the afternoon and evening reception was cancelled.

LOW CHOLESTEROL DIET CRAMPED HIS STYLE, CLAIMS 85-YEAR-OLD

Dear Dr. Steinhorn: There's no fool like an old fool—I stays a fool longer than he should. When will the elderly people writing to you about cholesterol wake up? I was one of them. Stopped eating eggs, butter, cheese, and everything the doctors told me to cut out, including salt. I quit for about two months, then went back on my regular diet.

I am still around and raring to go. I am only 85, next birthday, so tell all those people who worry themselves sick about having a cholesterol reading that is a little higher than normal to wake up and stop worrying. These older people who get worried about cholesterol tests ought to have their heads examined.—Mr. L.

on as you are"—unless there are very specific reasons to the contrary. I don't like to change signals when the patient is making good yardage goals.

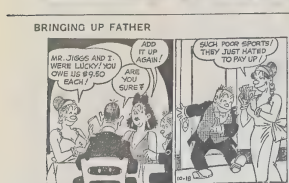

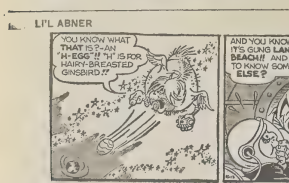

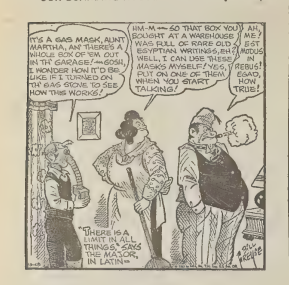

It is for this reason I don't take a few pipefuls of tobacco away from the 70- to 80-year-old who enjoys it; I let him have his liquor, his coffee, his fat, his exercise (or his inactivity), his 10 hours sleep or his five (whichever he prefers). I would go on.

What I am trying to say is that the doctors must stand against going overboard in handing out unnecessary restrictions which take the joy out of life—when there is a reasonable doubt that the restriction will do more harm than good.

Comment: One Yes vote for you and a No vote for your daughter. Readers of this column know that I believe that mother nature is not averse to having help where she has fallen down in fashioning our nose, ears or anything else. She welcomes plastic surgery in those who have the courage and wisdom to take advantage of what modern surgery has to offer.

Therefore, go to it and more power to you—I have known scores of patients who almost shied in unison: "I wish I had it done years ago!" Just be sure that you have a plastic surgeon of fine reputation do the job. Your medical society or family physician will look up a list of those in high standing.

The reason I say NO to your daughter at this time is that I believe she's too young to have it done now. Her features

Fenelon Falls United Church scene of McNeven-Hart wedding

Glenarm

Miss Grada Hengeveld employed in Lindsay visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hengeveld, also Bernard Hengeveld also was a visitor with parents.

It was with regret that Islay and Glenarm friends learned that Mrs. Andy Jones had to enter the Ross Memorial Hospital and still a patient undergoing treatment. All hope she may soon be greatly improved, and able to return home. Miss Anne Jones, nurse in training in Peterboro, spent a couple of days at her home at Islay.

A number of ladies, members of the Missionary Society of Knox Church were guests of the ladies of Hartley Church for their thankoffering and joined in fellowship and a social time. Mrs. (Rev.) Reg McStull of Lindsay guest speaker is always enjoyed by Glenarm ladies and well known at Glenarm as her parents, the late Rev. and Mrs. Smith was a former minister over a period of years at Glenarm.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Newman, sons Mark, Ronald and Bruce of Kinnowist visited friends Mr. and Mrs. Will Nesbitt.

—Claude Bellwood, Fenelon Falls

Pictured above signing the register following their wedding in Fenelon Falls United Church are Mr. and Mrs. Eric McNeven. The bride is the former Linda Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hart, of Fenelon Falls and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie McNeven, of Port Credit, formerly of Fenelon Falls.

Fenelon Falls United Church, was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding on October 12, 1983 at 3 p.m. when Linda Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hart, of Fenelon Falls, and Eric McNeven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie McNeven, of Port Credit, formerly of Fenelon Falls, were united in marriage.

Rev. M. C. Fisher performed the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mr. Jack Marshall, of Fenelon Falls.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a short gown of Chantilly lace and net. The fitted bodice which had a sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves came to a full skirt and was trimmed with iridescent sequins and wore pearls. The bouffant skirt, worn over many crinolines, was in tiered effect with scalloped edges. Her headpiece, a spray of pearlized flowers and rods, held a shoulder-length silk illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses and pink 'mums'.

Mrs. Kenneth Ferrill, sister of the bride, of Scarborough, was matron-of-honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Edie June Curtis, of Fenelon Falls and Miss Charlene McNeven, of Port Credit.

The matron-of-honor was in rose shade peau de soie street-length sheath dress which had a matching over-skirt and the bridesmaids wore in medium blue peas de soie dresses which were styled identically to the matron-of-honor. Their matching headpieces were caps of flowers accented with a small veil and they carried nosegays of Shasta daisies.

The best man was Don McNeven, of Toronto and the ushers were Kenneth Ferrill, of Scarborough and John McLean, of Fenelon Falls.

The reception was held at the Cameo Tea Room, Fenelon Falls, where the bride's mother received wearing a gold dress with matching three quarter length coat, deep

ACCIDENTS: WE ASK FOR THEM

We ask for it, and sometimes we are unfortunate enough to get it. I speak of accidents. I came upon one at an intersection today a few minutes after I had finished my column.

It didn't seem like much. The couple involved appeared to be in their 70's. She had been driving. She tried a U-turn on a busy street, lost control of her car, and smashed head-on into a pole. I was told she wasn't going more than 15 to 20 miles an hour. But the front of the car was entirely caved in, and the steering wheel had been battered into a mishappen mass by the driver's chest (or vice versa).

Police were there giving first aid; then the ambulance came. They took her in a stretcher, and he was able to walk to the ambulance this face cut up glass).

As accidents go it wasn't much. But it goes to prove that you don't have to be driving very fast to be in danger to the hospital. I looked at the front seats. Each was draped with a safety belt.

"Were they wearing them?" I asked the officer.

He smiled knowingly, shrugged his shoulders, shook his head and said, "Uh, uh."

Now don't go up to me, and say, "Weren't they foolish?" Before you do, ask your sister when was the last time you went to the doctor, had a prescription filled, put the bottle of medicine in the cabinet and never even took one dose of the stuff. You might have thought that was "low speed."

But if you really needed that medicine, you might have been asking for trouble, too.

SOME GOOD WORDS FOR THE DOCTOR

I suppose many of you recall (especially members of the medical profession) the times I have expressed the exasperation of some readers who take it out on their doctors. The magazines are too old, the doctor's not listen patiently, they keep you waiting for hours before they see you, etc. Well, here is a letter in a major rather than a minor key. Doctors aren't all bad. Far from it.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I suppose everyone starts out by saying they read your column every day. Me, too. And our own doctor, the best friend this family has, has quoted some of your wisdom to me. (Do you wonder why I reprint this reader's letter?)

I have no ailments that the family doctor can't handle, or anything of that sort. I just want to say how pleased I was to see your column today about Caesar's birth. I especially liked when you said that the baby was more important than the mother's vanity.

I know one mother who refused to submit to the operation because her "body would be disfigured." The poor unfortunate child suffered brain damage because the mother was too small to deliver normally. Now the mother leads a miserable, hateful life and has ruined the entire family.

The husband and wife now hate each other and the child, are psychologically out of control.

And please, Dr. Steincrohn, don't fail to put in a good word for the family doctor, who

Mr. O. Imrie gave a historical sketch of Knox Church W.M.S. telling of the seal and prayerfulness that led to the forming of the Woodville Auxiliary in 1883 by Mrs. Alexander Ross, wife of the minister of the church at that time, up until the present.

Greetings were then brought by Mrs. H. Westcott, President of Lindsay Presbyterial W.M.S. Mrs. S. Murray, President of Lindsay Presbyterial United Church Women, Mrs. D. Whelan, member of the Toronto-Kingston Synodical W.M.S., and Miss Joyce Westlake, President of the Woodville United Church of Women's Auxiliary.

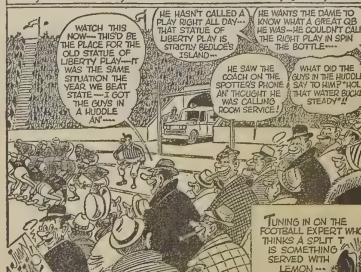

A hymn was sung after which the offering was received and dedicated with prayer by Mrs. John Imrie. Mrs. J.A. Nevata, convener of the Overseas Committee for missions of the Council Executive, then sang the beautiful solo "How lovely are Thy dwellings," accompanied by Mrs. C. Vesile at the piano.

Before introducing the guest speaker, Mrs. C. Vesile, who had been convener of the Anniversary Committee told of the many letters and telephone calls received and how very pleased and happy the committee had been to receive

WMS celebrates 80th anniversary

Woodville (PNS) — The Anniversary of the Knox Presbyterian Church Women's Missionary Society was a very happy occasion when the 80th Anniversary of the Woodville Auxiliary was celebrated in conjunction with the Thanksgiving.

Over 200 guests greeted the guests who were the gift of the C.O.C. and had name cards given them which had been made by the Explorer group and their leaders. All past presidents of whom there were eight present, and special guests were the recipients of very lovely coronas made and presented by the C.O.C. of Knox Church.

The president, Mrs. Leslie Thomas, presided and opened the meeting which was held in the auditorium of the church, by repeating a verse of scripture. The scripture had been chosen by the minister of Knox Church, Rev. K.J. Rooney, as being particularly appropriate to an 80th anniversary.

The psalm "The Lord is my Shepherd," to the covenant was sung and Mrs. Thomas led in prayer. This was followed by words of welcome from the president.

A very impressive memorial service was held for those faithful members who had laboured over the years and have now passed on to higher service. This opened with the singing of a hymn. The scripture lesson taken from the new English Bible, was read by Mrs. Hugh Imrie. Mrs. E.L. Paad gave a memorial reading which she had very ably prepared and Mrs. K.J. Rooney led in prayer.

Mrs. O. Imrie gave a historical sketch of Knox Church W.M.S. telling of the seal and prayerfulness that led to the forming of the Woodville Auxiliary in 1883 by Mrs. Alexander Ross, wife of the minister of the church at that time, up until the present.

Greetings were then brought by Mrs. H. Westcott, President of Lindsay Presbyterial W.M.S. Mrs. S. Murray, President of Lindsay Presbyterial United Church Women, Mrs. D. Whelan, member of the Toronto-Kingston Synodical W.M.S., and Miss Joyce Westlake, President of the Woodville United Church of Women's Auxiliary.

A hymn was sung after which the offering was received and dedicated with prayer by Mrs. John Imrie. Mrs. J.A. Nevata, convener of the Overseas Committee for missions of the Council Executive, then sang the beautiful solo "How lovely are Thy dwellings," accompanied by Mrs. C. Vesile at the piano.

Before introducing the guest speaker, Mrs. C. Vesile, who had been convener of the Anniversary Committee told of the many letters and telephone calls received and how very pleased and happy the committee had been to receive them all coming as they did from over the whole Western Division of the Women's Missionary Society from as far away as Vancouver, B.C. She read two of these, one from Miss Agnes Dickson, one of the Honorary Presidents, who went as a missionary to China from Lindsay Presbyterial many years ago, and who is now spending his retirement years at Penmarvair in Paris, Ont., and the other from the wife and daughter of a former minister, Mrs. Robert Simpson of Brooklin, Mrs. Simpson has spent the last 17 years in bed, a victim of arthritis and had also lost her eyesight. These two letters were just examples of the Christian fortitude and faith shown by members of the Women's Missionary Society everywhere.

Mrs. Vesile then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. A.S. Carr of Toronto, President of the Women's Missionary Society W.M.S. of the Presbyterian church in Canada, who brought a very stirring and greetings were brought by challenging message to all as Rev. Sheridan Dole, Hamilton, she told of the need in each of Mrs. A. Glenn Thompson, our mission fields and urged Stouffville, Immediate past us "Reached out to those in the Women's Missionary Society."

Harold Tate, Millbrook, guest speaker at the 70th Anniversary and Mrs. (Rev.) Reg. McMillen of Lindsay who with capably thanking especially Mrs. Kores from Lindsay Presbyterial Carr and Mrs. Newstead, both as missionaries.

ALOEVELLY YOU

AS THE HAIR DIES. Do you use hair spray? Without spraying it'll naturally disappear to keep most hair from being groomed between sets. One's head becomes disheveled before time, and that one's whole appearance seems to fade.

• PVP (or PVPVA) Spray—This contains proteins like cornmeal, which supply a film but don't irritate the scalp.

• Protective Spray—Formulas resist dampness and sun-lighting.

• Hair Conditioner—Spray, not diluted by rubbing; after running a damp comb through the hair, re-spray is unnecessary.

• Hair Treated Hair—Designed to be kind to the bleached or tinted hair.

• Colored Sprays—For pointing up hair-coloring.

• Conditioning Types—Usually formulated with lanolin, for conditioning and a moisture guard, for instance. The information is on the labels. So do study them before making a choice. A just-right selection could assure you perfect hair.

STOP!... killing yourself

By Peter J. Steinhorn, M.D., F.A.C.P.

PINT OF BLOOD IS A POOR TONIC
More than $3,000 blood transfusions are given every year in the United States. The procedure itself is simple, but the preparations for it and the implications for its use are not so simple.

I want to go into the importance of proper selection of the blood donors, methods of typing the blood, storing it in blood banks, cross-matching it with the patient and at last delivering the precious cargo to the sick patient. All I want to warn about is that blood transfusion should not be used as a tonic—"just to build you up a little."

Not too many years ago—and in too many patients now, too—a patient or slight drop in blood cells would be brought into the hospital for a transfusion for a "last tonic." Now that I am glad to say, there have been many more discussions and papers written about the dangers of other reactions, we prefer the slow "tonic" of iron tablets over a period of weeks or months.

I recall a divisional meeting of the American College of Physicians in Colorado Springs in 1960. I was there on a lecture tour, and had dropped in just in time to hear a paper read, which I think was long overdue.

NEEDLESS, DANGEROUS
It was on this subject: the needlessness and danger of giving blood transfusions unless there was a very specific indication for their use; for example, severe hemorrhage, shock, etc.

The speaker emphasized that in practically all cases where only one pint of blood was used in treating a patient, it was likely that it hasn't been necessary at all. Therefore, he advocated caution in leaning on the old bromide: "Guess I'll give you a pint of blood to build you up."

In the intervening years, I slyly subject rather to many more "hangers" in the future. I think you should good judgment in going in for the T & A. Considering how long you have had this infection, I think in your system, I think you are lucky in not having transfusions. Therefore, if you are ever quite ill and really need blood, don't hesitate to take this life-saving juice. However, if any doctor still believes that "a pint of blood is good for you as a tonic," you should have a consultation to make sure you really need it.

TONSILS OUT AT 56

Dear Dr. Steinhorn: I am 56 years old and am scheduled for a tonsillectomy. I have had tonsils all my life and my parents had them clipped when I was a child. Last winter they were lanced about 15 times and those places stay open. I am taking a risk in having them removed at this time for the recovery period, my age? How much surgery will I slow myself for recovery?

Comment: Rather than possibly subjecting yourself to many more "hangers" in the future, I think you should good judgment in going in for the T & A. Considering how long you have had this infection, I think in your system, I think you are lucky in not having congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Allan Brooks who were married recently. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison were on a holiday at Lakefield and Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Prentice were on holiday with the John Scotts, of Searchmont, and also in Salt St. Marie. Sympathy of the community to the family and friends of the late Fred Stamp who passed away.

In direct answer to your question, if you believe you are taking a risk in having the operation. The greater risk would be in not having it. As for the recovery period, better be prepared that you will not bounce back like a youngster who are relatively comfortable within a day or two after the operation. You may have quite a sore throat for a week or longer. But there are always exceptions! I recall a patient who had a T & A in her 50's eating her regular diet within 48 hours.

Hopes county will be first to wipe out tuberculosis

Clarka Simpson, president of the Victoria County TB and Health Association, is hopeful that the county may become the first to wipe out tuberculosis in Ontario.

Commenting on the progress of the fall TB survey now underway, Mr. Simpson said his goal was entirely possible. The president said that "if every man, woman and child in Victoria County made use of the fall clinics we could trace and then treat every case of tuberculosis."

Mr. Simpson went on to say that "so often individuals who have been found to have tuberculosis migrate that they have felt well and had no indication that they had TB. Tuberculosis is an insidious disease — it leaves no calling card until it is in the later stages."

Reviewing the record of the clinics, the president pointed out that since the fall TB surveys started in 1959, 29 persons in Victoria County were found to be suffering from the disease. Of the 29 cases, 17 were treated in sanatoria. The average length of treatment was about six months. "This," he declared, "is a great change from the time when a diagnosis of TB meant a sanatorium because that they stay of up to two years."

The weather may be fine but... Santa's parade only month...

Although the prevailing fine weather may make thinking in terms of Santa Claus parades and Christmas difficult for the average person to dwell upon, it's something the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce has to think about — It's just one month to Santa Claus parade time in Lindsay.

Right now the committee in charge of this annual event is busy lining up entries for the 1963 parade. Committee members this year include: truck and tractor association, Gord Mackay; bands and majorettes, marching groups, Jim Nolan; black-bellied plover has been seen in flights as many as 100. Other uncommon birds include peccary sandpipers, greater and lesser yellowlegs, dunlins, sandellings and semipalmated plovers.

The new Lindsay sewage lagoon operates on bacteriological principles and therefore naturally form a sanctuary for birds to the delight of the many bird watchers in the area. "It is also creating a major tourist industry," said Gus Yaki, who claims that many parties have come to Lindsay from Toronto, Peterborough and elsewhere specifically to study the birdlife at the lagoons. The lagoons have provided an unexpected, easy opportunity for bird lovers to study the migrants.

This year's parade is being financed from C of C funds and the organization is appealing for as many entries as possible from merchants and business people.

Case set over 'till month's end

The assault charges against three town police and one provincial officer, scheduled to be heard on Tuesday, has been adjourned until October 30, Crown Attorney Jordan said.

The officers were charged a few weeks ago following a fracas near one of the local hotels.

Charges of causing a disturbance and of obstructing an officer, were laid against four former Lindsay residents, now living in Toronto.

Little Britain (PNS) — The October meeting of the Fellowship Baptist Church WMS was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Downing. The meeting opened with a hymn. He charges of causing a disturbance and of obstructing an officer, were laid against four former Lindsay residents, now living in Toronto.

The business was taken by Mrs. Carl Sorenberg opened with prayer. The scripture was then read and a hymn was sung. Mrs. Tengel read a poem "Remembrance". A session of prayer was held for the missionaries with Mrs. Norton, Mrs. Cornish and Mrs. Archer leading. The Roll Call was answered by a favorite scripture verse. A tape was then heard from Rev. English which was very interesting. Mrs. Hall closed in prayer.

Little Britain (PNS) — The regular meeting of the United Church Women, was held in the church hall.

The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by the group in charge taking the worship service. A hymn was sung. The scriptures were read by Mrs. Hoult, followed by prayer. The collection was received and dedicated. Mrs. Hoult gave a splendid talk on the blessing of Ed. Mrs. Gordon Avery gave a talk on the Study book, closing with prayer.

The business portion was taken over by the president, Mrs. S. Chidley. The minutes were read and approved. The Treasurer's report was given. A number of the boys from school sang a group of songs, led by Mrs. Rod and which were very well appreciated. Roll call was answered by each giving thanks to God for blessings we had received.

A dainty lunch was served and a vote of thanks given to all.

Other work in progress in the northern part of the riding includes a development road west of Camarvon linking Baskerville Bridge to Quinn's Corners. A development road, Mrs. Hodgson explains, is a municipal road taken over by the province for development to provincial standards and later turned back to municipality for maintenance.

Men survive L. Simcoe ordeal

James Russell, 38, Edward the boat from a Kewick Mar-of Indians reportedly led by Lorenzo Big Canoe, a former chief of the Georgina Indian band, hailed the men ashore.

HOME AND SCHOOL IDEAS
The Council of Canada has come up with some suggestions of interest to Home and School associations at this season of the year. Captioned "Fund-Raising Time", here is what it has to say:

For many who take an active part in Home & School, the visits of the Church or other organizations, the fall and winter months are usually filled with fund-raising events such as bazaar and bake-sales. A big money-making feature at any of these functions can be an active (tea-room) where visitors may relax, enjoy their tea, and chat for a while with their friends. It depends on local circumstances, of course, but tickets usually sell from 50 to 75 cents. Members and often their teenage daughters act as tea assistants.

It has been found a good plan is having bottles of kettles always ready for brewing tea in big pottery pots - ready for transfer to fancier pots or to fill trays of tea cups. Cost of the tea will be inexpensive in relation to the revenue, and therefore profitable to your group.

Food served with tea should be simple. Sandwiches must be kept closely wrapped in plastic so they will be fresh. Foods like cupcakes must have protection, too. Cookies are practical and popular.

For the sale tables, some members of your organization are likely to supply items made their spare time.
These tables of home-made delicacies will be most desired offerings may be, are always a highlight. It is amazing how quickly jams, jellies, pickles, candies and baked goods disappear.
Dollies may be displayed on food boxes in the background, ready for packing. Cardboard or foil plates and containers are very useful. Cover food with transparent film.

Fashion Hint
Here's something for the baby which will please the football-fan pop... a new diaper set has a jersey top that's fashioned along lines of a gridiron jersey.

Beauty Tip
Today's absolute beauty is one with shining eyes and teeth... with eyebrows following a natural line and shiny, shiny eye-lashes. —J.P.

Staining Wood

Try mixing two or more different colors of shoe polish proportionately in empty containers to make distinctive color tones for use in staining and waxing wood projects. Apply the mixture with a dry cloth, rubbing well into wood to achieve a mellow patina.

Stranger Pockets

If the man in your life has to carry a lot of keys or other heavy items in his trouser pockets, reinforce the pockets by lining their lower parts with some good strong chamois.

Super Scooper

If you've broken the handle off a teaspoon and don't regularly don't throw the cup away. It's a very handy gadget for scooping sugar and flour out of sacks and canisters.

Twenty-seven Lindsay voting list appeals will be forwarded to the judge to be heard at the court of revision Tuesday, Clerk Bud Bates discloses. Most picked up by the assessment department, Mr. Bates said that about six were direct appeals.

In many cases, it is found that those left off the list were those who had moved and forgot to notify the department, he said.
"There would, of course, be others who were left off the list, for various reasons, had not appealed, noted Mr. Bates."

"The Thursday Post Supplement"

a new weekly service edition

Subscribers to "The Thursday Post" are in for a surprise this week — They will be receiving two papers for the price of one and it will not be just for one week — It will be a continuing bonus.

Commencing on Friday of this week "The Thursday Post Supplement" will be published and mailed in time to reach subscribers by Saturday afternoon.

In an effort to serve both subscribers and advertisers better, it was decided to begin publishing the weekend supplement.

$80,000 drainage system for Oakwood musters required petition majority

Controversial for more than seven years the subject of open drainage was brought to a head this week when more than 40 Oakwood residents met with members of the township council and engineers to discuss a signed petition.

Village trustees Cecil Barry told "The Post" that out of the 59 eligible ratepayers in this village, 15 had signed which was barely sufficient to carry it. Providing there are no withdrawals the petition will go to the council at their next meeting for approval.

Hockey season at Cannington opens Friday

Friday, November 1st will be a big night for hockey fans with the grand opening of the Cannington Arena.

The big game of the evening will see Newmarket ers clash with the Sutton and Cannington Twins.

This should prove to be an exciting game, according to those "in the know" as Newmarket is one of the better junior clubs in Ontario and is expected to put up a good battle with the Cannington crew.

For the skaters, there will be public skating at the Arena Saturday afternoons and evenings and Sunday afternoon.

Need a House? Check the WANT ADS

ploment rather than continue with the stagnant once weekly edition which left a news and advertising gap which was considered too great to meet the needs of the district.

One of the advantages to subscribers and advertisers will be the fact that early week sales, social and entertainment events will be known well advance of their opening, thus allowing those in the outlying areas an opportunity to participate in them.

The general makeup of the regular edition of "The Thursday Post" will remain the same with comics and feature material as before. The "Supplement" will merely add to the weekly circulation service at no extra cost to the subscribers.

Since "The Thursday Post" enjoys virtually a 100 per cent rural circulation, the advantages of the arrangement will be manifest.

Look for it on Friday! — The first edition of "The Thursday Post Supplement" — Faster, more complete coverage of news and events for the rural reader.

Says municipal assistance act designed to create work

Toronto, Oct. 30, (UPI) — Members of the 27th Ontario Legislature got down to the main business of their special first session this morning.

The Municipal Works Assistance Act — Introduced by municipal Affairs Minister J. W. Spence — is designed to create additional employment by encouraging the municipalities to accelerate the construction of capital work projects.

Spence told the house the bill will authorize him to make necessary arrangements for borrowing money from the federal government's municipal development and loan fund.

A municipal project, to be eligible for a loan, must extend to ten dollars over a two year period.

Confesses to faking holdup, nervous young man freed

A young Fenton Falls resident of three months told Ontario Magistrate C.D. Guest today that he was so afraid to work alone at his job as welder in a steel yard, that he had been forced to come and keep him company, and fabricated a story of being held up and robbed to try and impress his employer.

Jean Marcell Millette (father of three children) pleading guilty to a charge of public mischief said that he had been working at the gravel pit for the past few months and had become very nervous and a fraud someone might attack him. He confessed he had asked his employer to let him have a gun for protection and when refused, pretended to be the victim of a holdup.

OPP Const. G. Saunders said he had been called to the home of Herman Franks farmer near Onaness to find the accused, who said he had been bound and gagged and relieved of a sum of money by two men.

His assailants had tied his hands and feet, gagged him took his wallet and knocked him unconscious the accused told the officer. He also told them that when he came to he had found his car keys and wallet and drove to the home of Mr. Franks and informed him of the robbery.

He later signed a statement saying that he had done it to gain attention.

"This is not a case of punishment but a case of help," remarked Crown Attorney J. Dan.

"This is a serious offence but under the circumstances I will suspend sentence and flooded in the early spring. The proposed new system calls for sewers to be sunk at various levels and in certain sections to control the flow of surface water drainage.

The legislation — promised by the Conservatives during the September election campaign — will allow Ontario municipalities to take early advantage of the Federal government's 400-million dollar municipal development and loan fund.

The Federal Fund resulted from last July's Federal provincial conference when Ontario and Quebec demanded the province be permitted to control disbursement of the federal money and broadened the type of projects to be financed.

Under the federal formula for the fund, Ontario will receive in the vicinity of 140-million dollars over a two year period.

ster Manufacturing Co. of those days was 30 years ahead of the times when it turned out a gas-powered combine in 1908 and shipped it to Alberta.

Although the machine worked, it didn't catch on because few could operate it. It is believed to have rusted out in some remote section of the province. Lindsay's streets may not be paved with gold but they can generally be counted upon to have a liberal sprinkling of glass on them.

The federal member of parliament for this riding, Charles Lamb — says the good manners of his youth impress him. He was commenting on the fact that a seven-year-old Oakwood girl had taken the time to hand-print him a letter of appreciation. The letter read: "Dear Mr. Lamb — I received your dollar for showing my calf at Oakwood Fair. I would like to say thank you. Yours truly, Catherine Ann Parkin." Mr. Lamb contributed a dollar to every calf club entry which didn't finish in the prize money.

flutes to a brass band and heard perfectly. "It's a musical centre as well as a wonderful place in which to speak", he said.

Former Premier Leslie M. Post introduced the guest speaker and said, "The purpose of our being here is not really to preserve an old friend — the being of the theatre, which goes back into the roots of Lindsay's past, but rather by doing these things to make our contribution here in Lindsay towards the development in Canada and the province of Ontario of our character — a more complete coverage of news and events for the rural reader."

Rev. Robert McLean speaking briefly, said that the foundation had great hopes for the theatre's use to provide facilities for meetings of any kind and thus become a part of the public life of the community.

Foundation Chairman, Dr. C.M. Service, in bringing the meeting to a close, said it was not enough to be inspired but that inspiration must be translated into action to make the campaign a success.

Following the talk by Arnold Edinburgh, many listeners stayed to hear from Herbert Watson on how the foundation hoped to raise the money necessary to save the theatre. Mr. Watson outlined the various categories of membership, which has been patterned after Stratford Theatre practice. A subscription of from $1 to $100 will constitute annual membership; of subscription of from $100 to $500 will constitute permanent membership; a subscription of from $500 to $1,000 will constitute sustaining membership; a subscription of from $1,000 or more will constitute a founding membership. Subscriptions are payable over a period of three years.

Mrs. C. Rowan speaks at Bethany WI meet

Bethany (PNS)—The Bethany W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Earl McQuaid.

The program on historical research was in charge of Mrs. Thomas Jackson who gave comments on the evening's motto "Our Yesterdays are the rocks on which we build our tomorrows" relating it to the debts which we owe our pioneering ancestors.

Mrs. Clarence Rowan gave an informative talk on "The History Of The Dominion of Canada" beginning with the first French settlers in 1629 and the early government of the Company of One Hundred Associates which we owe to 1663. She said "at this time the system of Royal Government commences and lasted for 90 years. This Sovereign Council included the Governor, who was responsible for defence and negotiation with the Indian tribes. The intendant was responsible for trade and industry; the Bishop was interested in the religious life of the colony; in the schools and hospital which were enterprises of the Church and in the missions among the Indians. Far seeing, courageous and devoted leadership was the secret of Royal Government's success in its early years. One of the most noted leaders were Jean Talon, Pierre de LaVal and Count Frontenac.

"English immigrants did not agree with the French system of government, but English were a minority group until 1749 when the British took the first step by founding Halifax, N.S. England and France went to war in 1756 beginning The Seven Years War which ended with the Treaty of Paris Treaty in 1763".

Mrs. Rowan discussed the coming of the United Empire Loyalists, the Constitutional Act of 1791 establishing Upper and Lower Canada, the causes and consequences of the War of 1812; the increasing number of immigrants; the Fathers of Confederation and the joining of the provinces to be known as The Dominion of Canada on July 1, 1867.

The speaker continued with an explanation of the present democratic form of Government which is ruled by the people, listing the duties and responsibilities of those elected to Dominion and Provincial Parliaments, City and county councils, municipal councils, school boards, etc., listing the names of the present representatives.

In conclusion, Mrs. Rowan said "To be a good citizen a Canadian must not only be obedient to the laws but must actively participate in the government of the country by voting intelligently and wisely and by knowing the work and methods of government. Laws shall be made and only by voting intelligently can we Canadians meet the responsibility which democratic government imposes."

Pictures of Parliament in session were shown.

Miss Muriel Nelson of the Bethany 4-H Club, who had completed 12 units of club work and won her Provincial honors and who had been chosen to represent Durham County, gave an excellent account of her recent trip to New York. In company with 54 boys and girls she visited the 4-H centre at Washington, The White House, Maryland University, Gettysburg, Mount Vernon, the Rockefeller Center, NBC studios, attended a baseball game at Yankee Stadium and listened to a session at the United Nations in New York City. Miss Neale showed many pictures of the places visited.

Mrs. Harry Ryley presided for the business session. The roll call was answered by the name of a woman famous in Canadian history. Mrs. Earl McQuaid gave an interesting resume of current events. Display were the two safety posters, one made by the 4-H club girls which won first prize at Orono, with its theme "Can you stop time in time?" featuring a red stop sign and pictures of the result of tail-gating. This poster now goes on to complete with neighboring counties at the zone rally in Peterborough. The second one entered under the Bethany W.I. and which won third prize was the work of Mrs. R.G. Preston, who donated the prize money to the Institute.

Mrs. Vincent Jackson will be the official delegate to the area convention in Toronto next month, with Mrs. Harry Ryley and Mrs. R.G. Preston also attending.

Mrs. Hector Morton expressed the thanks of the members to the hostesses for the use of her home and to all those who had participated in the program.

Lunch was served by Mrs. E. McQuaid, Mrs. C. Rowan, Mrs. T. Jackson and Mrs. R. Carr.

After being served delicious refreshments the Claremont Auxiliary was thanked by the president, Mrs. Bennett on behalf of the Sunderland Ladies for a delightful evening.

Lindsay Rotary will be among convention hosts

Lindsay Rotary Club will be one of the host groups to the Rotary International Convention to be held in Toronto in June 1964. Rotarian Jos. Caulder, of Toronto, a former District Governor, informed local Rotarians of this fact at Monday's meeting. He also imparted the information that Rotary now circles the world with a membership of upwards of 17,000 in approximately 150 countries. It is anticipated that all of these nations will be represented at the Toronto convocation. Clubs within a radius of 80 miles of the city will act as hosts and the Lindsay Club will work towards a 100 percent attendance.

Aims of the Academy Foundation outlined by its president
Lindsay, Ontario,
October 20th,
October 29th, 1968.

The Editor,
Lindsay Daily Post,
Lindsay, Ont.

Dear Sir:
I wish to take advantage of your newspaper column to announce the starting date of the campaign for funds for the Academy Theatre Foundation. The date of the campaign is November 15th, to November 30th. We are confident from the large measure of support we have received from many community organizations and interested citizens that the campaign will go well.

As you are aware the campaign figure is $45,000.00 for purchase, renovation and repair of the building, plus a further $100,000.00 to be secured as a permanent endowment for the theatre.

We wish to make it clear to the community that we see this as a community asset, as a centre for community activities of all kinds and as a fund raising possibility for all community groups who wish to use it in the future. The basic function of the Academy Theatre Foundation is to preserve this building for the citizens of Lindsay and the County of Victoria for many years to come. It will be useful for many large scale meetings, of many kinds and with the renovation of the front section of the building, public rooms may be made available for other projects as well.

May I thank you for the editorial support which your paper has given this project in the recent past. May I bespeak your continued support and that of all the citizens in this area in the upcoming fund-

Ambush Unit
Communist guerrillas have ambushed a South Vietnamese unit and captured three American military advisers. The Americans were believed to be two officers and one enlisted man. The two officers reportedly were wounded. An U.S. spokesman says every possible source of intelligence is being used in an effort to find the captured Americans. Twenty government troops were reported killed in the ambush and 32 wounded.

At Least Tomorrow Night
Three men trapped in a flooded iron mine at Peine, Germany will have to wait until at least tomorrow night before they can be freed. Mine manager Rudolf Stein says gravel in the partially-completed escape shaft is snagging steel pipe being lowered to line the hole. He says the shaft may have to be re-dredged. The three miners have been trapped 262 feet underground since last Thursday.

Accept Invitation
Catholic bishops at the Ecumenical Council overwhelmingly accepted Pope Paul's invitation to assume a larger role in church government. The bishops approved a doctrine asserting their right to share full authority over the church with the pope. The Council also approved a restoration of the ancient Order of Deacons - ordained clergymen who perform some of the duties of priests.

Motions Defeated
Two no-confidence motions directed against the government's defense policies were defeated in the Commons last night. A Credit amendment to the main Conservative motion was voted down 210 to 27 with Tory support. The Creditline motion condemned the government for "subserviently" accepting nuclear arms in Quebec. The three minority opposition parties joined with the Liberals for a 155 to 85 defeat of the Conservative motion.

Dangerous
Prime Minister Pearson said last night it would be dangerous for elements in Canada to take advantage of the Great Lakes labor dispute to promote anti-Americanism. Mr. Pearson also said in an Ottawa speech a "serious situation" in Canadian-American relations would develop if U.S. unions retaliated against the government's Maritime union trusteeship.

Not Possible
Health Minister Judy LaMarsh says that it is not possible to get a specific date for presenting the government's controversial pension plan. In answer to criticisms of delay from New Democrat Stanley Knowles, she said the administration "has no intention of being stampeded into action" when the plan is not fully understood and there is still misinformation being distributed.

The draw for the 30-30 Winchester rifle was made at the Cannington Gun Club with 12 members present, Master Cameron Colton made the draw and the winner was Mr. Alexander Forbes.

Played piano for local band, re-visits town

Roy Graham, A.T.C.M. pianist and bandman of Timmins, renewed acquaintances with many friends in Lindsay last week. He will be 63, and has been a member of many bands as the piano player who some 25 years ago was one of the very widely known show extras comprising Art Hooper, Fred Martin, Bill Heffernan and Mark Lipke. This group of highly talented musicians occupied seats in the old Academy pit and took part in many amateur productions.

It is interesting to note that Roy Graham was a pupil of the late Miss J. Jackson who had a house studio on Cambridge Street N., and that he secured his A.T.C.M. following tuition under the late Miss Nell Brown. For a time he studied pipe organ with the late Mr. Lloyd Wood, then organist and choirmaster at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He was keenly interested in learning from the old Academy theatre is to be preserved.

"Let us get away from issuing so many debentures" urged Victoria County Warden John Childs speaking on Friday at the annual dinner of the Warden's Banquet held at Cameron. Mr. Childs said he would like to see one mill set aside each year by county council as a contingency fund. "To make provision for the future," Mr. Childs stated that the county debenture debt is now approaching the $2,000,000 mark and claimed there would be no relief from the debt until 1967 when one of the major issues is retired.

The warden also suggested the formation of a past warden organization, he felt the group could meet annually and serve a useful purpose. Mr. Childs also told county council additional space would be required soon at the county home for the aged and said that additional space is being provided at the courthouse building. He suggested that council might make plans for new building under the government's centennial program. Speakers at the warden's banquet included former Ontario premier Leslie M. Frost, Carden reeve Edward Murphy, Victoria riding MP Charles Lamb, Glen Hodgson MP, Haliburton County Warden Lawrence Pritchard and Lindsay mayor Joseph Holton. Lindsay's former OPP reeve and other former wardens present included Wilbert Worsley, John Walton, Lyle Wylie, Clifford Martin, Raymond Coxing, William Fox, John Best, James Butler, Roy Bontam, Grant Benson, Thomas Martin and Sherman Moore.

Entertainment at the warden's banquet was provided by a Woodville quartet, "The Woodwinds".

A fire broke out in a house belonging to Mr. Joseph Wylie of Manilla shortly before eleven o'clock Saturday. At the time Mr. Wylie was working on his job as weekend watchman for the Canada Crayon Co. in Lindsay and Mrs. Wylie and her four children were in bed asleep. "I woke up, sensing something was wrong," said Mrs. Wylie. "I thought one of the children had gone downstairs. I called down, then realized all the children were in bed, got up and then I saw a figure going quickly down the stairs. He went out the back door and closed the door behind him."

After Mr. Wylie got over her shock she roused the children and with a flashlight searched the house as the lights wouldn't operate. Her 15-year old son went out to the woodshed at the back and found that the master of the mischief had been there. The intruder had entered by standing on a wagon wheel against the house and pushing through a screened window and reached the bolt on the door from there.

"Not a thing was touched," said Mrs. Wylie. "It appears the visitor was scared off before he was able to touch anything." Mrs. Wylie said the kitchen contained a number of packed tins as she and the children were off to work for a vacation in a few weeks.

A few weeks said that after the man left, she did not know where he had been. She described the man from the glimpses she got of him, as being medium in height and wearing a white or light colored shirt. The electric clock in the house had stopped at 10:45, the time the light had been switched off on the main switch.

The police were called and made an investigation at the house.

Noticed along the way

Justice was swiftly meted out in Lindsay court today when Magistrate Guest found a former Lindsay man-Ross McGill guilty of causing a disturbance on Kent St. early Sunday morning and fined him $50 and costs.

Charges leading up to the trial followed another fracas similar to the one a few weeks ago near one of the local hotels when a number of town police arrested five former Lindsayites and charged them with creating a disturbance.

Sgt. C. Eberts told the court he had been called to the Lindsay Cafe around 12:30 a.m. Sunday morning and found a disturbance on Kent St. about 1:30 a.m. and a number of men fighting.

After a while, said the officer, the accused had appeared and started to swear and curse someone in the apartment above the restaurant.

A young man came running out of the crowd and saying he had been struck on the head and then the accused was noticed running away.

Four officers were required to subdue McGill and put him in the cruiser, the officer testified.

McGill, who pleaded guilty to the charge, admitted drinking and asked the court if he could be put on the "Indian list" as he always got into trouble when drinking.

"I think the L.C.B.O. would be only to happy to oblige you" dryly remarked Magistrate Guest.

Many friends attended the funeral from Toronto, Ont. as well as Stouffville, Beaverton, Cannington, Lindsay and surrounding district.

ON SPECIAL OCCASIONS

Special refreshments such as plain bread or biscuits are usually best after most meetings but there are occasions, such as honoring a retiring committee member, or celebrating an anniversary, when you wish to serve something a little more special.

This is the time for fancy sandwiches — served with piping hot tea and a few little cakes. Novelty sandwiches are quite simple to make. Here are the directions for two varieties.

Ribbon Sandwiches — are easy to make and pretty on a plate. They lend themselves well to carrying out a party table color scheme. Tinted cream cheese — any flavor — is easy to make and makes an ideal filling. With no color scheme in mind almost any paste-like filling may be used — all the way from peanut butter and chopped dates to meat or seafood patties.

Use uniformly sliced bread — both white and brown. The regular commercial thickness is ideal for these and although sandwich loaves are best loaves of ordinary shape they do nicely.

Stack four to six slices of bread alternating colors, one upon the other with the filling between the slices. The layers of filling may all be the same or they may be varied. The use of butter or margarine first, depends upon the type of filling being used. Press down on the stack lightly, to make a compact block. The block is kitchen-scraper cut thoroughly. Close to serving time, unwrap the block and cut into very thin slices, cut off the crusts. Cut the block into uniform slices; cut each slice in half, crosswise.

Cheeseboard sandwiches — complicated though they may appear, are also easy to make. Make up a block of sandwiches as for the ribbon — use an equal number of slices of bread so that the bottom of the pile is white and the top brown — two slices of each make sandwiches of nice party size.

After chilling remove the crusts and cut the block into slices of the same thickness as the original cut bread. Re-assemble the block turning every second slice over so that the brown is on the top of white and white on brown. Spread the slices with filling as you put them in place. One block of ribbon and sandwich will make two blocks of cheeseboard. Press down lightly, wrap and chill thoroughly.

HOW CAN I??

Q. How should plane keys be cleaned?
A. In the first place, don't use water. Wipe the keys with a piece of flannel dipped in wood alcohol or cologne. Or mix some powdered French chalk with benzine, and rub the keys with this. In any case, be sure to dry them thoroughly with another soft cloth.

Q. What is a good home-made solution for cleaning painted walls?
A. Combine two ounces of borax, one teaspoon of ammonia and two quarts of water. You'll need no soap. Apply this with a soft cloth.

VINYL WINDOWS
Winter is around the corner and there are many products designed to take some of the sting out of winter's chill winds — here is a new vinyl storm window which is said to insulate better — no cold, no rattling and rusting. Only an occasional washing is needed to keep it clean and sparkling. The three-channel combination storm windows of white rigid vinyl does not sweat on the inside because the vinyl coat makes it non-stick — no cold, no rust.

MUSIC SPOONS
Music spoons — redesigned and underwritten by a dental surgeon — come with simplified directions for playing. The manufacturer says they are ideal for the professional musician and those who just like to comb out "a little rhythm."

"Old Squaw" lands on road, on display in pet shop

Bird lovers are being treated to an unusual sight at the Lindsay Pet Shop on Kent St. where the proprietor Gus Ydell has an Old Squaw female duck on display.

Brought in the shop last week by the Department of Lands and Forests the bird, whose habitat is the Great Lakes and the Atlantic coast, was unharmed when found on the highway and brought into the department.

Mr. Ydell explained that the bird could have been one of a migrating group who mistook the highway for a stretch of water and after it had been unable to find it as it requires a long run on the water for "skimming" as it is called.

"You would not normally see this bird in these areas," he said, as their breeding grounds are on the Arctic coast, and they range the Great Lakes and across the Atlantic to North Carolina.

"They are not a suitable game bird as they range too far out on the lakes," he said. "One remarkable feature about the bird" he added, "is that it is a diving bird. It has been found as deep as 90 feet below the water in fishermen's nets."

The name "Old Squaw" was given the bird owing to the arguing and grumbling they seem to do during mating season and when they are gathered together," he said. The bird, from a breed that very seldom sees humans, seemed quite fearless, he noted.

Champs Two Years Running Report over 1,000 employed in district wood industries

This revealing report from the Department of Lands and Forests (Lindsay district) also states that through these efforts, over $10 million products worth of forestry products are produced.

Saluting National Forest Week (October 20 to 26), District Forester A. Walcott states in the report that "Canada is still a forest country with over half our land area wooded."

Today the productivity and development of Canada as its early development is still dependent on the vigor of our forest industries. One dollar in every seven of our national income and one dollar in every three from our export trade is produced by the forest trade. The demand for wood is increasing commensurate with the expected to double within the next 20 years. Over 200 millions have been spent on plantations in western Canada in the past five years alone indicating the progressive nature of the industry.

Mrs. W. Coulter hostess to WI

Many interesting ideas on the value of fall fairs were given during the roll call at the October meeting of the Kawartha Valley Women's Institute which was held at the home of Mrs. W. Coulter with 17 members and two visitors present. Mrs. Harold Beatty as Convener of Agriculture, in a brief but interesting paper told of the value of fall fairs as an incentive to improve products and livestock, as a thanksgiving for bountiful harvest, as a social gathering for the community and as a sort of Old Time Week where former residents may renew acquaintances. Mrs. Bertram Robertson conducted a contest which was won by Mrs. Frank Augustus. Mrs. Harold Beatty also showed slides of the Kawartha and Lindsay fairs and some pictures of local events including some recent weddings.

During the business period the members reported on how much each had contributed through Talent Money, Bake Sale and other fund-raising events including some recent weddings.

Bass, muskie season extended. L. Scugog open to November 30

On muskies for bass and muskies in Ontario has been extended to November 30 this year reports the Department of Lands and Forests.

This will constitute a change for a major portion of the province which previously had a bass and muskie season terminating on October 15.

In the exceptions to the new regulations the report points out, all fishing is prohibited after October 15.

The exceptions are as follows:

1. Algonquin Provincial Park.
2. The Counties of Durham and Northumberland in Victoria except Lake Simcoe.
3. The county of Peterborough, excluding the Township of Anstruther, Cavendish, and Chatham.
4. The county of Harvey Township lying northerly of Number 36 highway, and the county of Burin Township north of Stony Lake.
5. Dalrymple Lake, (also known as Mud Lake), in the County of Hastings.

The department says it is not anticipated that a large number of anglers will take advantage of the extension and it is unlikely that many fish will be harvested. The season will open, however, for those hardy enough to wish to fish. This practice of permitting more liberalized opportunity to fish has met with general public approval and has been recommended to some degree by representatives of the various groups interested fisheries.

"It is hoped," said Chairman Curran, "to have the pasture program available for next spring, but first certain policies must be adopted and set out."

The matter of identification of cattle posed some problems and discussion on the merits of a ranch mark, in the form of a brand, was held.

Should be prepared to buy "open space" planners told

Riverbank "open space" Board member J. McQuarrie said: "If we want to get down to business, maybe the town should set up a budget to buy a certain amount of open space each year."

Referring to the case at hand, Mr. McQuarrie said he realized we have to compromise. "I don't mind the odd bite into open space here and there—If we bought up all the rest of the open space on the plan I've presented a substantial undertaking in the next 20 years."

Mayor Holton: Since most people live on the west side of the river, maybe we should concentrate on acquiring the open space on the east side.

Mr. McQuarrie: But don't you think some policy should be set up?

Mayor Holton: "That is sound planning but don't forget the maximum the parks board can have is one mill. In the past the parks board has spent money for them over and above their budget."

Upshot of a prolonged period of the town's open space plan was the board's decision to review the situation again following a tour of the area on Sunday afternoon.

Chairman John Ekins endorsed the mayor's views when he told the meeting: "If the town wants to buy open space should be prepared to buy it. I don't think we should tie up this land. We should agree to some policy for acquiring it."

It's Cheaper To Buy Off The Shelf

As anyone who has been reading the newspaper for a long time knows, the auto industry is in a bit of a jam. In case you haven't had time for the news columns, auto makers have found out the hard way by having to wait three to four weeks for a new delivery.

It's getting all the more difficult to get a new car. It's getting so difficult that it's buying new cars is becoming a real problem. It's almost really costing the Consumer a lot of money. If you can't get a new car, you can't get a new car.

Anyway, if you are one of the thousands of people who are sick of your old car and want to get a new one, you should do better to seriously consider buying off the shelf.

The variety of options such as air conditioning, power windows, etc., are fantastic. The industry is now offering a lot of new features and not have any real alternatives. It's almost really costing the Consumer a lot of money. If you can't get a new car, you can't get a new car.

There are two ways to get a new car. One is to buy off the shelf. The other is to buy a new car. It's almost really costing the Consumer a lot of money. If you can't get a new car, you can't get a new car.

Come in now and look at what we have to offer. It's a real order from the factory. It's a real order from the factory. It's a real order from the factory.

DIAGNOSIS OF HYPOTHYROIDISM OFTEN OVERLOOKED

Hypothyroidism (underactive thyroid) is, I think, one of the most commonly missed diagnoses in medicine. Unless the examining doctor always has its possibility in mind, he may overlook it.

In the typical case, which is difficult to miss, the patient is sluggish mentally and physically. His skin is dry, pale, slow, the patient cannot stand the cold and is sometimes over weight. However, there are patients who do not present the typical symptoms.

One may complain of lassitude, another of extreme nervousness, and still another of depression for which he can find no cause.

I have found that I have spent a lot of money on examination but no doctor even thought of checking the function of my thyroid gland. At least I requested the last doctor to proved. Now three months after the birth of my second baby, my hair is starting to fall out again.

I have a boy and a girl—a perfect family after 15 years of childless marriage, so I don't plan to have more children. This condition with my hair upsets me terribly, as much this time as the first.

Even though I have consulted by obstetrician and dermatologist, who assured me they knew of no case that failed to recover, they said there was no way of speeding it along. I am hoping you can suggest something to help me over this trying period. I know yours are the fact but I can't afford them—Mrs. S.

Comment: Patience is the watchword. I, like your doctor, know of nothing that will speed the cure. But isn't it reassuring to know that it won't be long before you will have your normal quota of hair back? I hope that's much better than getting a verdict stepped in hopelessness.

Mrs. H. Westcott speaks at WMS Thackoffering

The Thackoffering meeting of St. Andrew's W. M. S. was held in the Christian Education Hall, when the W. M. S. members, The Home Helpers, The President of Lindsay Presbyterian, Mrs. H. Westcott, and other guests enjoyed a potluck dinner.

STOP!... killing yourself

By Peter J. Steincrohn, MD, F.A.C.P.

MILK BAD FOR CHILDREN? Look robust at all. My three children are normal and healthy. What do you think?

DON'T LISTEN TO AMATEURS Comment: Let them have milk till the cows come home. M.c.b., well-meaning back-fence health therapy is far off the beam. All it produces is frustration and concern.

GALLSTONES, THEN SHINGLES Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am a woman almost 70. I suffered from gall bladder stones for a long time. Finally I found a wonderful surgeon who removed them. After a few months I felt like a new person at business in no time. More so, important, we'd have a lot of underdeveloped children on our hands.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have a problem which I hope someone will solve. I have a lovely kind and generous sister. However she has an aversion in regards to milk for human consumption. She makes me feel as though I am poisoning my children when I serve them milk—especially when it is combined with meat at the table. Her two grandchildren (11 and 2 years of age) have never had milk. I wish she is ruining their health, as they do not bring relief. Mrs. S.

Comment: Chances are what you have is posthypertensive. It's not uncommon in people of your age group who have suffered an attack of shingles (herpes). As in your case, dozens of remedies are often of no help in bringing comfort.

But it pays to keep trying, because often the doctor will find one which will help. Here's a suggestion. Has your doctor tried treating the painful area a few times a day with ethyl chloride? It's a simple procedure and some reports in the literature have been favorable. Don't expect too much, but keep hoping.

INDIGESTION EVERY DAY Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have indigestion every day. The X-rays showed no stones, only non-functioning gall bladder. My doctor advises against operation because I am miserable. After eating I am miserable. What do you think?

Comment: I have advised many people with stones not to rush into operation because they had no indigestion or other discomforts. On the other hand, as in patients like yourself, I believe that operation should be seriously considered.

Your gall bladder is probably diseased and won't get better with medicines alone. Besides, sometimes stones don't show up on the X-rays. At operation some may be removed. Still, way, I think you should consult for another opinion. I don't think you should suffer unnecessarily.

STOP!... killing yourself

By Peter J. Steinerhorn, M.D., F.A.C.P.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Few things upset a patient more than a difference of opinion about his condition. When doctors disagree how is the frustrated patient to know just what is what? The following letter is an example:

Dear Dr. Steinerhorn: About 18 years ago a heart defect prompted a doctor to advise me to have my children only be Caesarian. I had two children by operation.

During the years that followed, this doctor, a well-known cardiologist, has kept watch over me and I followed his advice carefully. As a result, I have reached my early fifties with a healthy mental attitude and with very few physical upsets.

Recently this doctor passed away. Thinking the wisest course would be to consult a heart specialist I made an appointment with one of apparent high standing in our community. This specialist merely listened to my heart without benefit of any instrument. He said he couldn't understand why I had to have my children by section and intimated I was being neurotic about it all.

He told me to go home and forget about it and get a job to keep busy (I am a nursery teacher). Had my old doctor been wrong all these years? How can any specialist tell for certain the condition of a person's heart without taking X rays electrocardiograms and making other tests? I am really mixed up and lost. You can understand how I miss my old doctor, Mrs. T.

GET THIRD OPINION

Comment: People who have depended so much on one doctor through the years, and have at last lost him, will understand how Mrs. T. feels. Such a loss is not easily replaced. The feeling is intensified when one receives a medical opinion which is exactly opposite to the one which the patient has lived with for years. Take your case, Mrs. T., as an example.

Of course, I can't tell you whether or not you have heart disease. Your old doctor may have been right or wrong. But if I had to vote, I'd favor the one who was patient and careful. I don't see how a modern cardiologist can be sure of his diagnosis by listening only for a few minutes with the stethoscope and making his pronouncement.

Rather than live in apprehension and confusion, I suggest, Mrs. T., that you seek a third opinion as soon as you can. When you call for your appointment ask to speak to the doctor and explain your predicament. He will be especially careful in his examination so that he can make the proper decision. At that time you will have your diagnosis and abide by it. That's about all you can do now.

Dear Dr. Steinerhorn: Nine months ago when my baby was born his belly button was protruding about one-half inch. To this day it is still protruding. I have shown this to the doctor, but he has shown no concern over it. Would you please advise me if this is serious? Will it eventually go away? Mrs. A.

Sometime I am as unconcerned about it as your own doctor. Eventually these problems solve themselves. In a few months it is likely to disappear as the youngster's abdominal muscles grow stronger.

STOP!... killing yourself

By Peter J. Steincrohn, MD., F.A.C.P.

IT'S AS EASY AS BREATHING

As easy as breathing? Nonetheless it can be a terribly trying procedure. Most of us aren't even aware of the intake and output of air. However, there are thousands of Americans who go through life saying they can't take a satisfactory breath. As a result, they fear they have heart trouble or something else wrong. Life for them becomes mere existence rather than living. For example:

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have a problem. I suffer from shortness of breath. I have to try and try until I finally get a deep breath. In the meantime I feel weak, cold, and can hardly walk.

I went to a heart specialist three years ago. He took an electrocardiogram and examined me. He found nothing wrong. Can that be possible? He gave me some sedatives and tranquilizers. One time while in his office I felt with my husband and felt faint. I had shortness of breath and could hardly think. I screamed for oxygen. The ambulance came got there just in time. This has happened quite often. I also get a choking sensation. I have to gasp for a deep breath. At night, just as I am about to fall asleep, I feel my heart skip. Then I have to get out of bed and walk up and down until I get that long deep breath that I need.

This has been going on for years. It's not my imagination, believe me. Sometimes I may be on a bus or car and have to get out of back to try and get a deep breath. When I explain this to people they don't seem to understand or believe me. Can you help? Mrs. S.

PSYCHONEUROSIS

Comment: I can only guess, but a good bet is that you are suffering from what we call an anxiety state of psychoneurosis. I repeat, this is only a guess. But your symptoms call to mind hundreds of patients like yourself whom I have treated over the years. And at me say right off, it's not imagination.

People like you suffer the tortures of the damned. Many's the night I have popped out of bed in answer to what the telephone voice said was a heart attack. I'd get there, and find the patient—lying laboriously sitting up in bed and saying, "Doctor, I'm dying. I can't catch my breath." I'd give reassurance and a sedative and within minutes the patient would quiet down. The heart would be perfectly all right.

The reason these symptoms latch on for years is that the patient remains nervous. It's the doctor's job to discover what is causing the trouble. Not an easy job, I assure you. It may be that family trouble is at the bottom of it. Perhaps financial problems. Love. Hate. Resentment. Fear. Tension. Add them all up or subtract some of them, and there is the cause of the neurosis.

The remedy must come from the will to fight in the patient himself. Nevertheless the doctor must be there all ways willing to help and encourage. Sometimes the patient's family doctor needs the advice of a psychiatrist in helping the frightened patient. There's a condition called "hyperventilation" (in which the patient sighs a lot, breathes too fast and too deep) which causes extreme nervousness and palpitation. Often the patient improves rapidly when this phenomenon is explained to him.

As I see it, Mrs. S., your first job is to accept your doctor's diagnosis and be thankful you do not have heart disease. Listen to his advice, take the necessary medications he prescribes and have faith that the will come when breathing will be easy again.

By Peter J. Steincorn, M.D., F.A.C.P.

DON'T TAKE THYROID IN ORDER TO REDUCE. Dear Dr. Steincorn: I am on a diet, walk a great deal, but seldom lose. For six weeks I have given up cake, candy, ice cream, sweet drinks and tried to eat fruits and drink fruit juices in place of the others. I lost only about five pounds in that time. I go to a nerve specialist and he tells me not to take thyroid extract to reduce. He claims it would upset my whole nervous system, would lose 40 pounds, and I am getting desperate—Mrs. K.

Comment: In most cases of obesity, the patient is prone to do so. Perhaps taking tranquilizers will help more than thyroid.

The problem of weight reduction is met and fought on many individual battlefields. Many lose; many win. Here, for example, is an entirely different outlook on weight reduction from Mrs. F.:

Dead Dr. Steincorn: I went on a self-improvement program without consulting a doctor. I have been losing about two pounds a week. Since I am 43 and did not put on all that blubber in a few months I have sense to eat correctly and am on a sensible diet.

Now, as I said, I put myself on an improvement program, completely on an improvement program. I changed my outlook. I have great patience in reducing, get proper rest in the afternoon, take sensible calisthenics and a good half-hour brisk walk daily. Am also adopting a new hairdo and skin care and pay strict attention to my posture. One is never too old to improve, and I just politely may use my mind—Mrs. G.

Mrs. R.: Taking colchicine pills for gout will not weaken the blood.

Mr. T.: If your doctor has prescribed the sleeping pills for a few weeks don't hesitate to take. Don't go worrying about "withdrawal symptoms" about such small doses.

Mrs. G.: Using underarm deodorants and antiperspirants which contain aluminum will not cause cancer.

Mr. R.: Phlebitis is an inflammation of the veins which should not be treated lightly. Chances are that simple measures will help overcome the trouble. However, it's important to know its source and extent to prevent complications.

Mr. L.: Lately, it seems, I have been getting many letters from anxious readers who are concerned about the size of their navel. More people seem engaged in the philosophical contemplation of their midsection. From what you tell me, I'd say you can forget about your navel. If still in doubt, see your family doctor.

Mr. C.: A quart of skimmed milk daily won't hurt you at 48; any more than it did at 18 or will at 78.

Mrs. L.: It's unusual for the "flu" to last for two months. Better have your doctor recheck you.

Former Mariposa reeve returns on flying trip to Rome

Airlines public relations men have a good thing going in Owen Sweetman of Little Britain—He's 100 per cent for flying to wherever you're going.

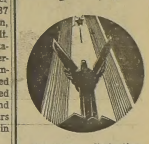

"I can't say too much for flying," the former Mariposa reeve said following an air trip which took him non-stop to Rome in 8½ hours and on a circuitous route home via Germany and Great Britain.

Owen Sweetman, Mrs. Sweetman and their daughter Nancy have just returned from attending the 17th International Union Against Tuberculosis Conference in the eternal city. Held every two years, the last meeting was held in Toronto. The Sweetmans travelled on a flight chartered by the Canadian Air Transport and were away for four weeks, first of all attending the conference in the Concert Auditorium in Rome which was filled to capacity for the opening ceremonies by the President of the Italian Republic and the Italian minister of health. The following meeting were held in the Congress Building in Rome. Speakers from many countries discussed different organizational pro-tives, and picked up their charter flight home from London returning to Mallon airport at the conclusion of a most interesting journey.
